CAPONE CITY HALL BOSS: LYLE

MICHIGAN FRATS FACE DISCIPLINE AFTER RUM RAID

Liquor Found in 5 Chapter Houses.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, today turned over to the university committee on student affairs full authority to deal with conditions disclosed by police raids early this morning. Five Greek letter fraternity houses were raided and a large quantity of liquor was confiscated. Seventy-nine students residing in the houses were listed for possible arrest.

Dr. Ruthven said the matter would be left entirely in the hands of the committee as to what action would be taken regarding the fraternities and the students as individuals. The committee will meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow.

Commends the Police.

President Ruthven's statement regarding the raids said:

"I want to commend the police officials of Ann Arbor and Washtenaw county.

"Fraternity houses here have maintained that they are organizations to a large extent independent of the university. They have pointed out that they are taxpaying units and therefore are to be considered, at least in part, private houses.

"This attitude has been accepted by the university, but with certain reservations. The right to regulate the manner in which the house parties and other social events shall be conducted is retained by the university, as well as the authority to control the living conditions.

Must Face the Law.

"If the fraternities are in any sense private houses, and since they are taxpaying institutions, they are answerable to civil authorities as well as to the university. Therefore, as I see it, in cases where they have collided with the law, they, and not the university, are answerable.

"Because the fraternities are in a real sense under the regulations of the university, they are subject to discipline by the university as well as the civil authorities."

Because of the comment the raids have occasioned it is believed that the committee will wield a big stick in dealing with the fraternities. The individuals are expected to be dealt with more leniently unless the disorderly charges are carried through and convictions are obtained.

The raids this morning were on the chapter houses of Delta Kappa Epsilon, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, and Theta Delta Chi.

Warrants charging the seventy-nine students found in these houses with disorderly conduct have been signed, but it is doubtful if they will be issued. The students were told to appear in justice court at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Prominent Students Involved.

Among prominent students who were taken to the police station were James O. Harrison Simrall Jr. of Lexington, Ky., captain of the 1930 football team and a member of Phi Delta Theta; Merton Bell of Detroit, president of the student council, a member of Kappa Sigma; Joe Russell of Grand Rapids, sports editor of the Michigan Daily, a member of Theta Delta Chi. Chet Forsythe of Jackson, night editor of the Daily, and also a member of Theta Delta Chi; Robert Petrie of Huntington, Ind., a forward on the varsity basketball team, a member of Phi Delta Theta; and John Sauchuck of Lakewood, O., manager of the 1931 football team, and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Others Found in Houses.

Others among the 79 students whose names were taken include: Louis J. Coumbe Jr., son of a prominent Detroit lawyer; R. A. Hodge of La Grange, Ill., and Richard Reynolds of Evanston, Ill., all members of Delta Kappa Epsilon; Bill Hogenson of Evanston, Ill., a member of Phi Delta Theta; A. Ramsen of Evansville, Ind., J. Van Felt of Chicago, C. Domke of Milwaukee, Wis., and H. Roderick of Hobart, Ind., all members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Herbert Freil, Hawley Eggleston, James C. Frier, Bob Wilson and Charles Cline, all of Chicago, members of Theta Delta Chi; George Hunsucker of Peru, Ill., Karl Richardson of Ottawa, Ill., and Hugh Baker of Decatur, Ill., all members of Kappa Sigma.

Delta Kappa Epsilon is one of three fraternities which shortly before the holiday vacation were requested by Dean of Students J. A. Bursley not to make application for permission to hold parties during the remainder of the year. The request, which in effect

WORLD TO HEAR SPEECH OF POPE ON RADIO TODAY

W-G-N Will Carry Chicago Broadcast.

Tune in on W-G-N at 9:30 a. m. today if you want to hear the Pope's first radio address and the attendant ceremonies. His actual talk begins at 9:40 Chicago time.

Pope Pius XI. will open the Vatican's new radio station, HUJ, in Vatican City this morning with a message to Christendom, to be broadcast over an international network, the waves of which will girdle the globe. In Chicago and the central states the program, including the pontiff's remarks, will be carried over The Chicago Tribune station, W-G-N, and other stations.

While no special gatherings were planned for the occasion here, indications last night were that thousands of Chicago Catholics would tune in. The program is to open at 9 a. m., central time, and the pope's words are to go on the air between 9:40 and 9:45.

Women to Hear Program.

Arrangements have been completed to enable the 3,000 women attending the convention of the Archdiocesan Federation of Catholic Women, in session at the Stevens hotel and the Eighth Street theater, to hear the entire program. At the chancery office it was said that Cardinal Mundelein, now vacationing at Olympia, Fla., would undoubtedly tune in there.

Both the National Broadcasting and Columbia chains will carry the program over the United States, it being estimated that 150 stations will be linked up. In England the entire chain of 20 stations of the British Broadcasting company is scheduled to transmit the pontifical message.

Pius will speak in Latin, the official language of the Catholic church. According to first plans his message was to be immediately translated and broadcast in six languages, including English, by seminarians at the Gregorian school in Rome. Advices from New York last night were that the program had been changed to permit the pope to speak more extensively than for the few minutes originally planned, and that the translations would be broadcast at 4 p. m.

Will Begin at 9 A. M.

The American program will begin at 9 a. m. [central standard time] on the national hookup, with Walter Damrosch conducting a 55 piece symphony orchestra in 30 minutes of historical church music. First signals from the Vatican station will be heard at 9:30, heralded by a flare of trumpets. Then the pontiff will tap out on a golden telegraph key the call signals of the new station in Morse code.

His holiness will then enter the control room of the station, where Senator Marconi, inventor of wireless transmission, will be awaiting him. Senator Marconi will deliver introductory remarks in Italian and English, after which Pope Pius will approach the microphone and begin the address, scheduled to last for 10 or 15 minutes.

CELEBRATE PAPAL PEACE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 11.—Pope Pius and the patriots of Italy today observed the second anniversary of the peace between Italy and Vatican City, created and so called by the Lateran treaties on Feb. 11, 1929.

It was a joint holiday, observed by the 700 citizens of the pope's 100 acre theocracy and the 40,000,000 people of Italy.

It was also a new holiday both for the pope and for Italy. Italy's main patriotic holiday formerly was on Sept. 20, but that vexed the pope, for it celebrated the anniversary of Sept. 20, 1870, when Italian troops took Rome from the pope and joined it to the rest of united Italy, ending the pope's temporal power. Last fall Premier Mussolini abolished the Sept. 20 holiday, saying that only on Feb. 11, two years ago, was Italian unity actually attained.

Plane Is Racing Death Across the Continent

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—An airplane, racing death across the continent, carrying A. L. Rodrigues, said to be the son of a former Mexican government official, was expected to reach Tampa, Fla., tomorrow, where Rodrigues' mother is seriously ill. She suffered injuries in an automobile accident. The plane left here Tuesday night with D. C. Warren, San Francisco aviator, at the controls.

DISCUSSING THE PRIMARY

"Well, this primary fight for mayor seems to be getting kind o' personal, with Thompson and Lyle swapping brickbats to the joy of enraptured citizens."

"Yes, it's too bad, but don't forget that Thompson started it. Lyle was conducting a dignified campaign until Big Bill started this line of personal abuse, and naturally Lyle came back at him with a dose of his own medicine. Bill ought to have thought of that."

"Well, it's a grand advertisement for Chicago when two of the leading candidates for mayor are calling each other lunatics and a lot o' more juicy names. It's very discouraging."

"Absolutely, but don't forget one thing. There were a tremendous lot of people in this city who were getting pretty sick of seeing Chicago advertised as the world's worst crime center, and they wanted something done about it. Were we getting anywhere before Lyle began his spectacular fight against the public enemies? Not so you could notice! Some good work was being done by excellent men, but it needed somebody to dramatize it. Lyle did that. There's no doubt that his work on the bench may have lacked judicial temperament, but it got somewhere. People were getting sick of judicial temperament that didn't get results. They wanted some rough stuff. They had been standing rough stuff from the criminals for so long that they wanted a switch. Lyle gave it to them. He began to ride rough shod over these babies that had been handled with kid gloves, and the people ate it up. And then what happened? As soon as Lyle was getting under their hides, a flood of whispers was started against him. He lacked judicial temperament; he was crazy; he was using his office for political purposes; his personal character was bad—everything that could be said against him was started on its way to discredit him. And in answer to this the voters rose and reëlected him, one of the very few Republicans that survived the landslide. That showed how the people felt!"

"Yeah, but the lawyers are practically all against him. They've practiced in his court and they say he is erratic, impulsive, and a wild man on the bench. Some go so far as to say he's crazy."

"Yes, I know they're against him. The Bar association refused to indorse him for reëlection, but their recommendation was ignored. In spite of it the people reëlected him. They wanted somebody who would get impulsive and wild with the gangsters. They wanted some one who was crazy enough to use a niblick instead of a putter; who would blast these well entrenched crooks out of their holes instead of patting them on the wrist in the most judicial manner. Now, I have a great respect for the majority of lawyers, but not for all of them, by a long shot. A lawyer is always the keystone in every criminal organization. Gangsters couldn't do business without a crafty legal adviser. If the Bar association would stir itself and clean out some of its unworthy brethren who are bringing disrepute to an honorable profession they would be doing a noble service. No doubt they are trying, but the results are not impressive."

"Well, even admitting all that, what reason is there to think that Lyle has the necessary qualifications to make a good mayor? Being in a judicial position and being in an executive position are two entirely different things."

"Of course, one man's guess is as good as another. I don't know what kind of a mayor he would be if he wins. I don't think he could be worse than what we've been having. Thompson went in four years ago on the slogan, 'Throw away your hammer and get a horn.' Well, what has he given us to blow about? Crime rampant and Chicago's reputation throughout the world besmirched. Customers afraid to come to the city, business getting scared! Citizen bodies organized to rescue the city's finances! Citizen bodies, working under great handicaps, endeavoring to make headway against crime! Chicago a jest on the stage, in magazines, in comic weeklies, in vaudeville, in movies—all over the world! You can't tell me that such things don't hurt a city and hurt the pocketbooks of the people who live in that city; nor that some of the troubles we now have are not due to the kind of city administration Thompson has given us."

"Well, I'm not for Thompson, but I'm not sure that Lyle has the necessary equipment to make a good mayor."

"Of course, I'm not sure either. But Lyle has been in the city council and in the state legislature. I assume he acquired some experience in those activities. I don't recall that I've ever heard of him being involved in any scandals, or of hearing him attacked until he began to muss up these rich and well entrenched crime organizations. Then there was a terrific roar about him. He was disturbing some profitable underworld activities that had powerful friends. So I feel this way about Lyle: Assuming he may not be an ideal candidate, I think he has sense enough to see that the next mayor of Chicago will have a tremendous opportunity. The eyes of the whole world will be upon him. If he makes good and cleans up the city and its reputation he will become not only a national but an international figure. He has everything to win by doing his very best and everything to lose if he chooses to play along in the old political rut.

"We know what kind of an administration we'll get if Thompson is reëlected. His record is before us. I don't know what kind Lyle would give us if he is elected, but I think he sees the tremendous possibilities, which can only be realized if he makes good.

"I don't know who you're going to vote for, but you go out and ask any crook who he's NOT going to vote for, and you know what his answer will be."

WHEATON SCHOOL BOYS NIPPED IN ROBBERY CAREER

Three Wheaton High school sophomores were under arrest at Wheaton last night under bonds of $1,000 each charged with grand larceny. The prisoners are Joseph Matthews, 15 years old; Thomas Mack, 14 years old, and Lloyd Schmidt, 15.

Pretending an interest in banking, they had persuaded cashiers at the First National bank of Wheaton and the First Trust bank of Lombard to show them the vaults. According to Police Chief Edward Sullivan, they used the opportunity to pick up more than $100 in silver. Matthews, the confessed leader of the trio, was arrested as he went from one store to another trying to exchange $51 in silver for currency.

Matthews, who also feigned an interest in the Bertillion system, spent considerable time in the Wheaton police station and won the interest of Chief Sullivan. According to his confession, he and the other boys planned to steal a submachine gun from the station and embark on a hair raising criminal career. The plan had progressed to a point where the boys had drawn a diagram, illustrating how Schmidt would toss a flare into the cellroom to terrify the prisoners and attract the station attendants, while Matthews would skip in and seize the gun.

Bandit Shoots Himself After First Robbery

Louis Toppel, 42 years old, an amateur bandit, shot himself in the head yesterday after robbing a clothing store at 3421 West North avenue. He attempted to end his own life as Policeman David Mahoney of the Shakespeare avenue station was about to open fire on him.

Toppel had taken a dress and a coat from the store and was running to a taxicab he had waiting when Policeman Mahoney called on him to halt. Toppel continued running and as Mahoney raised his gun he sent a shot into his own right eye. He was taken to the Keystone hospital and later to the Bridewell hospital, where it was said his wound would probably prove fatal.

His First Robbery Attempt.

Toppel told Capt. Gregory Moran that he was unemployed and that it was his first robbery. He said that two men with whom he lived at 425 South Ashland avenue had given him a gun and told him to commit the robbery.

The police later raided the flat at the Ashland avenue address and seized two women and three men. The women are Mrs. Geraldine Davis, 17 years old, and Mrs. Beulah Stewart, 27 years old, sisters. The men were Sam Bodass, 326 South Winchester avenue; George Calamus, 150 North Ashland avenue, and Gerald Davis, husband of Geraldine.

Questioned by Chief of Detectives John Norton, Davis was said to have confessed a dozen robberies and admitted serving a term at Joliet for manslaughter.

Youth Encounters Bandits.

Byron Spaulding, 25 years old, 4170 Drexel boulevard, whose father was president of the Chicago Athletic association until two weeks ago, encountered two bandits yesterday in the offices of the Chicago Bakers' Buying association at 3942 South Union avenue. He ran to his own office in the same building and secured a revolver, but when he returned the bandits had gone, having taken $25 from Joseph Eichten, 457 West 25th street, the cashier.

Three bandits took possession of the branch office of the Household Finance company, 11106 South Michigan avenue, at noon and after locking three employes, one a woman, in a room, escaped with $100 and a gold watch. They encountered Mrs. Florence Young, 10749 Perry avenue, cashier, immediately upon their entrance and forced her to open the cage. Then, while two kept revolvers pointed at her and at John M. Watson, manager, and his assistant, John Gould, they took the contents of the safe and a watch from G. London Eaton, an advertising solicitor who was calling there.

Orchestra Leader Robbed.

Louis Panico, well known orchestra leader, and Edward Keevins, musician, were robbed of $63 and a diamond ring valued at $150 at 63d street and South Park avenue during the morning. Panico and Keevins were in an automobile which was stopped for a traffic signal. The robber was in another car alongside and he forced Panico to drive into an alley by brandishing his pistol.

Two gunmen riding in a small sedan bearing Indiana license plates committed two robberies on the far south side. Goodwin L. Dosland, 11831 Longwood drive, an attorney; Edward Kristof, 2145 119th place, Blue Island, and George Behling, 2147 114th place, were standing in front of Dosland's home when the robbers stopped there. They took $30 from Dosland and his watch, $14 from Kristof and $18 from Behling. A few minutes later they held up Miss Elvera Carlson and Lawrence Veller, who were sitting in an automobile in front of Miss Carlson's home at 605 East 102d street. They took $15 from Veller.

44 HOUR WEEK FOR POSTAL EMPLOYES IS APPROVED BY SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A 44 hour week in the postal service was approved today when the senate passed the Kendall bill, already passed by the house. On a roll call, 58 senators voted for the bill while not a single negative vote was cast.

The measure, which was backed by the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks and opposed by Postmaster General Brown, will become law when signed by President Hoover.

Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.], in speaking for the bill, said that by its approval the government is setting "a wholesome example to the industries of the country by providing a shorter work week for postal employés. He said it would be of assistance in aiding the unemployment situation. It is estimated that the legislation will affect 150,000 postal employés.

Estimates of its annual cost range from $2,000,000 upward.

Movie Actor Drops Dead at Joan Crawford's Side

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Norman Phillips, 39 year old actor, dropped dead while enacting a scene with Joan Crawford on a sound stage at a film studio today. Injection of adrenalin at the Goldwyn-Mayer hospital failed to revive him. Phillips formerly had been a vaudeville headliner. He is survived by his widow and 12 year old son.

Bomb No. 3 in Week's Series Jars W. Side

Bomb No. 3 in this week's series burst last night at the warehouse of the Jackson Storage and Van company, 5951 West Madison street, shattering hundreds of window panes, disturbing a dozen apartments and rousing from their beds a score of sleepers. Four police captains live in the vicinity of the bombing.

The explosive was placed at the doorway of a four car brick garage built on the rear of the warehouse. The explosion occurred at 10:30 p. m. and it stripped plaster and pictures from the walls of a flat above the garage, occupied by the warehouse foreman, Sibrand Tromp, and his family.

Family Periled by Blast.

Tromp, his wife, and three of his children, Tillie, 16 years old; Mary, 14 years old, and Leonard, 12, were in bed when the blast occurred. Another daughter, Grace, 18 years old, was visiting with a caller, John Vose, 4828 South 58th avenue, Cicero. The concussion unseated Vose and knocked a cup of coffee from Miss Tromp's hand.

The two rushed to the front of the apartment, but saw no one. Patrolman Michael Woolley, who had been traveling his beat just around the corner, had the same report.

Within ten minutes the vicinity was swarming with police lieutenants, sergeants, detectives, and patrolmen. The four captains of the neighborhood, David Fitzgerald, 5902 West Washington street; James Fleming, 114 South Mayfield avenue; Daniel Lynch, 122 South Mayfield avenue, and Patrick Kelliher, 29 South Austin avenue, were among the investigators. Chinaware in the home of Capt. Kelliher, who lives within a stone's throw, was rattled by the blast.

Know of No Motive.

Officials of the storage company disclaimed any knowledge of the motive. Thomas A. Jackson, the president, declared the company had encountered no labor trouble nor had it been obliged to recently lay off any employés.

In the absence of a ready motive some of the investigators advanced the theory that bombers had planted the explosive as a deliberate taunt to Acting Police Commissioner Alcock who, on Tuesday, had ordered bombers shot on sight.

As in the bombing Monday night of the Lakeside Press, south side printing plant of R. R. Donnelley & Sons Co., the neighborhood for four square miles was aroused. Patients in the Frances Willard and the West Suburban hospitals were frightened. The total damage, according to rough estimates, will reach $5,000.

Bomb No. 4 Bursts.

The fourth bomb of the week was exploded early this morning in the doorway of the fortune telling studio of Angelo Nichols, a gypsy, at 6253 South State street. The damage was estimated at $200. Nichols, his wife, and relatives, including a 5 months old granddaughter, were aroused from their beds at the rear of the studio. Nichols said he had received threats by telephone recently, but refused to discuss the motive behind them. Last June he caused the arrest of "King" Tene Bimbo of the gypsies on the charge that Bimbo had plotted his death.

Politics was blamed for the bombing of the home of Frank Zintak, 3134 West 44th street, Democratic committeeman of the Twelfth ward, early yesterday morning, but suspicion was directed at no particular individual.

A bombing at Glen Ellyn Tuesday night was held to have been due to labor trouble, Sesse K. Marshall, Chicago manufacturer, who is building the home that was dynamited, said the contractor told him he had been threatened by labor unionites.

JUDGE CHARGES THOMPSON DEAL WITH GANG HEAD

Points to Serritella as Evidence.

Police Guard Lyle

When Judge Lyle, after addressing two meetings, returned to his residence, 6517 Stewart avenue, last night, he found it guarded by three policemen from the Englewood station. In reply to his questions they said they did not know who had ordered them assigned there. Capt. Michael Lee of the Englewood station declined to make any statement. The Lyle household served the policemen—in turn—with coffee, doughnuts, and rolls.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Judge Lyle began in his mayoralty campaign speeches yesterday to recite proofs of definite connections between Al Capone and the Thompson administration.

At noon, at the Hamilton club, he charged that the Capone gang gave $50,000 to the Thompson campaign fund in 1927, and that in return Thompson appointed "one of Capone's closest associates" as a member of his cabinet. He was referring to City Sealer Daniel A. Serritella, Capone lieutenant.

And In Walks Serritella.

At almost the same hour Thompson walked into his noon meeting at the Harris theater arm in arm with Serritella. Serritella was swinging the halter Thompson uses on the stage. While Thompson was waiting to be called on Serritella stood behind his chair. While Thompson was speaking Serritella sat in the mayor's chair.

This public demonstration of companionship between the two was analyzed by politicians as a carefully staged display intended to convince Serritella's associates of his intimacy with Thompson, but the amazement of the politicians was centered more on the coincidence of the Thompson-Serritella joint appearance at almost the moment that Judge Lyle was denouncing their association as a proof of Caponeism in the city administration.

Galpin Flight Recalled.

The charge of the $50,000 contribution in 1927 also was recalled to them by the Loesch investigation and the long but futile effort to get Homer K. Galpin before a grand jury. Galpin managed the Thompson campaign that year, and Special Prosecutor Loesch wanted to ask him about campaign contributions. Galpin avoided service in Wisconsin. He is spending the winter in Florida.

"Homer," said a close friend of Galpin, "went to his political ruin to save Thompson. If he had told what he knew Thompson would have been destroyed."

Headquarters also buzzed with stories that the recent notice served on independent booze runners to cease such operations and buy only booze run in by Capone men was the first step toward organizing the city on a new four year basis for Capone, and that Capone has said he will put $150,000 into the campaign this spring.

Says Capone Is Issue.

"The real issue in this campaign," said Judge Lyle at the Hamilton club luncheon, "is not whether I shall be elected or whether Thompson shall be elected, but whether Al Capone is to be authorized to rule Chicago again through the medium of a dummy in the mayor's chair.

"Four years ago the Chicago underworld was divided into half a dozen principalities. The Saltis gang, Bugs Moran and his crew, Jack Zuta, and a host of others who have since passed on to their reward were able to dispute with Al Capone as to who bossed Chicago, but from the time Thompson was elected Capone became more and more the dominant factor.

"His killers were not apprehended, but his enemies were pushed around until they were put on the spot.

Capone Rise an Accident?

"Do you citizens of Chicago believe that the rise of Al Capone to his present throne of domination of vice and crime in this city was by accident? His killers were not more vicious than those of the other gangsters whom he has eliminated. His men were not more expert with the automatic and the machine gun than those of the Moran gang, seven of whom were lined up against the wall and shot down together.

"This consolidation of territory and rapid rise of Al Capone to kingship was permitted if not connived at by the police under the mayor of Chicago.

"Now, what's back of it? Do the citizens of Chicago know that four years ago $50,000 or more was contributed by gangs and gangsters to Thompson's campaign fund? Does any one suppose that this class of men give away money like that for their health? They do not.

Quotes Justice Association.

"The Illinois Association for Criminal Justice says: 'In circles close to Capone it was well known that he had contributed substantially to the Thompson campaign,' referring to the campaign of 1927.

"And the price of that contribution was the appointment of one of Capone's closest associates as a member of Thompson's cabinet, giving that uncrowned king of Chicago's underworld a vantage point from which he sought only too successfully to control the inner workings of the administration, particularly in the department of public works, to the end that his muscle men and racketeers could take charge of legally constituted labor unions.

Charges an "Understanding."

"I charge that a distinct understanding exists between Thompson and Al Capone—an understanding that involves political support and financial contributions to the campaign fund—and that the sudden and miraculous rise of Al Capone may be laid at the door of Thompson.

"Now let him file another libel suit, and I will tell him in advance that before I am through with him in this campaign I will tell the truth about him so completely that if he acts on the old principle that the greater the truth the greater the libel we will have all the courts of Cook county clogged with libel suits.

"I've got the facts and noboby can stop me from using them."

Welcomes Thompson Suit.

Judge Lyle had opened his speech by welcoming Thompson's suit based on Judge Lyle's arraignment of the handling of the Thompson flood relief fund which is now the subject of a case in the Superior court.

"That's fine," said the judge in reference to the libel suit. "My only further request is that he prosecute this suit immediately instead of making it nothing but a political gesture as he has in numerous other actions he has begun but never pressed.

"In the past he has filed a string of such suits in box car figures—some of them for $1,000,000—and when he sues me for only $100,000 I feel like a piker. He has never prosecuted these suits beyond the mere filing, and I have no hope that he will permit me now to drag into the daylight the downright grafting and stealing that has been practiced under his administration if not with his connivance.

Would Like Wolfe to Testify.

"It would give me a chance to put Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe on the stand and find out why he paid $160,000 above contract prices for the work on the Wabash avenue bridge. It would give me a chance to bring into court contractors on work done by the board of education and let them tell what percentage their contracts have been padded in order that the administration may be taken care of."

Later Judge Lyle made public a list of eighteen Thompson libel suits pending in the local courts for sums ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000. Six of them were started more than thirteen years ago. Six were begun in 1917, and six more in 1918.

In his evening speeches before the Upton League of Women Voters and at Sokol Chicago hall Judge Lyle also spoke of the crime situation, but he added a discussion of the economic welfare of Chicago.

"Four years ago," he said, "Thompson told you that if you put him into office he would 'make Chicago hum.' Well, it has been humming—humming like a hornets' nest, and the hornets are indignant taxpayers who have been footing the bil for municipal waste and extravagance.

The Rooster and the Sun.

"Chicago is a great and growing city and, with its great banks, industries, and commercial enterprise, nothing can keep it from forging ahead. But what has Bill the Bluffer had to do with it? Like an African witch doctor he looks about him, sees Chicago's skyscrapers, waves his arms, and says, 'I did it all!' He reminds me of the rooster that thought its crowing brought up the sun.

"I do not claim to be a miracle worker. But I do say that when I am mayor I will put this city on a sound financial basis. I will drive the crooks and grafters out of the city hall. I will drive out of Chicago the criminal whose illegal business flourishes to the untold injury of legitimate business, and I will cooperate with the business men of this city in promoting genuine private and public enterprises."

City Hall and Gangland Linked

Al Capone, master "public enemy" who, Judge Lyle charges, is able to exert powerful influence with the present city administration.

Campaign Notes

Judge Lyle will be the only speaker at a citizens' massmeeting at the Apollo theater tomorrow noon. E. F. Mansure, chairman of the Lyle Citizens' committee, will introduce the candidate.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert will speak over WENR at 9:30 tonight.

Ald. Albert and A. J. Cermak spoke before the Uptown Women's Forum at the Rogers Park Women's club last night.

Judge Lyle is scheduled for two meetings in the same ward—the 42d—tonight. He is due to speak before the Turner organization at 744 Nprth Clark street and then at 708 North Clark street before the 42d Ward Voters' league.

E. Banks Cregier, son of a former mayor of Chicago and a Democrat until he turned to Thompson four years ago, came out for Judge Lyle yesterday.

The inauguration of a series of daily receptions at the Palmer house headquarters of the Lyle Citizens' committee was pronounced a success yesterday afternoon. Judge Lyle, Chairman E. F. Mansure and other members of the committee greeted about 200 visitors. Coffee was served. Similar receptions will be held every day from 3 to 5 p. m. in Room 21 on the street level floor of the hotel.

Edward Clamage has been indorsed for city clerk by the Illinois Republican Service Men's league.

CITY HALL KEEPS THOUSANDS FROM JOBS, LUZZO SAYS

Points to Defeated Bond Issues and Waste.

Lack of confidence in the Thompson administration, as shown by the defeat of public improvement bond issues in 1928 and 1929, kept from 75,000 to 100,000 Chicago workmen idle during the last year, according to an analysis of the labor situation made yesterday by Samuel P. Luzzo of the George K. Schmidt Union Labor club. Continuation in power of the present administration will keep thousands in the breadline for months to come, he declared.

"The workingman is the first to suffer by waste and extravagance in the handling of public improvements," Luzzo said. "The $100 a day expert and the political contractor get the first grab at the public's money under careless or corrupt public officials. That is where the graft is collected.

"There can only be a certain amount of money spent by the city and every time an 'expert' or a political contractor steals a dollar at least 50 cents of it is being kept away from the wage earner.

How to Keep Men Unemployed.

"Any organized labor leader who seeks to keep in office any incompetent or corrupt public official is taking the most direct method of keeping the members of his union in the front rank of the army of the unemployed."

In his speeches yesterday George K. Schmidt, a candidate for the Republican mayoralty nomination, warned the taxpayers that a continuation of practices now in vogue in the city hall could lead only to higher taxes.

"So long as reckless spending, regardless of income, continues," he said, "the city will remain in a financial muddle.

"Taxes will never be reduced until economies are effected. I know how to effect these economies. As city controller I proved it. Within the limits of my legal powers I fought constantly for more than two years against waste and extravagance. Had I been mayor instead of controller, your tax bills would read less than they do now."

German-American supporters of the Schmidt candidacy met at Prudential hall, Halsted street and North avenue, last night. This voting element is said to be coming into the Schmidt camp in great strength.

Albert Wants Budget Reform.

Ald. Arthur F. Albert, Deneen mayoralty candidate, in his speeches last night emphasized the need for constructive measures in city administration.

"To insure a thorough going business administration several important policies are essential," he said. "One is a centralized budget for the city so that the taxpayers will know what the financial standing is every month.

"Few taxpayers realize what some of the departments of the city cost. The 1931 budget for the city shows that this year it will take $8,473,885 to run the fire department and $17,987,219 to run the police department. It is important that these be honestly administered. If elected mayor I pledge myself to see that the police department is separated from the pernicious political influences that tend to destroy its effectiveness.

"Divorce Schools and Politics."

"The schools, which cost more than $100,000,000 a year, should likewise be taken out of politics. This city, with its 44,000 employés, should be placed on a civil service basis so that for honest and faithful service the employés will be properly and promptly paid and after a long period of such service retired upon equitable pension."

Ald. Albert will invade the loop beginning Friday, with noonday appearances at the Adelphi theater. His headquarters reports an important acquisition to his cause in the action of the 50th ward Swedish-American Republican club.

This club had previously indorsed the candidacy of Judge John H. Lyle, but withdrew from this stand and adopted a resolution indorsing Ald. Albert.

NETTELHORST IS NAMED TO BOARD OF LINCOLN PARK

Louis Nettelhorst, former Cook county commissioner, and a political supporter of Gov. Emmerson, yesterday was appointed secretary of the Lincoln Park board. The appointment was announced by Sheldon Clark, acting president of the board. Mr. Nettelhorst fills the vacancy left when Maj. Carlos Ames became chairman of the civil service commission. In the meantime the position has been held temporarily by Miss Lyda M. Thomas.

The board at its regular meeting authorized a committee to communicate with federal authorities at Washington in an effort to obtain the establishment of a new coast guard station at Belmont avenue or Montrose avenue. The action was taken in an effort to give pleasure boat owners additional protection.

CAMPAIGN AID OF MAYOR RAPS LYLE'S TACTICS

Thompson's Talk Drifts to Steamboats.

Emil C. Wetten, a lawyer, shared the platform with Mayor Thompson yesterday at the Harris theater and discussed his personal analysis of the candidates for the Republican nomination for mayor. He gave over most of his time to Judge Lyle, charging that the judge failed to instill fear in the criminals because he broke the law himself in setting high bonds.

Thompson departed from his previous platform issues, such as Hoover, King George and prohibition, and used most of his allotted time for attacking THE TRIBUNE. As his time drew to an end he hastily sketched a picture of steamboats from New Orleans whistling on the Chicago river and gave credit to the stock market crash for his ability to buy his yacht which is wintering at a city dock.

Reminds Hearers of His Age.

Twice Thompson called attention to his advancing age. Once, when he found he could not read a telegram because "I forgot to bring my glasses," he said, "Age is creeping on apace," and later he told the audience that he would hate to tell them how long ago it was when he was captain of a football team.

Wetten during his speech attacked Judge Lyle for using guns as campaign properties at one of his meetings. "Was your intelligence ever more insulted," he asked, "than when Lyle used guns at a meeting during his campaign?"

Brings Movies Into Show.

Apparently, as an offset to the guns, Thompson has introduced two new comic movies, which have been referred to as suggestive by movie critics, as a part of his "jackass show" at the Cort theater. The theme of one of the animated cartoons is the song, "Barnacle Bill the Sailor."

PROTEST CRIME IN ROGERS PARK, DESPITE THREAT

Police protection was accorded about 75 citizens of Rogers Park who met last night at the home of Otto F. Weiner, an attorney of 1415 Farwell avenue, to hear William McKinley, aldermanic candidate in the 49th ward, attack the city administration for indifference to the crime situation.

The meeting had been announced as one in protest against the recent activities of gunmen and gangsters in Rogers Park as exemplified by the machine gunning at Clark and Howard streets and the robbery of the Granada theater. During the afternoon three supposed hoodlums drove up to the Weiner apartment in a car, asked the janitor if the meeting was to be held there, and told the janitor to inform Weiner there would be trouble if the gathering took place. Police protection was requested.

"There has been much ado about routing crime from Chicago," Candidate McKinley told his audience. "Instead of routing the gangsters from the city the police seem to have driven them into the 49th ward. The rank and file of the police force is honest, but they have been hampered by the laxity of the elected officials. Let's drive the gangsters out of Cook county and down to Will county, putting them behind bars at Joliet."

CAN LOAN FUNDS GO FOR FOOD? IT'S PUT UP TO HYDE

Coalition Senators Wage Battle Over Issue.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The senate today called upon Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde to state whether money obtained by farmers under the proposed $20,000,000 drought plan compromise can be used to buy food.

SECRETARY ARTHUR M. HYDE.

Adoption of a resolution seeking this ruling from Secretary Hyde came at the close of an all day debate featured by acrimonious quarrels among senators formerly associated in the Democratic-radical-Republican coalition over the meaning of the language in the compromise amendment.

Senators William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], L. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], Tom Connally [Dem., Tex.], Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], and Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] were among those assailing the compromise under which loans are to be made for "agricultural rehabilitation," as well as for "crop production" in the drought area.

Caraway Defends Compromise.

Defense of the agreement fell chiefly upon Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], who, with Senator Joseph Robinson [Dem., Ark.], the minority leader, helped to frame the compromise. Senator Caraway insisted that food loans are possible under "agricultural rehabilitation," but conceded that there will be no charity as intended under the $25,000,000 relief appropriation of the senate which the house and President Hoover refused to accept.

Regular Republicans for the most part sat back and enjoyed the discussion in the ranks of the former Democratic-radical coalition. It was the third day of debate on the $20,000,000 drought loan compromise as embodied in the conference report on the interior department appropriation bill. Adoption of the resolution directed to Secretary Hyde made it likely that final action will be further delayed. Secretary Hyde is scheduled to make a Lincoln speech tomorrow night in Louisville, Ky. Unless his response to the resolution give a new turn to the situation, approval of the conference report is expected, as a majority of the Democrats are standing with Senators Robinson and Caraway in support of the compromise as dictated by President Hoover.

Borah Offers Resolution.

Senator Borah offered the resolution which was adopted. Its text follows:

"Resolved, That the secretary of agriculture be requested to advise the senate as soon as practicable:

"First, whether he understands that the second paragraph or subdivision of the amendment to the interior department appropriation conference report relating to drought relief includes in the terms food, clothing, and medicine.

"Second, whether he understands that a fair and sympathetic interpretation of said amendment would cover the clothes and medicines.

"Third, is there any prohibition therein which precludes the use of money secured by loans thereunder being used for the purchase of food, clothes, and medicines."

Senate Adjourns.

Republican leaders had planned to hold the senate in session until a late hour tonight, but adoption of the Borah resolution made it evident that a final vote could not be reached and adjournment was taken at once.

Before offering the resolution, Senator Borah asked if members of the conference committee which reported the compromise to the senate could state whether the language was intended to cover food. He pointed out that house conferees have held that it does not include food.

"The conferees have no doubt in the world that food will be included," said Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], head of the conference group. "If a farmer secures a loan he can spend it for anything he wants to."

"No one in the conference undertook to say that the language included food," said Senator McKellar, one of the Democratic conferees, taking sharp issue with Senator Smoot. "I offered an amendment to insert the word food, and it was voted down. Therefore I believe that the language will be construed as not embracing food."

Senator Henry F. Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.] interrupted to assert that "under a strict rule of law food would not be included."

Senator Caraway argued that President Hoover's letter to Senator Robinson giving assurance that the provision would be administered "fairly and sympathetically" meant that there would be loans for food.

"When the secretary of agriculture wrote his somewhat inopportune letter my colleague and I said we would not go forward one inch unless the President repudiated the letter," said Senator Caraway, referring to Secretary Hyde's letter to Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.], chairman of the house appropriations committee.

"The President said that the act would be interpreted fairly and sympathetically. I accept the President's word and I accept the compromise in good faith."

Demand Lobby Inquiry.

Senators Brookhart and Blaine aroused the ire of Senator Caraway by demanding that the lobby committee, of which the Arkansas senator is chairman, be convened to question Harvey Couch, Arkansas public utility magnate and head of the Red Cross activities, in that state, regarding his part in effecting the compromise.

"I want to know the influence that has been exerted by Mr. Couch in and about the capitol of our nation," said Senator Blaine when Senator Caraway inquired what he wanted to find out. Senator Brookhart suggested that old guard Republicans and Democrats have lined up together at the instance of "Wall street."

$47,166,042 BUDGET FOR 1931 ACCEPTED BY COUNTY BOARD

Appropriations of $47,166,042 were approved by the county board yesterday in tentatively adopting its budget for 1931. The appropriation bill is $5,214,187 under the 1930 budget. This reduction was accomplished without cutting salaries or curtailing services, although nearly $2,000,000 more is provided for poor relief than in any previous year. Final action on the budget was deferred for ten days, pending a public hearing on Feb. 21. It must be adopted by Feb. 28.

The expenses for corporate purposes during 1931 were fixed at $19,979,993. Added to this is $5,952,508 in unpaid liabilities which must be included in the current budget.

The appropriations for 1931, as compared to 1930, are as follows:

Fund.	1930.	1931.
Corporate	$26,383,673	$25,932,501
Highway	12,866,921	14,347,495
Bond and interest	10,465,578	3,855,565
Employs' benefit	680,000	680,000
Trusts	64,656	2,350,481
Totals	$52,380,229	$47,166,042

The net total of appropriations, exclusive of unpaid liabilities, is $41,213,534. Actually an appropriation of $84,864,791 was passed. Under the new budgetary laws the board must appropriate money to pay for tax warrants to be taken up during the year. The difference of $37,698,749 represents money not to be spent for current operations and expenses.

Former Union Official Is Found Shot, Gun at Side

Joseph P. Ryan, 46 years old, former vice president of the International Boilermakers' union, was found last night in a vacant lot at 85th street and St. Lawrence avenue, with a bullet in his chest and a pistol lying beside him. At the Burnside hospital, his condition was pronounced critical. He lives at 7533 Vernon avenue.

TWO BOATS SINK IN PAIR OF RUM BATTLES AT SEA

1 Captive Craft Burns; 1 Picket Goes Down.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Two coast guard picket boats and two rum running vessels today fought two more of the constant battles in the war between the guardians of the coast line and the $50,000,000 syndicate that caters to the thirsty of New York.

In the first of the clashes, both of which took place off Atlantic Highlands, the tiny coast guard craft was the victor. She captured a rum running speed boat, powered with three Liberty motors, and placed a prize crew aboard her.

Later, however, the "rummy" caught on fire and sunk. The members of the prize crew escaped after a bath in the icy waters. Lieutenant Commander Louis Perkins of the coast guard said the fire apparently was started by a time fuse placed by the rum crew, which fled before the capture was made.

Second a Battle of Rams.

The second conflict resulted in a victory for the boat of the rum syndicate. The "rummy" rammed the picket boat and the latter rammed the rum runner.

The coast guard vessel took water rapidly, and another vessel of the service towed her to the Sandy Hook shore, where she was beached. The rum runner escaped.

The first "rummy," which later burned and sank, was captured by coast guard patrol boat 145, commanded by Boatswain Karl Schmidt. He was in command of the engagement during which the master of the Josephine K., a rum runner, was killed by a shell fired from a one pounder.

Schmidt sighted the rum runner, the Ewspray of Newark, fifty feet long and with a power plant that would cause the envy of any motorboat enthusiast, landing a cargo of sacks at the fish hatchery, pier 5, Belford, N. J.

On Fire, Jump Into Sea.

The coast guardsmen boarded the vessel, and the crew fled. They left behind them 500 sacks of assorted liquors.

A prize crew of five men was put aboard, and the vessel, under the escort of the patrol boat, started for the coast guard base at Clifton, S. I.

Midway in the bay, between Sandy Hook and the Atlantic Highlands, the rum runner burst into flames and sank almost immediately. The crew took to the water. They were picked up unharmed, but very cold.

The Ewspray and her cargo were a total loss.

While this drama was taking place, picket boat 922 pursued another "rummy." She showed fight. While the vessels were maneuvering as the coast guardsmen tried to board the rum ship the vessels collided. They rammed again.

The small coast guard boat received the worst of the exchange. There was none of the usual courtesy of the sea here. The coast guard vessel was sinking, but the rum running vessel continued on her way. Radio messages from the sinking craft summoned picket boat 2,310. She put lines aboard her sister ship and succeeded in towing her to the beach at Sandy Hook. There she settled and sank in shallow water.

At about the same time twenty-five men, three trucks and 1,000 sacks of liquor, said to be worth $100,000 to bootleggers, were captured on a Brooklyn pier today by five customs inspectors, led by John E. Beach.

Woman, 76, Is Beaten by Bandit Who Gets 28 Cents

Mrs. Frances Linkowski, 76 years old, a widow living at 3650 Diversey avenue, was beaten unconscious last night by a young bandit who robbed her of a purse containing 28 cents. She was stopped near the Rose theater, 2560 Milwaukee avenue, and was found after the attack by Frank Pytlewski, janitor of the theater.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

East Hampton, L. I., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—For the past few days the front pages of the New York papers have been infested with stories about the phenomenal raise in stock market prices and how it begins to look like another bull movement such as we had two years ago and the bears are being knocked for a ghoul at last and etc. These stories have roused high hopes in this manly bosom till I came to read the quotations themselves and find out that the 50 shares in which I am gambling have leaped up an average of three-eighths of a point and even the stocks which I have no interest in same are pretty near a whole point higher than a week ago. Boys, I don't want to depress nobody, but this ain't even a heifer market, let alone a bull.

ONE DEAD, 2 HURT IN FREAK BLAST ON ARMY PLANE

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—One man was injured fatally and two others suffered minor injuries in a freakish explosion in the fuselage of an army amphibian plane at Crissy field today.

Master Sergeant Chester W. Kolinski, 45, died in a hospital and Master Sergeant Alfred Barnhard, 45, and Private Harry A. William, 30, received slight burns and lacerations.

The explosion occurred as the plane, a $75,000 amphibian brought here recently from New York for bombing experiments, was being overhauled in the hangar repair shop. The plane was damaged greatly.

PEDDLER BY RUSE GETS DOPE GIVEN WOMAN BY ERROR

Federal narcotic agents early this morning were hunting a dope peddler who by a ruse had recovered $1,000 worth of morphine and had vanished with it after a mistake in identity nearly lost him the drug. A package containing the dope was mailed from New York addressed to a Mr. Harris at the Granville apartment hotel, 6241 Winthrop avenue.

It was received at the hotel yesterday and through an error was turned over to Mrs. A. J. B. Harris, wife of a civil engineer residing there. Mrs. Harris opened the package and immediately realized, she said, that it was not intended for her family. Becoming alarmed at the number of mysterious appearing phials it contained, she returned the package to the hotel desk, but first took out a sample of the powder in one phial and went with it to a neighborhood druggist.

The druggist announced that the powder was morphine and notified the federal authorities, who at once sent agents to the Granville hotel. Before they arrived, however, the intended receiver of the dope had appeared at the hotel desk and claimed the package, the agents said. He told the hotel clerk it was cleaning powder and walked out with it. He had not returned early this morning.

Shoplifter Uses Latest Ideas, but Is Caught

Springfield, Mo., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The modern shoplifter was captured today by city detectives.

When Lee Tuttle, 54, was taken to police headquarters his overcoat was found with several large secret pockets. Inside the false lining were found several hooks on which to hang stolen goods. Tuttle confessed to many shoplifting activities.

LOCKED IN ICEBOX BY GANG.

Four bandits last night forced Arthur Grimm, proprietor of a roadhouse at 8649 Ogden avenue, Lyons, and two employes into an icebox and looted the till of $40.

$650,000 OFFER FOR SERIES BY RADIO REFUSED BY CHAPLIN

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Not for $650,000 will Charlie Chaplin open his mouth for the great American radio audience.

An advertising agency today announced that in behalf of one of its clients it had made two propositions to the cinema comedian. One called for the payment of $650,000 to Chaplin for 26 programs of 15 minutes duration, Chaplin to say anything he liked, from any point in the United States he might choose.

The other called for the payment of $130,000 for 26 electrical transcriptions, these recordings to be played by radio stations.

Both propositions were presented to Chaplin personally at his hotel today, and both were flatly refused.

CHARGE HARVARD MEN ARE VANDALS; INQUIRY STARTS

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The district attorney today started an investigation into alleged vandalism by Harvard students at Groton school.

District Attorney Warren L. Bishop asked for a police report on charges that two Harvard students and a third recently dropped for studies had visited Groton on several occasions and, among other things, removed the crucifix from the school chapel.

The Rev. Endicott Peabody, head master of Groton school, which all boys involved attended before entering Harvard, made the complaints to the university.

POLITICAL EVILS OF POLICE FORCE TOLD IN REPORT

Remedy Difficult Task, Is View of Experts.

Several illustrations of the extent to which the influence of politicians curbs the free action of the commissioner of police is contained in a chapter released yesterday, of the survey of the citizens' police committee. The complete report will be released by the University of Chicago Press about March 16.

The chapter opens with a recital of the multitude of politicians, ranging from the mayor's messenger to ward heelers, who throng through the commissioner's office each day seeking something for himself or for some one he is sponsoring. Related also is an instance of the inability of the commissioner to discipline members of the force because of their political intrenchments.

Unable to Get Figures.

In one case the commissioner had ordered complete arrest reports forwarded from a police district. The captain replied that he had no control over the members of his command and could not compel them to provide the required information. The entire matter was dropped, the chapter relates.

"The police force," it is related, "really consists of two distinct sets of hierarchies, the one official, the other political. The official hierarchy is clear cut and easily understood.

"When we turn to the political hierarchy within the police department, an entirely different situation is presented. Individual patrolmen and sergeants sometimes assume an importance out of all proportion to their ranks. An occasional deputy commissioner will, to all intents and purposes, assume the prerogative of the commissioner, and captains will run their districts as though they were separate corporate entities, with the local political leaders playing the roles of local mayors."

No Small Remedy Possible.

After surveying the entire situation from the angle of political influence it is conceded in the chapter that "no minor expedients will prove successful in restoring police leadership in Chicago."

The supervisory and operating units of the citizens' committee are composed of leading professors of the University of Chicago and Northwestern university and noted criminologists. Bruce Smith, who has conducted surveys in the United States and in Europe, is the director of the survey of the Chicago department.

$27,325,000 IN CITY AND SCHOOL BONDS SOLD TO SYNDICATE

The sale of $27,325,000 worth of city and board of education bonds, all bearing 4 per cent, to a syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co., at an average price of 96.658 was announced yesterday by City Controller Peterson. The bid of the syndicate was $26,411,798, while the only other bidder on the whole amount, the First Union Trust and Savings bank, offered $26,122,100.

The sale included $12,525,000 worth of city improvement bonds approved at the November election. The city bonds mature serially over a 20 year period, with the exception of $4,310,000 public benefit bonds and $500,000 traffic signal bonds, which are four year serial issues. The school board bonds consisted of $12,500,000 in working cash fund bonds and $2,300,000 educational bonds. The former are seven year serial and the latter four year serial.

The city bonds brought a lower price than the school bonds, being sold for 95.78, while the school board bonds sold for 97.40. Controller Peterson said this was because the school bonds mature earlier.

THREE YOUTHS SENT TO PRISON FOR KIDNAPING

CRIMINAL COURT.

David Bell and Frank Murphy, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge John P. McGoorty.

Jack Jackson and M. Whitefield, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Edward W. Scott, murder, sentenced to 14 years in the penitentiary; Carl Mastry, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Fred Stevens, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Three youths who kidnaped Attorney Carl V. Wisner and Miss Janice Conrad in front of Wisner's home, 1319 East 50th street, on Dec. 7, were refused leniency yesterday by Judge Harry Fisher in the Criminal court after they were found guilty. The kidnaping was part of a robbery plot.

Jerome Mooney, 18 years old, 734 West 61st street, was sentenced to one year to life in Pontiac reformatory, and Arthur Pechtel, 20 years old, 6325 South Sangamon street, to one to ten years in the reformatory. Ralph Nelson, 21 years old, said to be the leader of the gang, was sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary.

The defendants were captured when they ran an automobile, which they had previously stolen from Gustav Magnuson, 7841 Bishop street, into another car soon after the kidnaping. Attorney Wisner and Miss Conrad were about to step into an automobile when the youths approached and commanded them to enter the stolen car.

FORMER PUPILS HONOR TEACHER AS SHE RETIRES

Miss Josephine O. Ford, retiring 70 year old teacher of the eighth grade in the Nathaniel Greene Elementary school, was the guest at a banquet given by 500 former pupils in the Midland club last night. Miss Ford lives at 1426 East 67th street. She started teaching when 17 years old. Her retirement was effective last week. Among her former pupils are Attorney Francis King, Attorney George P. Foster, and Attorney Joseph P. Hector. A library named after Miss Ford has been endowed by former pupils and given to the Greene school.

U. S. EMBASSY AT HAVANA IMPORTS A BIT OF LIQUOR

Varied Emotions Aroused in Washington.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—A ship's manifest noting a consignment of champagne, other wines and whisky weighing 5,632 pounds and addressed to the American embassy, Havana, was called to the attention of state department officials today and raised the question of whether an American embassy or legation can import alcoholic beverages.

Harry F. Guggenheim is American ambassador in Havana, but it is not known whether the liquor shipment was for his use or for the use of members of the embassy staff. In either case, the liquor was imported duty free under the ambassador's diplomatic privileges.

Shipped from Bordeaux.

The ship's manifest bears the signature of Capt. Moreau, master of the Belgian steamer Gand, out of the French port of Bordeaux. A translation of the manifest, which is made out in French and Spanish, lists the following as consigned to the ambassador of the United States of America: Fifty-seven cases of wines, eleven cases of champagne, one case of champagne and syrup, nine cases of liqueurs, and five cases of whisky.

State department officials said today that Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, had ruled in 1923 that American envoys and consuls abroad were not violating the law in drinking alcoholic beverages, since the Volstead act made it illegal to transport or sell liquor, but placed no bar on its actual consumption.

Regarding the right of an embassy to import liquor from a foreign country, however, officials were frankly puzzled. Although the laws of Cuba obviously are not violated by importing liquor into Havana for the use of the American embassy, there is said to be some distinction between the person of the ambassador and the embassy itself.

Raises Question of Propriety.

The embassy, it is pointed out, is the property of the United States, purchased and maintained by the taxpayers of the United States, who supposedly favor prohibition. While no one here is inclined to object to the right of the ambassador or any member of the embassy staff to satisfy his own thirst when or how he pleases, there appears to be some doubt as to whether an embassy, which is the sovereign territory of the United States, can import liquor.

State department officials pointed out today that the serving of alcoholic beverages was a matter which had to be left to the discretion of individual diplomatic officials, since customs varied in different countries.

MORAN REJECTS POLICE GUARD AS HE IS FREED

With a declaration that he could take care of himself, George "Bugs" Moran walked out of the office of Chief of Detectives John Norton yesterday and took a taxicab through the loop without a bodyguard.

Moran told Norton he didn't need the protection of a squad car. But the detective chief, remembering how the late Jack Zuta ran into a rain of gangster bullets as he drove away from the South State street station last year, ordered a police squad to trail Moran through the loop.

Moran, one of the 28 public enemies and chief foe of Al Capone, spent an hour under questioning in the office of the detective chief, but he protested he had no light to throw on recent gang killings.

Earlier Moran had appeared before Judge Francis Borelli on a vagrancy charge. The charge was dismissed on the recommendation of James A. Browne, assistant state's attorney, who explained that Moran had been acquitted on the same charge by a jury in Lake county which heard the same evidence that the Cook county prosecutors held against the gangster.

Former Bank President Acquitted of Embezzling

Carl A. Mueller, former president of the Laramie State bank, who was charged with embezzling $20,000, was found not guilty by a jury in Judge Ross C. Hall's Criminal court last night. Mueller had been on trial for ten days on an indictment alleging he converted the proceeds of a $20,000 mortgage to his own use. He took the stand in his own defense and declared the bank directors sanctioned the transaction. The bank went into receivership last August.

City Permits Clayhole to Menace Children's Lives

BANDITS AIDED BY GIRL LOOT STORE, LOCK UP OWNER

The jewelry store of Samuel Schwartz at 514 East 63d street was looted of $10,000 in diamond rings and watches and $84 in cash last night by two men who waited for a girl to give them the signal.

Schwartz was getting ready to close at about 9:30 o'clock when the girl, wearing a plaid coat with a gray squirrel collar, came in and purchased a bracelet. Schwartz then ushered her to the door, he told the Woodlawn police, and she signaled to the two men standing nearby on the sidewalk.

The jeweler tried to block their entrance but was struck in the face. He was locked up in a room in the rear of the store. The bandits looted the window show cases and the cash register and escaped.

Citizens Aroused

How to compel the city administration to take steps to protect children whose lives are endangered while playing in a huge clay hole on the property of the Carey Brick company is one of the problems agitating residents of the 39th ward in the northwest part of the city.

The clay hole is in the area bounded by Grand, Normandy, Diversey and Narragansett avenues. Several years ago a boy was buried by a cavein while playing in the hole and afterward the city erected a fence intended to keep children away. The fence has now sagged to the ground and may be crossed without effort.

Everett O. Hutchins, 5144 Drummond place, a candidate for alderman in the 39th ward, has made the clay hole menace one of the issues of his campaign. He said:

"We have tried repeatedly to get the city administration to protect our children, but without success."

WOODCOCK GOES TO HOSPITAL TO MEET VOLSTEAD

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The man who directed the framing of the prohibition enforcement act and the man who now enforces it met for the first time today.

From a sickbed in Fairview hospital here Andrew J. Volstead, 71 years old, "father" of the dry law, looked up to greet Amos W. W. Woodcock, federal prohibition administrator. Mr. Volstead is recovering from an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Woodcock is here to inspect the Eighth prohibition district.

"I'm glad to know you," said Mr. Volstead.

"And I'm delighted to meet you," responded the prohibition administrator.

'CITY OF KINGS' SHOUTS GREETING TO BRITISH HEIR

Wales Speaks in Spanish and Delights Lima.

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Lima, named the "City of Kings" by the conqueror, Pizarro, greeted the heir to the British throne today with gay merrymaking, a display of flags, and a cheering populace.

The prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, bowed their acknowledgements to shouts of "Long live the princes!" and "Long live England!" as they arrived by automobile from Callao on their good will tour of South America.

Princes Get Medal.

Later the royal travelers were received by Provisional President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro with ambassadorial honors at the presidential palace and received from him the cross of the Order of the Sun, created by the Peruvian liberator, Jose San Martin.

Throughout the day, which began with disembarkation from the liner Oropesa at Callao, the prince of Wales demonstrated his fluency in his newly acquired Spanish at Lima. He was received by the mayor in Spanish and replied in that language, to the great delight of the populace, who cheered him roundly.

Speaks Spanish with Ease.

Again, at the palace, he conversed easily in Spanish with President Sanchez Cerro, and those present declared that while he betrayed an accent he spoke with ease and fluency.

When the royal party landed at Callao ships of the Peruvian navy fired a salute of 20 guns and a detachment of marines presented arms.

President Sanchez Cerro returned their call immediately after the princes had left the presidential palace.

It was understood tonight that the princes would remain in Lima until Sunday, resuming their journey to South Peru by airplane.

EX-INNKEEPER GETS 2 YEARS IN RUM THEFT CASE

Joseph Roma, former owner of the Roma inn, Evergreen Park, was sentenced to two years at Leavenworth penitentiary and fined $1,000 by Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell yesterday for his part in the $100,000 liquor robbery at the government's warehouse at 5210 South Wabash avenue.

Roma was convicted by a jury of concealing 100 cases of the stolen booze in a garage at the rear of his roadhouse. Ernest J. Brown, a bartender at the place, was convicted and sentenced to four months in jail on the same charge. James E. Fern, a former prohibition agent, was found not guilty by the jury.

Fern, Roma, and Brown were arrested at the inn when the stolen liquor was discovered there the day after the robbery last June.

Parrot Fever Death Is Reported in New York

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—One man is dead from psittacosis, the dread parrot fever which caused several deaths a year ago, and four of his relatives are ill in a Brooklyn hospital, department of health authorities said today. The disease was believed to have been contracted from parakeets sent to the family from Havana. S. L. Bruck, 65, who received one pair of the birds, is dead.

BARES 30 YEARS WITH WOMAN IN ESTATE BATTLE

The hearing on the suit to break the will of Albert W. Longley, Chicago hat manufacturer, proceeded yesterday before Circuit Judge Feinberg. A witness testified that he lived with Longley's first wife for thirty years and that he knew George Adair Greene Longley, who is seeking to break the will, as her brother. George Longley claims he is the son of the manufacturer and his first wife and should share in the $1,000,000 estate.

Albert Longley died during October, 1928, leaving the bulk of his estate to his third wife, Mrs. Mary Caroline Longley of Los Angeles. During the last three weeks George Longley has called a score of witnesses who said that they knew him as the manufacturer's son.

The witness yesterday was John Halloran, 69 years old, of Los Angeles, the first to be called in Mrs. Longley's behalf. He said that he met the wealthy manufacturer's first wife, Mrs. Alice Adair Longley, in 1897, three years before Longley divorced her.

"I met her at 45th street and 5th avenue in New York City," Halloran said.

"How long after that did you meet George Longley?" he was asked.

"Three or four months later in my office," the witness replied. "George came in and said, 'You have been going with my sister. She is a married woman and has a husband in Chicago.'"

"After the interview with George Longley did you continue to live with her?" was the next question.

"Yes," Halloran replied. "Until about the time of her death."

While in Chicago, Halloran said, they lived in an apartment in 61st street on which Mrs. Longley paid the rent. His testimony regarding his relations with the first Mrs. Longley was made over the protests of the third Mrs. Longley.

STUART DYSPEP TABLE

1932 GOVERNOR FROM COOK CO. IS REMAP THREAT

Downstaters Warned We Demand Fair Play.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson's proposal to limit Cook county in the general assembly was termed a Republican political blunder which may cost downstate the governorship in 1932 by Chicago legislators today in the first debate of the session over reapportionment.

Cook county legislators laid it down emphatically that if the rural regions continue to block Chicago and other industrial centers from equal representation, as provided in the constitution, the issue will be carried into the next political campaign. The cities, they held, may turn the tables on the county by electing a Cook county governor committed to a constitutional redistricting.

With 52 per cent of the population, it was argued, Cook county has the votes, especially when backed by other cities now in the same boat on unequal representation.

"A Political Bugaboo."

Michael L. Igoe, minority leader, termed the downstate attitude against a remap on the basis of the 1930 census as "the political bugaboo of downstate politicians."

Some downstaters seemed inclined to agree with the argument that if a remap fall through, the cities will counter by electing a governor from the city.

The discussion was held in the house judiciary committee, David I. Swanson, chairman. Three resolutions approaching redistricting from three diverse angles were up and the upshot was that they were set for an open hearing Wednesday, March 4. One or two test roll calls showed Cook county and downstate members lined up against each other as of old.

Senator Richard J. Barr's resolution for a commission of nine members to study the 20 year old question of reapportionment came in for criticism.

"No Need to Debate."

Mr. Igoe and others asked why it provided $10,000 to conduct an investigation of a matter on which in the last two decades enough has been said and written to fill a library. The Barr proposal was also termed an "Emmersonian" commission, which the critics suspected would turn out a report backing up the governor's suggestion for limited representation for Cook.

"Do you think anything but a compromise has a chance of getting through?" asked Arthur Roe of Vandalia.

"Reapportionment is now getting support from growing counties like St. Clair, Madison, Will, and Peoria," answered Igoe. "It's the politicians downstate who have made a sort of political bugaboo of constitutional reapportionment.

"Let me tell you downstaters that the Republican administration is making a political blunder by advocating retraction for Cook county. The result will be that if the population in the large cities is unable to get the equal representation which the constitution says it shall have, the city voters will elect a city man as governor committed to equality of representation. As sure as reapportionment is blocked, so sure is it that a Cook county man will be nominated and elected on the platform that Cook county is going to be fairly represented in this branch of government."

"Conditions have changed since the constitution was adopted," said Mr. Roe. "In 1870 Chicago had only 13 per cent of the population of Illinois."

Champaign Man Sees Settlement.

"I'm afraid what Mr. Igoe says may happen and a governor be elected on a proposal to force over a reapportionment," said Roger F. Little of Champaign. "I see a glimmer of hope for a settlement the Barr resolution which provides for three outside folks to be on the commission of nine. I think that if it is provided that a majority of that body is to be from Cook county, there's chance of action even if a slight one."

"We're not getting any place this way," remarked Frank A. McCarthy of Elgin. "We're still at loggerheads. We should try a compromise. Downstate is willing to compromise, on the basis of giving Cook county home rule, full representation in the house and one-third in the senate."

"Let me tell you downstaters," retorted Sol P. Roderick of Chicago, "that other large cities in the state are now in the same boat as Chicago and will be insisting on reapportionment through the election of a city governor if downstate refuses to give just representation. No sane, sensible argument can be advanced why a resident of Cook county should have less voice in government than a resident of a county outside Cook."

"Do you think it would be possible for Cook county members, if a reapportionment went through, to get together and remap the districts in Chicago?" asked Mr. McCarthy.

"Yes, they'd work it out," rejoined Mr. Roderick. "Just obey the constitution, that's all you've got to do."

Compromise Move Beaten.

A motion to report out the Schnackenberg resolution for a body of five representatives and five senators to draw up a just reapportionment plan was lost. Cook county members voted for it, downstate members against it, except one, Howard L. Doyle of Decatur, who supported it.

Then they voted for a hearing March 4, on the Barr and Schnackenberg resolution and on a third one from Mr. Roe for a constitutional amendment to limit Cook county.

Back to Normalcy

Fort Myers, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Thomas A. Edison, 84 years old today, told reporters business had started a three year trend toward regaining the level af activity that prevailed before the depression.

Human endeavor can never control cycles of business depression and prosperity, the inventor added. "It lies in the very nature of man," he said. "We will always have them."

Of the unemployment problem Mr. Edison said: "This question is several sizes too large for me."

Mr. Edison declared prohibition was succeeding and asserted the administration of President Hoover was a success.

"Ambition and the will to work are the chief ingredients for success," he said.

HOUSE ACTS TO HALT ROCKFORD CANNON RANGE

Would Use Money Instead for Armories.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Completely unified, the house of representatives today voted unanimously to allow the $600,000 appropriation for a National Guard artillery range at Camp Grant to lapse. In so doing it accepted the recommendation of the appropriation committee, which favored the resolution presented by two Rockford representatives at the beginning of the session.

The resolution now goes to the senate and, if passed, will rest upon Gov. Emmerson's desk. It provides that the appropriation be spent for guard armories. Three could be built with the sum.

No member of the house spoke in favor of the range this morning and Representative John Devine [Dem., Dixon] charged that "politics" alone brought it into the governor's call issued for the special assembly session last summer.

Calls It Politics.

"In my eighteen years in the legislature," said Devine, "I have never seen such a nonsensical appropriation. I was astonished when the governor included it in the special call and I can account for it only as politics. One of the military officials is connected with a newspaper syndicate and that fact, in my opinion, was the reason."

By this reference he is believed to have meant Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the 33d division and a Chicago representative of W. R. Hearst, a California publisher.

"There never has been a time," Devine continued, "when the votes of members will be scanned so closely as this session. As far as I am concerned, I want to hang this appropriation around the governor's neck. If it is spent he is responsible for it. I don't favor spending money for brass buttons and dress parades."

Devine followed the three Rockford representatives, Leroy M. Green, David Hunter, and Carl O. Nyman, each of whom said his constituents resented the thought of high powered cannon being fired in the district. Mr. Green, long time opponent of the idea, was particularly vehement.

Calls Site Inadequate.

"It is a great waste of money because the federal government furnishes all ranges for National Guards," he said. "The Illinois guard could continue to do its shooting on the range at Sparta, Wis., where there is 14,000 acres of rough ground ideally suited for the purpose. There is no necessity for infantry and artillery training together. They didn't even attempt that during the world war."

After the resolution passed, Mr. Green said that the Rockford chamber of commerce would meet over the week-end and ask Lieut. Gov. Sterling and Senator Charles W. Baker of Monroe Center, the district's upper house member, to engineer the passage of the resolution in the senate. Senator Baker has been criticized for voting for the range.

BILL WOULD CREATE STATE FUNDS TO PAY AUTO CRASH CLAIMS

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A bill that would virtually put the state in the auto accident insurance business was introduced in the house today by Representative Frank Holten [Dem., East St. Louis].

It provides that applicants for auto licenses would pay the secretary of state $10 to create a fund for the payment of judgments for property damage and injuries received in auto accidents. Property damage payments would be limited to $1,000 and personal injuries to $5,000, or $10,000 if more than one person was injured.

Another auto bill sponsored by Representative Thomas Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island] would amend the automobile law to establish the owner of a car as the responsible party in accidents, no matter who was driving the machine.

NAME GROUP TO STUDY CHANGE IN ASSESSOR BOARD

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Seven representatives were a subcommittee of the house revenue committee named today which will consider the Schnackenberg tax bills to supplant the Cook county board of assessors by one assessor to be named by the president of the county commissioners.

The committee will hold hearings in Chicago probably next week.

Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] was named chairman of the subcommittee by Representative Leroy M. Green, head of the revenue committee. Other members are: David I. Swanson [Rep., Chicago], Leo D. Crowley [Rep., Peoria], Luther B. Bratton [Rep., Kankakee], Thomas J. O'Brien [Dem., Chicago], James P. Boyle [Dem., Chicago], and Michael F. Hennebry [Dem., Wilmington]. The bills were referred to a subcommittee yesterday after Schnackenberg had made a fight to get them immediate attention by the house.

DIES AFTER OPERATION.

Adolf Herzberg, 61 years old, 622 Independent boulevard, died yesterday in Mount Sinai hospital of shock resulting from an operation on his throat. Herzberg, according to hospital attendants, had swallowed a quantity of lye on Feb. 6.

LOAN ON 50%, OR ONE-FOURTH CASH, BONUS OUTLOOK

One of Two Proposals Is Likely to Pass.

Wall Street Reacts

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A warning that developments in congress over the soldier bonus controversy within the next 48 hours may not be as pleasing as Wall street has been led to expect was delivered by Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the United States treasury, in a luncheon address before the Bond Men's club. This intimation had the effect of checking another advance in the stock market and also led to heavy selling of government bonds, which declined from about $1 to nearly $4 per $1,000 bond. [Story in Business section.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Approval of either an increase in loans on bonus certificates held by world war veterans or payment of one-fourth the face value was forecast today when the house ways and means committee rejected all various other pending proposals.

The committee voted, 5 to 17, against the Patman bill for the immediate retirement of the bonus certificates at their ultimate face value. It was estimated that this plan would cost the government $3,400,000,000.

Reject Garner Cash Plan.

The committee rejected, 10 to 13, the Garner plan for the payment of the certificates in an amount based on the adjusted service pay, plus the extra 25 per cent as allowed in the bonus legislation, plus 4 per cent interest compounded to the date of settlement, instead of to 1945. It was estimated that this plan would cost $2,106,250,000 if all the veterans elected to take advantage of it.

The committee also rejected, 10 to 13, a modification of the Garner plan, under which the extra 25 per cent, which was intended as compensation for deferring payment for 20 years, would be scaled down.

The plans which will remain for final consideration include an increase in loans on the certificates from 22 per cent, as at present to 50 per cent and the so-called Fish plan, under which 25 per cent of the face value of the certificates over and above loans already made would be paid to veterans.

Estimate Cost at Half Billion.

A detailed plan for loans up to 50 per cent of the face value, is to be presented to the committee tomorrow. It was estimated that this would cost $1,697,750,000 if all veterans took advantage of it. On the theory that only one-third of the veterans would borrow the money, the cost would be reduced to a little more than 500 millions, which is the approximate limit of cost which administration Republicans in the house have in their minds.

Under the Fish plan the amount paid would be a lien on the certificate and would be deducted from the face value. No interest would be paid by veterans upon this amount as in the case of loans. It was estimated that this plan would cost 550 millions if all the veterans took the money.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Marriage-bound, Virginia Valli of the movies breezed through Chicago yesterday on her way to New York, where she will meet her fiancé, Charles Farrell, known to fame as the popular screen lover of another petite but wedded star, Janet Gaynor. Miss Valli disclaimed any twinges of jealousy because of the celluloid romances of Farrell and Miss Gaynor. She is, she said, intending to select her trousseau in New York, but as to the wedding date, she refused to be specific. The marriage has already been postponed twice, once by the death of Farrell's mother.

BREAD BETTER, BAKERS SAY, TO JUSTIFY PRICE

Senate Committee Hears Large Producers.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Bread costs the American people more today than it used to because they are not willing to eat the kind "that mother used to make."

This was one reason given the senate committee investigating food prices today for the figures on its price tag.

Henry Stude of the American Bakers association, and Frederic H. Frazier, of the General Baking corporation, told the committee the declining price of flour has been fully reflected in the price of bread.

They testified the present bread price cannot be compared with the pre-war cost because of the difference in quality.

Quality Is Compared.

Stude presented statistics which he said showed bread of the same quality that sold in 1913 for 5.6 cents a pound is now selling on the average in 51 cities for 5.4 cents, but that the highest quality bread costs on the average 10 cents a pound.

Both witnesses denied the bakers dictate the price of bread or conspire to hold it up.

"Competition is too keen," they said.

Frazier said his company has effected a general reduction in the price of bread of one cent a pound during recent years, but admitted there were exceptions.

"Your company," Chairman Capper said, "is subject to some criticism for not going along with the general trend of prices within the last year and for apparently maintaining the same price as a year ago."

Asks Price Reduction.

Capper appealed to Frazier to reduce his wholesale prices one cent a pound, expressing the view it would not only develop additional profits but would aid distress.

Frazier testified that retailers of bread average between one and two cents profit on each loaf and estimated the minimum profit the baker should get at 10 per cent.

Senator Townsend [Rep., Del.] characterized the profits as excessive. He questioned Frazier at length on the profits his company has made since its organization.

Frazier agreed $100 invested in the General Baking company in 1915 would be worth about $2,400 today, but said that was nothing compared to what it would be worth if it had been deposited in other industries.

He agreed also that much of the capital structure of the company today is "pure water."

Stude contended the price of flour is only one factor in the cost of bread and that bakers have not only adopted higher standards of production and distribution, but are faced with higher labor costs.

More Workers Hired.

Bakers are required to use more employes than formerly because of the demands for various kinds of bread, he added.

Capper placed in the record census bureau statistics showing that while the average year's salary of bakery employes has increased from $620 to $1,375 since 1914, the value of his production has increased from $3,940 to $7,633.

Stude said bakers are paying back in wages 18 per cent of their profits, as compared with 13 per cent in 1923.

He challenged the bread price statistics presented to the committee by Commissioner of Labor Statistics Stewart, declaring they were based entirely on the highest quality of bread.

Commenting that when flour prices went up in 1925 the increase was reflected "almost instantly" in the price of bread, Capper said bread prices had not declined recently along with other products.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE IN NOTRE DAME; CATHEDRAL SHUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 11.—The venerable Notre Dame cathedral closed its ancient portals for the first time in centuries this afternoon to allow for the ceremony of reconsecration following the suicide of a 33 year old Mexican woman before one of the smaller side altars.

Priests heard a shot and on investigation found the woman dying from a self-inflicted bullet wound. Her handbag contained a letter addressed to the Mexican consul saying that she had recently arrived in Paris and was unable to endure an impending divorce which was being obtained by her husband, an Englishman.

Cardinal Francois Verdier, archbishop of Paris, was immediately notified, in view of the imperative need for an immediate reconsecration, due to the fact that a Te Deum is scheduled for tomorrow morning to celebrate the anniversary of the coronation of the present pope, at which the French government will be represented. The cardinal delegated Canon Favier to conduct a three hour ceremony.

MEAT PRICES CUT IN BUENOS AIRES ASSAULT ON H.C.L.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Argentina's determined assault on the high cost of living, fostered by the government, will reach another objective tomorrow when meat goes on sale in the public markets at prices reduced by about 30 per cent.

With that accomplished, authorities plan a campaign to reduce rents. Lower prices of clothing and reduced costs of building material are helping to bring living costs to a "reasonable" level.

Milk now sells for approximately 5 cents a quart, soap at a cent a pound; potatoes, of which Argentina has a bumper crop this year, less than a cent a pound, and flour and bread at sharply reduced levels in the public markets.

ARMORED MAIL TRUCK RAIDED IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., Feb. 12 (Thursday).—(AP)—Three armed men were reported to have held up an armored mail truck carrying registered mail to the Union station about 2 o'clock this morning, escaping with three pouches.

First reports, which could not be immediately confirmed, were that the men, carrying pistols, had removed the sacks from the truck as it stood on the station concourse, holding at bay the truck's crew.

They then entered a waiting automobile an daped away. Police broadcast lookouts for the machine and its occupants, but their information was meager.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Announcement of the sale of the Los Angeles Evening Express to Paul Block, New York publisher, was made in the Express today.

INDICT GROCER, 12 OTHERS ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Joseph Peskin, owner of a wholesale grocery at 4446 South State street, and twelve others were indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday on charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws. It is alleged that they are involved in the sale of more than $1,000,000 worth of corn sugar to an alcohol syndicate on the south side.

Peskin was arrested last Saturday, when a large quantity of corn sugar, "P. D. Q." fermenting powder, and other materials "designed for use in the manufacture of intoxicating liquor" were found in his store. He is alleged to have supplied about 100 still operators.

The others indicted were Eli Hirsch, A. Moore, L. Moore, Jack Kline, Frank Bond, John Hanley, and Ben B. Epstein, alleged associates of Peskin; B. Goldstein and F. Goldstein, tin shop operators at 3253 Ogden avenue, and three colored still operators.

BRITISH FINANCE AT DANGER POINT, SNOWDEN WARNS

Demands Drastic Action to Ease Burden.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 11.—"Our national position is so grave that drastic and disagreeable measure will have to be taken if the budget equilibrium is to be maintained. I say this with all the seriousness I can command."

Described as the gravest declaration delivered by a chancellor of the exchequer for fifty years, Philip Snowden, labor chancellor, issued this serious warning tonight to the house of commons during the debate on a Conservative censure motion charging the Labor government with reckless expenditure. The censure was defeated, with the support of the Liberals, by a vote of 310 to 235.

Cabinet to Get Pay Cut.

Mr. Snowden in his speech warned that big sacrifices must be made all around. As an example to their countrymen in the present economic crisis, he said, the cabinet has decided to cut its own salaries. The reductions are expected to amount to 10 per cent.

A big dole reduction was foreshadowed by the chancellor and, he said, schemes involving heavy expenditure, however desirable, will have to wait until prosperity returns. This is necessary to uphold the present standard of life, and no class will untimately benefit more by present economy than wage earners."

"In my last budget speech," Mr. Snowden declared, "I stated that I was anxious to avoid the imposition of any further imposts in view of the depression at that time. Now, if I may put it bluntly, an increase in taxation under the present conditions which have fallen on industry would be the last straw."

Budget Position Serious.

The chancellor declared that his only object in political life has been to improve the lot of the masses, and that if he asked for some temporary suspension it was because he believed that it was necessary in order to make future prosperity possible.

"The budget position is serious," he said. "It is no secret that I shall have a heavy deficit at the end of this financial year. No budget could stand such an unexpected strain as has been placed upon it by the increase of unemployment during the last twelve months.

"Expenditure has increased and revenue has declined. Moreover, the productive capacity of the country has fallen off by 20 per cent, meaning that the source from which the exchequer had to draw its revenue has fallen to a similar extent."

Assails Debt Settlement.

Mr. Snowden referred to the heavy debt burden as that "colossal Washington debt."

"While I do not want to offend anybody," he declared, "I must say that history has written of the way in which the debt was incurred, its recklessness, its extravagant commitments, made in a way altogether unnecessary in the circumstances of the time, I am afraid posterity will curse those responsible.

"Other countries are watching. We must maintain our financial reputation. Our position is fundamentally sound: sounder than that of any other country in the world. All that is necessary is an effort to get over the present crisis. It will involve some temporary sacrifices from all, and those best able to bear them will have to make the largest sacrifices. In the general sacrifices the members of the cabinet are prepared to make their financial contribution."

Task Too Big for One Party.

Mr. Snowden confessed himself impotent to stem the current without help—the task is too big for one party, he said.

"This crisis no one foresaw and the country and the house of commons must realize their position," he cried. "Instead of party bickering, we must unite in a common effort to make effective measures to overcome our temporary difficulties and restore our former prosperity."

The chancellor did not indicate what would be the "biggest sacrifice those best able would have to make," but the general opinion in the house is that it means an increase in the supertax.

The chancellor's statement created a sensation. The Labor members heard the chancellor's call for all around sacrifices in silence, but the Conservatives cheered. The Labor extremists, however, showed their displeasure by violently attacking both the chancellor and the government.

The British government, through the president of the board of trade, W. Graham, has begun a drive to boil down European tariffs by about 25 per cent.

Approaches have been made to Paris, Berlin, and Warsaw, and it is learned that suggestions have been made that Great Britain might give a guarantee to retain a free trade system in return for concessions on classes of goods of which she has been a large exporter.

Police Asked to Search for Missing Student Nurse

Mrs. H. H. McMellin, superintendent of the nurses' home of the Presbyterian hospital, 1750 Congress street, early this morning asked police to search for Inez Oakes, 20 years old, a student nurse who has been unaccountably missing since noon yesterday. The girl's home is in Grand Haven, Mich.

POLICE SLAYER GETS LIFE TERM IN FAST TIME

Pekin, Ill., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Less than 24 hours after Policeman Henry P. Kounse was killed in a gun fight near East Peoria, Gale McDaniels, alleged bank robber and jail breaker, pleaded guilty to the slaying today and was given a life sentence.

GALE McDANIELS.

Kounse was killed last night as he and several other East Peoria policemen attempted to capture McDaniels, who had escaped from jail at Rushville. Acting on a tip from an unnamed person, the officers went to a house at Coal Hollow, near East Peoria. McDaniels was warned of their approach, ran out the back door, fought a brief pistol battle with the patrolmen and escaped.

A large posse of state highway patrolmen searched all night and early today McDaniels was found hiding in a coal shed not far from the scene of the shooting.

Later in the morning, police announced McDaniels had confessed to shooting the officer. This afternoon he was taken before Judge Henry J. Ingram, pleaded guilty, and approximately 19 hours after the shooting he was sentenced to life in the Joliet prison.

Leader of Robber Gang.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Gale McDaniels, alleged member of the Dunbar gang, who was sentenced to life imprisonment at Pekin, Ill., today for the slaying of Policeman Henry P. Kounse, was a leader of a gang that had operated intensively in southern Illinois, Chief of Police Wilson Lively said here today.

Chief Lively said McDaniels had a reputation as a pistol shot among southern Illinois gangsters, being able to shoot equally well with either hand. He is said to have boasted that he would never be taken alive.

Thomas Wren Becomes Father of Twin Girls

Twin girls were born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wren at their home, 2913 East 78th street. Mr. Wren, a deputy sheriff attached to Sheriff William D. Meyering's private office, was for 10 years a member of THE TRIBUNE staff.

RICH FIANCEE OF 'ADONIS COP' HAS VANISHED

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Handsome George Wandling, famous as the most comely cop on the sidewalks of New York, wept today as he announced that a young and wealthy widow, strangely missing, was to have been his bride this spring.

GEORGE WANDLING

The patrolman, who tramps a beat on Columbus avenue, notified his superiors yesterday that Mrs. Imogene Stella, 36, had vanished. He said he believed racketeers had kidnaped her, seeking a large ransom from her estimated million dollar fortune.

Wandling, called the "Adonis of the police force," figured in the headlines two years ago when the Court of Appeals upheld an annulment of his marriage to Claire Sugg, daughter of Nichols Sugg of Buffalo.

EIGHT OFFICIALS OF CLOSED BANK PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Suit for 50 Million File. Against Them.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Showing a dogged cheerfulness throughout, the eight officers and directors of the Bank of United States were fingerprinted, photographed and arraigned today on indictments charging them with felonious acts in their conduct of the bank. They pleaded not guilty and were granted bail.

None of them had anything serious to say, except Isidor J. Kresel, who last night resigned as prosecutor of the magistrates' inquiry after he had been indicted by the Bank of United States grand jury. Mr. Kresel, after his arraignment, in a statement to reporters, assured his friends that he would be vindicated.

All Plead Not Guilty.

The other defendants, besides Kresel, are: Bernard K. Marcus, president of the bank; C. Stanley Mitchell, chairman of its board of directors; Simon H. Kugel, vice chairman of the board; Saul Singer, executive vice president; Herbert Singer, his son and head of one of the bank's subsidiaries; Henry W. Pollock, a vice president and a director, and A. S. White, directing head of the bank's four principal affiliates, now bankrupt.

Marcus and Saul Singer were held in $100,000 bail each. All other defendants were held in $10,000 bail each. All entered pleas of not guilty.

Sue for $50,000,000.

While the bankers were waiting about the district attorney's office for arraignment, more trouble was being piled up for them in the Supreme court. The Irving Trust company, acting as trustee in bankruptcy for the Bankus corporation, filed a suit for $50,000,000 against the officers and directors of that company.

The suit filed today charges that the directors through negligence and omissions in carrying out their duties permitted the loss of $50,000,000 to the corporation and consequently to its creditors. The suit demands an accounting and the repayment of the money to the corporation by the officers and directors in amounts to be fixed by the court. An answer must be filed within twenty days.

Meanwhile powerful interests were at work today with a plan for the reopening of the bank.

Sauel R. Rosoff, subway builder, is the author of the plan that will be presented to State Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick for approval. Mr. Rosoff's plan will be presented by David M. Milton, a son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr., who is a member of the law firm of Satterlee and Canfield, and by H. L. Satterlee. Mr. Satterlee is the brother-in-law of J. P. Morgan.

PAIR HELD FOR ROBBERY.

Arthur Monahan, 42 years old, and Romeo Doria, 36, were held to the grand jury in $40,000 bonds each yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden in the Felony court on four charges of robbery. They were arrested when they tried to rob the restaurant of Harry Barnhose, 2115 South Halsted street while Policeman Arthur Ulrich was eating there.

University of Michigan Frats Raided for Rum

fect placed the house on social probation, is understood to have resulted from a party which was not properly conducted.

Social Complications Expected.

News of the raids caused a furor on the campus today, partly because several prominent students are among those who have been questioned by the police and partly because the raid came only two days before the annual J hop, the social event of the season. Local police who made the raids confiscated upwards of fifty quarts of whisky, wine and gin, and some beer, and it is feared that the student affairs committee may take such action as will close the five fraternity houses and force cancelation of house parties planned in connection with the hop. It is suspected that the liquor was intended for consumption at these parties.

The J-hop, annually attended by 800 couples, including several hundred young women brought by the students from "back home," usually is a moist affair—at least before and after the dance proper. Today's happenings are expected to have a salutary effect on the occasion, however.

The amount of liquor obtained at each fraternity house, according to police report, follows:

Phi Delta Theta, four quarts and nine pints of whisky.

Delta Kappa Epsilon, one half case of beer and four quarts of whisky.

Kappa Sigma, 14 quarts of whisky, four quarts of gin, and three quarts of wine.

Theta Delta Chi, nine quarts and four pints of whisky and one quart of gin.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, four quarts and nine pints of whisky.

The students were routed from their beds to permit a search of their rooms. Most of the seized liquor, police said, was found in students' rooms.

Routed from Beds.

The raids resulted from the arrest of Joe Looney, 30, and Shirley O'Toole, 20, both of Ann Arbor, who are said to have made deliveries at the houses in question. The alleged bootleggers were questioned by the police and at 3 o'clock this morning Justice Bert E. Frye issued warrants authorizing searching of the houses. Two police sergeants, Norman Cook and Sherman Martenson, made the raids, in each case taking the names of the boys in the house. Some difficulty was encountered at Delta Kappa Epsilon, where the youths were herded into a single room and asked to tell their names. They refused, but when threatened with confinement in the county jail surrendered.

All of the boys involved reported at police headquarters this morning, but were told to return Friday, police hoping that they will capture a third member of the bootlegging ring by that time. Whether warrants charging the youths with disorderly conduct will be issued remains in the hands of Carl A. Lehman, city attorney, and Prosecutor Albert J. Rapp.

Manufacturer Arraigned on Mail Fraud Charge

Robert L. Simons, former head of the Stonefield corporation, clothing manufacturers at 2256 South La Salle street, pleaded not guilty on arraignment in federal court yesterday following his arrest on a suppressed indictment charging use of the mails to defraud. Simons is charged with issuing false financial statements to obtain credit. The company went into involuntary bankruptcy last year.

CAPITAL STIRRED BY NICARAGUAN REBELS' NEW GUNS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Already concerned over the resumption of insurgent activities in Nicaragua, officials here and in the Latin-American republic have been presented with another disturbing element by an increase in the outlaws' supplies of arms and ammunition.

Officially described as "one of the most disturbing aspects of the present situation" in Nicaragua, the appearance of modern automatic weapons and an apparent good supply of ammunition in the hands of the insurgents is a complete mystery to American authorities.

The source of the increase was said by them to be "not definitely known."

The supplies include machine guns, as indicated by recent encounters with United States marines stationed in the republic. This was declared by officials to be in distinct contrast with their previous situation, when they were understood to be short of weapons and ammunition.

Minnesota Has 6 Postal Robberies in Nine Days

Crystal Lake, Minn., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Another postal robbery, the sixth in Minneosta in nine days, was under investigation today by postal inspectors and local police. When no one was in the baggage room at the Lake Crystal depot last night a pouch containing 100 letters was stolen. The mail was to have been placed aboard an Omaha train for the west.

DE KALB POSTAL ROBBERY LOOT IS SET AT $19,000

Postmaster Thomas Olsen announced last evening that the loot taken by burglars, who dynamited the top off the vault of the postoffice in De Kalb early in the day, totaled approximately $19,000, almost all of which was in postage stamps.

Arrival at an exact figure on the loss was made difficult by the confusion in which the burglars left the scene and the fact that some of the stamps were burned by the acetylene torches used to cut a hole in the door of the safe inside the vault.

The robbers failed to open the safe door and were able to obtain only what they could reach with their hands, thereby missing $10,000 worth of stamps. The work was that of skilled safe blowers, according to Postal Inspector Jack Stahl of Chicago, for a burglary alarm system and tear gas apparatus on the vault were not set off. After blasting a hole in the top of the vault, one or two men were let down into the chamber by their confederates.

The postoffice, a first class one, was burglarized similarly two years ago, according to Chief Inspector K. P. Aldrich.

HELD AS RUM VIOLATOR.

Angelo Insalata, 6829 South Wood street, who was seized last week by prohibition agents as a still operator, was held to the grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker in bonds of $2,000.

TRACE $8,000 OF 1928 CAMPAIGN FUND OF CANNON

Bishop Appears Before Nye Inquiry Body.

Cannon's Son Convicted

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Maj. Richard M. Cannon, son James Cannon Jr., was convicted of violating the state labor laws by a jury which deliberated less than 15 minutes today. Maj. Connon was accused of failing to pay Mrs. Phyllis Case $33 as salary for teaching in Cannon's La Crescenta school for boys. He will be sentenced tomorrow. The offense is punishable by six months in the county jail or a $500 fine, or both. Juries disagreed at Cannon's two previous trials. Nine other charges of failure to pay wages are pending against Cannon.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Testimony and exhibits indicating that one contribution of $8,000 to Bishop James Cannon Jr.'s political organization of 1928, known as the anti-Smith Democrats, finally lodged in his personal checking account in a Virginia town, were gathered today by a senate body.

The campaign expenditures committee opened an investigation designed to pick up the trail of Bishop Cannon's political activities where it was dropped by the senate lobby committee last year. The sum then involved was one contribution by E. C. Jameson of New York, who testified before the lobby committee that he contributed $65,300 to Bishop Cannon's organization.

The Nye committee picked up the investigation today under authority of a senate resolution extending its power to inquire into alleged violations of the corrupt practices act within time limits which embrace Bishop Cannon's fight in Virginia and elsewhere against the presidential candidacy of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

Train of Evidence Found.

The train of evidence taken today, linked with testimony before the lobby committee, which was made a part of this hearing's records, brought out the following information:

On Oct. 19, 1928, Jameson gave his personal check for $8,000 to the Lawyers' Trust company of New York and on the same day the trust company issued to Bishop Cannon a cashier's check bearing the number 9023 to Bishop Cannon with the notation that it was backed by the check received from Mr. Jameson.

Bishop Cannon was chairman of the anti-Smith Democrats. Mr. Jameson had testified before lobby committee that this transaction was a part of his donations to Bishop Cannon, but with the challenge of the lobby committee's jurisdiction that check henceforth was lost sight of. It reappeared today.

Virginia Banker Appears.

S. A. Barrow, president of the First National bank of Blackstone, Va., site of a college once headed by Bishop Cannon, testified that on Oct. 23, Bishop Cannan purchased a certificate of deposit at his bank for $8,000, using a draft on a New York bank.

Mr. Barrow was unable to recall the draft, but Senator Nye produced a photostat of the cashier's check, No. 9023, issued by the Lawyers' Trust company, and showed that it was indorsed three times, as follows:

"James Cannon Jr., chairman; James Cannon Jr., S. A. Barrow."

The money did not remain there, Mr. Barrow testified, as on Jan. 5 Bishop Cannon was given a new certificate for $8,070, representing the principal and accrued interest of the original deposit.

Frank W. Sheffield, cashier of the Bank of Crewe, at Crewe, Va., produced a certificate of deposit showing that on Feb. 13, 1929, Bishop Cannon deposited in a savings account opened in the name of "James Cannon Jr., executor," a certificate of deposit on the Blackstone bank for $8,070.

Transferred to Another Bank.

That savings account was closed on Oct. 3, 1929, Mr. Sheffield added, and a balance of $5,942.42 credited to the account of "James Cannon Jr., executor," was transferred to the personal checking account of "James Cannon Jr., who had opened a checking account on May 20, 1929.

Bishop Cannon did not testify. Occasionally he acted as cross-examiner and, in one instance, released Mr. Sheffield from responsibility when the banker demurred in answering questions outside of those he was forced to answer by subpoena.

WIFE OF PHYSICIAN IS VICTOR IN SEPARATE MAINTENANCE SUIT

MRS. AMBERSON.

Mrs. Nellie Amberson, 28 years old, 4153 Keystone avenue, was yesterday awarded a decree of separate maintenance and alimony of $50 a week from Dr. Henry Amberson, a physician with offices at 4384 Elston avenue. Superior Judge Desort granted the decree, which ends a legal battle of several months' duration. Mrs. Amberson originally sued for divorce, charging desertion, and her husband countered with a cross bill alleging cruelty. The couple were married on May 6, 1926, and separated in December of 1929. They have two children, Patricia, 4 years old, and Joan, 1, who were awarded to Mrs. Amberson.

AIRPLANE LANDS BY ITSELF; FOOL PROOF, IS CLAIM

As Easy to Operate as an Automobile.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—An airplane which any one capable of driving an automobile can handle was put through its paces at North Beach airport this afternoon before a crowd of 300 aviation enthusiasts and leaders in the aeronautical industry. An ordinary looking biplane, it neither dives, stalls, nor spins, and, what is more, it automatically lands itself.

While interested spectators stood on the edge of a snowbank and looked doubtfully at the craft soaring a thousand feet above them, Henry White, the pilot, pointed the plane's nose toward the ice covered field and shut off the power. The ship slowly found its angle of glide as it slipped earthward at about fifty-five miles an hour. Pilot White's hands were waving in the air outside the cockpit. Watchers held their breath, for they had been told the plane would land unaided.

Lands at Sharp Angle.

The craft still was tilted at a sharp angle, its tail well up, when the rubber wheels crunched into the snow. The plane had touched the ground at the same speed it was gliding, and for a few feet it held this position and speed. Then its tail settled to the ground and it had landed with hardly a bump, as the center of gravity is far back of its wheels.

Pilot White repeated the performance six times and then several other flyers took turn about in taking the plane up for a trial spin. Each remarked after an automatic landing that it was "just like driving a motor car." Aeronautic experts expressed a belief the new machine would revolutionize the industry.

The self-landing "foolproof" air lane is the invention of Albert Adams Merrill, former member of the staff of California Institute of Technology, who, now in his 57th year, lives in White Plains, N. Y. Prof. Merrill has been experimenting in aeronautics since 1894 and collaborated with Langley in the early days of flying. Since 1928 his work has been financed by Sperry Gyroscope company and Eastern Air Transport, Inc.

Today was not the first time the plane has landed itself. Pilot White has been conducting secret tests with the craft for several months, and an earlier model, designed by Prof. Merrill, was flown in Los Angeles in 1928.

The inventor took a regular commercial type biplane and made the changes in it which account for the new page in aviation history. The secret is in the wings, which are controllable. They are of standard, accepted design, but, unlike others, the entire wing structure can be tilted up or down to a maximum angle of 14 degrees.

Landing Is Automatic.

"The pilot about to land," explained Prof. Merrill, "need only set the wings, cut the engine to idling speed, and the plane assumes the proper gliding position and lands without further attention. The landing bugbear has prevented many persons from learning to fly. We have made it possible for the natural born dub to fly.

"The wings are so adjusted that the plane cannot be forced downward into a dangerous dive nor pointed upward into a stall and resultant spin. It is impossible to loop the plane or perform acrobatics, but it can do everything necessary in normal flying."

Tests today were with a three passenger open cockpit plane, but Prof. Merrill said the wing structure would be just as efficient in larger types of planes, and that he planned to adapt it to large transports.

Admits Libel; 142 Bottles Chicago Remedy Destroyed

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 11.—(AP)—J. T. Whitlock, president of the Cherokee Remedy company, 6805 South Halsted street, Chicago, admitted a libel on a charge of violating the food and drug act in federal court today and consented to destruction of 142 bottles of his U-gar-i product. He was assessed the costs, $100. Whitlock admitted the product was not antiseptic as labeled.

BENHAM BROKE, GONE, BUT SOME CLING TO FAITH

"50%" Financier Drives Away Unmolested.

Belvidere, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Seemingly more stunned than resentful, the hundreds of creditors of A. W. [Fifty Per Cent] Benham today accepted the news of his financial crash impassively.

Although Benham quit Belvidere this morning, leaving debts variously estimated between $50,000 and $400,000 in the wake of his announcement of bankruptcy, his departure only slightly disturbed the routine of this small town.

The ex-shipping clerk, who had been paying his neighbors from 10 to 30 per cent interest on judgment notes for more than a year, stowed some baggage in the back of his car while his wife locked the doors of their cottage this morning, and both drove eastward out of town.

Some Believe He'll Return.

A number of neighbors saw him leave, but none moved to stop him. Indeed, among the scores of investors whose notes he left unredeemed there were many who felt certain he would soon be back and who professed readiness to advance him further funds to make a new start.

During the day about fifty of the investors visited the little office in the local garage where he had conducted business. They were received by David Beatson, a youth of the town, Benham's protégé and secretary of the Blackhawk Finance company, which Benham had organized at Rockford.

Enemies Are Blamed.

In interviewing the creditors Beatson reiterated the "finance wizard's" statement of last night that the machinations of jealous enemies had wrecked the Benham enterprise and brought about his downfall.

The local bankers, who had warned their customers months ago against investing in Benham's scheme, marveled at the loyalty he still commanded.

"They seem to be still with him; he must have a spell over them," remarked W. G. Greenlee, cashier of the People's bank.

A. G. Meyers, cashier of the Farmers State bank, was of the opinion that the investors did not yet realize that the bubble had burst. State's Attorney Alexander J. Strom said he had no announcement further than that made last night that the Benham affair would be presented to the Boone county grand jury next week.

Questions Legality of Notes.

Mr. Strom has indicated that the legality of the notes Benham gave investors is in question, since he paid more than a legal rate of interest. An accurate estimate of the creditors' loss was believed impossible today since Benham, further than his statement of being penniless, offered no inventory of liabilities and filed no petition of insolvency.

2 YOUTHS HELD AS POLICE PROBE MYSTERY DEATH

Two youths were being held at the South State street police station last night in connection with the mysterious death of Samuel Stephenson, 19 years old, a jobless youth who formerly was a clerk in a loop department store. The prisoners confessed they had planned to "jackroll" Stephenson, but denied they killed him.

The two held are Glen Hutchinson, 21 years old, who said he came here recently from Pontiac, Mich., and his companion, William Dunn, 20 years old, formerly of Philadelphia. Hutchinson admitted to Capt. John Prendergast that he and Stephenson had been on a drinking spree.

"When we were leaving through the rear door of the Aroma café at 410 South State street at 2 o'clock this morning I took Stephenson's bank book and his scarf and hit him on the jaw," Hutchinson confessed. "Then I left him in the alley and went to a restaurant at 412 South State and found Dunn. I told him about Stephenson lying in the alley and asked him to help me roll him."

Andrew Patterson, an engineer, saw the body and reported it to the police, who came immediately and caught Dunn and Hutchinson running out of the alley. Isadore M. Feinberg, coroner's physician who examined the body, found a broken leg and spine and crushed ribs. He said Stephenson had apparently been thrown out a window or tossed down a stairs, for the man, he said, had been brutally beaten. Hutchinson told the police that a truck must have passed over Stephenson's body while he was in search of Dunn.

GOTHAM WOMAN JUDGE QUIZZED IN VICE INQUIRY

Ignored Evidence of Police Framing.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Magistrate Jean Hortense Norris was called to account before Referee Samuel Seabury today for her deep trust in the truthfulness of vice squad policemen and for statistics supporting her reputation as the most "convicting" judge of women's courts.

Figures showed that since 1921 she convicted 86 per cent of the defendants brought before her in vice cases. While the average convictions of all other magistrates in such cases was 64.4 per cent.

Framing of women and vice court perjury was brought to her attention in November, 1919, it was revealed. The society for suppression of crime at that time took occasion to trap two vice squad men and to accuse them of the act before her in court.

Praises Accused Policemen.

The magistrate's reaction then was indignation that the society would lay a trap for policemen. She commended the "perfectly splendid records" of the two policemen in the case, who were Christopher Confrey and William M. O'Connor. So the two plain clothes men continued unchecked in their careers as vice hunters until last November, almost exactly eleven years later, when Isidor J. Kresel brought up new evidence of perjury which resulted in their suspension on charges.

Mrs. Norris' ownership of 65 shares of stock in the Equitable Casualty and Surety company while she was signing its bail bonds was also gone into. The magistrate, admitting frankly that she had bought the stock and later sold it, maintained vigorously that it was perfectly all right for her to do so.

Defends Her Actions.

And, certainly, she maintained, the stock could not bias her judgment of a defendant, even if it were legally improper for a judge to act in a judicial proceeding in which he had an interest and even if the courts have held the signing of a bond to be a judicial proceeding.

Mr. Seabury took a hand in the questioning. He wanted to know whether Mrs. Norris thought it might influence litigants to go to a certain bonding company if they knew a magistrate held stock in it.

"I can't fancy so," Mrs. Norris said. "My share was so infinitesimal."

Mr. Seabury by adroit questioning had her maintaining it would be perfectly proper for her to sign the bonds of a company in which she was sole owner.

Virgin Island Residents Fight Withdrawal of Navy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, Feb. 11—Several residents of St. Thomas today cabled Secretary of the Navy Adams, asking him to issue an order delaying the withdrawal of the naval station and personnel from the islands pending a memorial from the population. This follows the action of President Hoover in appointing Dr. Paul M. Pearson as first civil governor general of the islands and plans for withdrawal of the naval government. The people of the islands say that without the naval personnel the islands cannot be self-supporting.

Fighting the Battle for Health

Day in... day out..

WHEN the question is health, there must be no doubt about safety. Especially must you be careful in selecting your druggist—in the quality, dependability and freshness of his stock—and in the accuracy of his prescription compounding.

Fresh, Genuine Potent Drugs

In the drug and prescription departments safety is guarded by many precautions. All prescriptions are compounded and rechecked by licensed pharmacists, in strict compliance with your doctor's instructions. Right now our prescription business is the largest in our history, which is a splendid tribute to our rigid rules and ethical practice. Still another guarantee of safety is our tremendous turnover which guarantees drugs and medicines that are fresh and potent.

Unquestioned Safety Plus Utmost Value

We contend that there is no other drug business as competent to give you unquestioned safety and utmost value.

To Safeguard Your Health

At the fountain, your health is protected by the use of clean, crisp individual Dixie cups.

We Especially Recommend "Puretest" and "Rexall" Products

All goods are priced as reasonably as is consistent with fair and just business conduct.

And remember, we consider no transaction complete unless you are entirely satisfied.

BOY SCOUT WEEK.

This week the Boy Scouts of America and their friends are engaged in a drive to establish a ten million dollar fund for the expansion of their work. In the midst of the effort throughout the nation to relieve the distress incident to our business depression and to drought conditions in certain regions, the Boy Scout appeal may seem untimely. We do not think it should be so considered. The work of the Boy Scout association is constructive work of first rate importance. It is citizenship building of the most practical and widespread benefit, present and future. This year there are over twelve hundred thousand on the Scout registers, and since the founding of the organization 4,278,337 boys have belonged to the troops. The love of outdoors, health habits, and the establishment of standards of conduct are the objects of Scout work and it should be extended to reach as many boys as possible. There are many conditions in America of today which endanger the wholesome development of youth, and the American Boy Scout movement is one of the most effective means of defeating them.

A POLICY OF DECEIT.

Last week a bill to take the advice of the people of Indiana on prohibition was shelved indefinitely by the senate of that state. A minority report favoring the referendum was defeated by a vote of 19 to 18, the greatest strength shown by the wets in many years. The final vote was 25 to 15.

Thus organized prohibition again shows its unwillingness to hear what the people think of its experiment. The professional prohibitionists know that a majority of the people of Indiana have now gone into opposition, for the best of reasons, and will vote for reform. Therefore, as in Illinois and elsewhere, they use their remaining power in the legislature to prevent the people from expressing their opinion.

It is a strategy of evasion and defeat. The drys for years have been filling the air with attacks upon the wets for not respecting the great principle of majority rule, which they claim supports all dry laws. But they are everywhere afraid to submit their experiment to the test of a majority vote through the referendum. Entrenched, for the time being, in legislatures which often did not represent state majorities, they have blocked direct appeal to the people. This is an effort to keep the truth from coming out, a policy of political deceit, for the professional prohibitionists are the most deceitful element in our public life today.

A TURN IN THE BUREAUCRATIC TIDE?

A reader whose letter was published a few days ago on this page charges THE TRIBUNE with misstating the purposes of congress in enacting the recapture clause governing the profits of the railroads. The law provides that half of any profits over 6 per cent on the valuation of a railroad shall be turned into a revolving fund. That fund, we said, was to be divided as a subsidy among the weaker railroads. The fact is, according to our correspondent, that the money is to be lent, not given outright, and it may be used, also, for purchasing equipment to be rented by the railroads.

The difference between the two statements is in form rather than substance. Government revolving funds, if we may judge by the farm board's revolving fund, for example, have a way of disappearing. The money may be advanced as a loan, but if loans are not repaid they become outright gifts. The money advanced for reclamation purposes by the federal government furnishes another example in point. A revolving fund which does not revolve is a subsidy, whatever may have been the avowed purpose of congress in creating it. The recapture clause is especially vicious because it penalized good planning and economical operation and places a premium upon the incompetence of competitors.

The interstate commerce commission has concluded that the recapture clause should be repealed. This may indicate a wholesome departure from the usual bureaucratic trend. Government departments do not, as a rule, voluntarily relinquish any of their prerogatives. On the contrary, the tendency is almost always toward aggrandizement. A reversal of this trend on the part of so influential a government agency as the commerce commission would be an event of historical importance, perhaps the most significant event in the political history of the decade.

If the commission has actually decided to restrict its activities, two further steps may be anticipated. One will be in the direction of rate making. Here the commission will give greater freedom to the traffic departments of the various railroads in setting up their own rate structures. The commission will have recognized the futility of fixing rates which it regards as reasonable without later checking the results of those rates on the income of the railroads. If rates are raised to the point that traffic disappears, the increase defeats its own purpose. As the commissioners have neither the time nor the resources to check results they might recognize the fact by giving the railroads a greater measure of autonomy in adjusting rates to the complex requirements of competitive business.

Another direction in which a change might be expected is in the commission's policy with respect to the abandonment of unprofitable branch lines. Many of these feeder lines have little excuse for existence now that hard roads have been built paralleling them, but the commission will not let them be junked. Branch lines which cannot be made to pay should be abandoned and their capital value written off. The result would be a reduction of overhead which might be expected in turn to lead to lowered rates for main line hauls. A liberal policy toward abandonment would enable the railroads more effectively to combat the competition of buses and trucks.

CITIZENS AGAINST CRIME.

The rising of the citizens of Rogers Park to meet a recent invasion of crime in that district of homes is an encouraging development of the war on organized criminality. Too long the law abiding people of Chicago have assumed that gang warfare, criminal racketeering, slum politics, and the influences of the underworld do not threaten their own welfare sooner or later. They are waking to the realities in these days.

But demands for better police protection in this district or that, the people of Rogers Park and the people of all Chicago should by this time realize, will get them little while the conditions which have fostered crime are left untouched. If the people want peace and security they must strike at the center. They must do more than protest and petition the very power that for years has left them unprotected. They must destroy it.

Organized criminality has steadily grown in power and extent. It has only recently met a counter attack that has shaken its confidence and endangered its entrenchments. If Rogers Park citizens want criminals driven out of their quiet streets they will organize against the center and source of organized crime. They will put their strength into the war against the alliance of crime and corrupt politics. They will organize for the support of the agencies fighting that war and for the outstanding leader in that conflict. There is nothing in protests and demands addressed to a city government that has confessed, not merely by words but by its proved futility or worse, its inability to protect the city from crime or its unwillingness to do it. The only way to deal with such a situation is to give to a proved and formidable foe of crime the authority and means to crush crime, to put the régime which has done nothing to check the rule of gangdom and the spread of criminality out of the city government and give its great powers to a leader such as Judge Lyle has shown himself to be, capable and willing to use them for the protection of the city.

FOR HOLDERS OF DEFAULTED BONDS.

Thousands of Chicagoans have lost a part of their savings invested in real estate bonds. No one cause will explain all the recent foreclosures in Cook county, but no investor can afford to overlook the fact that increasing taxes have played a part, and an important one, in the debacle. This point was stressed in an address the other night by Mr. Louis Boysen, president of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association. He said: "The situation can be permanently remedied only by a thorough overhauling of the machinery which is presumed to be running Cook county and the city of Chicago. If we could clear our path of obsolete laws, extravagance, inefficiency and graft and be guided by an intelligent and businesslike system I am quite sure that Chicago would soon outstrip its few remaining rivals."

Real estate income which might have been used to pay interest and retire bonds when due has been paid in taxes or reserved for the payment of taxes. Extravagance on the part of the tax spenders has forced a general increase in tax rates. Every dollar wasted by the city administration has made some foreclosure more certain.

Holders of defaulted real estate bonds will be justified in recalling Mr. Boysen's analysis as they go to the polls on primary day. Needlessly high taxes have injured real estate and real estate securities in Chicago and will continue to do so until the voters put an end to the régime of "extravagance, inefficiency and graft."

Editorial of the Day

THE PROFESSORS FLUNK.

[New York World.]

To our thinking, the main point about this quiz conducted by the Columbia Spectator, a student publication, is not that ten members of the faculty flunked it, but that forty-three refused to take it. There was no disgrace in flunking it. Our recollection of the questions, as they were prepared by Thomas Beer and published in Scribner's magazine, is that they were pretty difficult; in that they did not differ from the average "general information" test, for it usually turns out that one man's general information is another man's useless nonsense. But how about refusing to take it?

It seems to us that the forty-three declinations at Columbia throw into sharp relief at least one defect of examinations, as well as the "honor" that is demanded in connection with them; and that is that examinations lack the basic element of honor, which is the association of equals. Without this, honor has no meaning. In former times a gentleman fought a duel only with another gentleman; if the affront came from a varlet, he boxed the fellow's ears. In examinations, however, where is the code between equals? All the rules are made by the professor, and by him applied. The student may want to write on both sides, instead of one; he may prefer four hours, instead of three; he may think that some question is grossly unfair. The forty-three at Columbia have merely proved what the students have instinctively known all along: that the system works only one way. The moment it is reversed, the professors refuse to play.

In addition to their unfairness, examinations are a pretty sorry way to test knowledge, and absurdly out of joint with the modern world. It is gratifying that here and there they are being abandoned, and that the childish "grades" reckoned from them are being replaced with judgments more mature.

YOUTHFUL MR. PEGLER.

I WISH to take issue with Westbrook Pegler. He writes that engaging in out of door sports is more hazardous than drinking red liquor in a barroom. To begin with, my learned friend does not know the danger of drinking red liquor in a barroom except for what he has read in books. He is too young to know personally about barrooms and is without qualifying experience in packing red liquor. It is never safe to accept book learning on its face.

In the second place, he bases his opinion solely on accidents. It is admitted that not many drinkers are fatally choked in swallowing spittoons, on the one hand, and that ski jumpers sometimes break their legs, on the other. But that is only a part of the story and one of small importance. The great benefits from outdoor winter sports are classed as indirect benefits.

Pneumonia is the great winter hazard and this disease has many relatives. The family group exact a fearful toll. Winter sports is an outstanding enemy of old man pneumonia and his family. One reason for winter-spring pneumonias is too much housing. People go into the short, dark, dry season with a moderate bank account of resistance. They draw on this account in November and December, and before January is over they are nearly bankrupt. A few hours occasionally spent in ski jumping, snowshoeing, sleighing, or skating will replenish the checking account.

In the summer season the days are longer and the light is brighter and better, yet few people try to get through a summer without some hours of golf weekly, or tennis play, or exposure of some sort. If we need fresh air and sunlight in summer—and we do—we need it ten times as much in winter.

I hope readers will see that this battle with Mr. Pegler is not real. He wrote about one kind of hazard. I write of another. Mine is a bigger hazard than his and the need of remedying matters is urgent.

APPEAL TO STATE.

Mrs. J. L. K. writes: A teacher who has taught the same primary room for almost twenty years has had a cough for the last five years. She expectorates freely into the waste paper basket and washes her handkerchiefs at the sink where the children wash their hands and milk bottles. Her father, brother, and two sisters-in-law died of tuberculosis. This teacher has frequent attacks of grip, and at times loses her voice and cannot speak aloud.

Is there any way in which the parents of the children in her room would be able to find out whether or not this teacher has tuberculosis? The death rate from tuberculosis is very high in this small town, and there are a number of persons known to have active cases of tuberculosis who are not receiving any medical attention and who do not use any sanitary precautions. What can be done about it? The health officer knows this but does nothing. Isn't there something that can be done?

REPLY.

If you cannot get action from the local health department, write to your state health department.

MIGHT TRY ANOTHER.

K. T. G. writes: Some time ago I had a slight operation on the bridge of my nose which has left one nostril larger than the other. Could I have something done to get it back to its original size?

REPLY.

You might try another operation unless you are fed up on operations.

LIST OF COARSE FOODS.

D. G. writes: Please print a list of the coarse foods.

REPLY.

Flaxseed, psyllium seed, bran, agar-agar, whole grain cereals and breads, cabbage, and other bulky vegetables; fruits, especially if the pulp and peel be swallowed.

CHATTEL MORTGAGE.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—"B" owes "A" an amount of money on which judgment has been secured. "A" using this judgment wishes to attach "B's" car. "B" claims car is under chattel mortgage. "A" examines said mortgage and finds that the mortgagor is "B's" father; the attorney-in-fact is "B's" brother; the sum of the mortgage is $500, whereas car at forced sale would barely procure $200; the car is not insured against fire and theft as is stipulated on mortgage; there is no clause showing at what time or how payments or interest are to be made; there are no witnesses, but a notary seal; and "B" claims the money has been given to him in small amounts during the year previous to the mortgage. Can "A" prove this mortgage to be a fraud and collect? A. S. L.

His chances would seem good enough to warrant placing the facts in the hands of the attorney who secured the judgment.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DIVORCE COMPLICATIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Does a writ of ne exeat in a divorce case hold indefinitely? 2. Can the law only hold you in jail a given length of time if bond is not put up? 3. On a contempt of court charge for alimony is there a limit to the number of times you can be sentenced? 4. Can this action be continued for always in six month durations? D. F.

1. Depends on the obligation on which it issued and on the court order.
2. Since the law requires the complainant to post a bond, we assume that you mean if the defendant does not put up a bond for his release.
3. No.
4. Each successive refusal or failure to pay could be treated as a new contempt.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MOOT QUESTION.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it unlawful for a company to use a picture of a child for advertising purposes without the consent of the parents? Are the parents entitled to any compensation? B. H.

Depends in part on how it came into their possession. No general right to control use of a likeness was recognized at common law, but there has been a tendency to blaze a trail in this direction in recent cases outside of Illinois. The advisability of taking action on such a doubtful state of law depends on facts that are not before us.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Ed. S.S.

A BIRTHDAY CHAT WITH MR. LINCOLN.

Well, well, if this isn't Abraham Lincoln himself, come back from the shadow land to pay us a little visit. Welcome, indeed, Mr. Lincoln; things have changed a lot since you were here in the flesh—a country lawyer down at Springfield and then President of this great country. And we revere you and hallow your memory and read your speeches, and we're glad to tell you that all your splendid hopes for the country have been more than verified. (BOOM!)

That's all right, Mr. Lincoln; that was just a bomb—pineapples we call 'em, ha! ha!—dropped in front of somebody's building or home. There's a good deal of that going on nowadays, but as you yourself said: "You can bomb some of the people all of the time, and bomb all of the people some of the time, but you cannot bomb all the people all the time." Ah, Mr. Lincoln, that saying of yours has been a great satisfaction to us. What's that? You didn't say it just that way? Oh, well, no, of course not, but it's all the same thing. Of course, we've changed it a bit to meet present conditions.

What did you say, Mr. Lincoln? Oh, you're asking how it comes that in this rich country which is now enjoying all the blessings of peace there are so many starving people among the farmers in Kentucky and Arkansas as well as among the white collar workers and mechanics in New York, Chicago, and other big cities? Well, Mr. Lincoln, there is a little shortage of food here and there, to be sure, but as you have so well said: "You can starve some of the people all the time, and starve all of the people some of the time, but you cannot starve all the people all the time." I beg pardon, you say you didn't say just that? Well, as I said before, we have to adapt your words to present conditions.

That saying of yours is a great blessing indeed. We have a good deal of banditry right now. We're held up and robbed on the street, in the hallways of our flats, inside our homes, in our offices, in the most crowded part of the city, and on the lonely country highway, but as you so happly remarked, Mr. Lincoln: "You can rob some of the people all the time, and rob all the people some of the time, but you cannot rob all the people all the time." Ah, Mr. Lincoln, that thought is a wonderful consolation to us. And even if you didn't say it just that way, of course it's all the same thing.

What's that? You ask if there isn't a very considerable number of people unemployed. Well, yes, Mr. Lincoln, a good many more than we care to admit. There have been a great many people who were once employed at fair pay in all sorts of industries who, because of—well, because of this and that—have been discharged from their jobs. But there again, Mr. Lincoln, your wonderful words come to comfort us, to soothe and sustain. For, as you well said, Mr. Lincoln: "You can fire some of the people all the time, and fire all of the people some of the time, but you cannot fire all the people all the time." How true! How true! A wonderful thought, Mr. Lincoln, a wonderful thought.

Oh, Mr. Lincoln, must you go? You look a trifle bored. But I just wanted you to know that that wonderful thought of yours, so beautifully expressed, is such a help to us. It isn't just the way you said it, but as I have told you we give it a little different construction to suit any emergency, and it is indeed a great help to us and makes us feel how truly and devotedly we are living up to all your teachings. Good-by, Mr. Lincoln, so glad you came, and we'll look for you on this same day next year. Good-by!

EACH KISS IS A DREAM. . . .

And one was a dream of springtime,
Of moonlit nights and sweet,
A garden close to heaven where
We secretly would meet;

And one was a dream of summer,
Of sunlight over the sea,
We on a "desert isle" alone,
From all life's cares set free;

And one was a dream of autumn,
Of orange-red harvest moons,
We tramping through the bright-hued woods
Or camping in the dunes;

And one was a dream of winter,
Of frost and wind and snow,
We skiing down hills of gleaming white,
Laughing to fall below:

And one was a dream of mating,
An empire built for two . . .
A home . . . a fireside's friendly glow . . .
And all our dreams come true!

SHERRY KING.

THE LOWER HOUSE of the Illinois legislature has voted to wipe out the state prohibition law and the search and seizure act. Now, if the Illinois senate does the same thing—but we're still in the Union so that it won't help so much—please give me another glass of grape concentrate.

AND IF ILLINOIS votes against prohibition—well, we couldn't very well go out of the Union. South Carolina tried that once, and some other states; and, oh, what a kick in the pants they got. And, besides, what's the use? Come, friends, let us look over the cheer contained in these little kegs of California grape concentrate—sauterne, champagne, port, sherry, catawba—oh, we should go out of the Union with all that nice twenty per cent kicker stuff right behind the piano and in the closet. Don't be silly; let's try the champagne.

WHAT EVERYBODY wants to know—why, with wheat prices tumbled down to about as low as it is humanly possible to go, does bread continue at the same high price? Maybe they don't put wheat in bread any more. We think from the price we have to pay at our bakery that it's made from dried orchids mixed with manna and crushed rose petals.

LAGNIAPPE.

THE WIZARD OF BELVIDERE who promised to pay his investors as high as fifty per cent on their money is broke. Which will be a warning to people—for probably twenty-four hours. Or an hour, or maybe fifteen minutes, at least. F. H. L.

BRINGING UP THE AMMUNITION

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 12, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Warnings, couched in diplomatic terms, but stern in tone, were addressed to the British and German governments by the United States. The note to Germany says: "The United States government would consider it an indefensible violation of neutral rights if commanders of German vessels of war should destroy on the high seas an American vessel or the lives of American citizens. The government of the United States would be constrained to hold the imperial German government to a strict accountability for such acts of their naval authorities and to take any steps it might be necessary to take to safeguard American lives and property and to secure to American citizens the full enjoyment of their acknowledged rights on the high seas." The note to Great Britain points out the danger to American interests of the use of the flag of the United States by British vessels to deceive their enemy and urgently requests that the practice be discouraged.

PARIS.—The Germans have strongly bombarded Nieuport and the banks of the Yser, but have not succeeded in doing any material damage, according to the French official statement, which reports violent fighting throughout the western front.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 12, 1901.

PRETORIA.—The Boers mined the railway near Middleburg, Transvaal, on Feb. 10, and a British officer and two Kaffirs, who were proceeding by trolley were killed by the explosion.

MUSCATINE, Ia.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, the saloon wrecker, and her party came to a parting of the ways here. Business Manager Rankin says he is financially embarrassed, and, together with four of the women, returned to Topeka. Mrs. Nation will leave for Chicago tomorrow.

CHICAGO.—Officers of the Woman's Christian Temperance union were busy arranging to receive Mrs. Nation when she arrives in Chicago. The first problem with which they were confronted was to find a suitable hotel in the downtown district. It must be a hotel without a bar.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—More than 150 shots were fired and three persons were injured in a riot about the Second district polling place of the Fourth ward. Forty policemen with riot guns were required to subdue the mob.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 12, 1881.

LONDON.—It is rumored there is a plot to blow up Windsor castle. Precautions have been taken and the queen has delayed her return from Osborne. It is said that Charles Stewart Parnell's visit to Paris was impelled by immediate danger of his arrest. He is to be joined there tomorrow by Mr. Dillon. A meeting of leaders of the Irish Land league will be held in Paris on Feb. 13 and it is understood that Mr. Parnell will sail for the United States immediately after it is over.

CHICAGO.—Carson, Pirie & Co. advertise their annual clearance sale at both their stores, Madison and Peoria streets and Clark and Erie streets.

CAPE TOWN.—The Boers have inflicted another severe defeat on the British forces of Sir G. P. Colley, almost annihilating his command, while there was little or no loss on the Boer side. Gen. Colley was obliged to leave his wounded on the field. It is reported that 1,000 Boers are advancing to intercept reinforcements for Gen. Colley, which are moving from Sierra Leone.

CHICAGO.—Ernest Buhlert, a prominent young journalist of this city and a brother of William Buhlert of the Freie Presse, is dead of consumption at the age of 30. He was connected with the Staats-Zeitung and the Arbeiter-Zeitung until his health began to fail some time ago.

PARIS.—Jacques Edouard Gatteaux, the distinguished French sculptor and medalist, is dead.

NEW YORK.—The performances in Booth's theater for the benefit of the Edgar Allan Poe statue fund netted more than $5,000.

WASHINGTON.—Senator Hoar will lead the opposition to the ratification of the Chinese treaty in the senate on the ground that it imposes too severe restrictions on immigration.

LYLE AGAINST CRIME.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—I want to take this opportunity to offer my thanks and appreciation for the splendid and timely article, "Lyle Against Crime," in last Monday's TRIBUNE. It is reviews of this caliber that put teeth into the efforts and accomplishments of those of our public officials who are fearless and willing to perform their sworn duties. It is a summons to the many of us who have been asleep to wake up. In other words, it is a call to arms.

With memories still ringing of a Lincoln, let us rally shoulder to shoulder with a vigor to support as never before the militant leadership of those public officials who are in a battle to purge this city of ours of its filth and slime.

CHARLES J. HENDERSON.

WHERE LINCOLN SPOKE.

Oak Park, Ill., Feb. 10.—There's an old frame building with very long porch from which Abraham Lincoln is supposed to have made a speech. This building is in Fullersburg, Ill., west of Hinsdale, on Ogden avenue. If this be true I have often wondered why some historical society or the state has no tablet erected there. M. D. S.

RELIEF.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—I have been without employment for the last five months and did the best I could to keep from asking for relief, but, having exhausted all of my credit, I was forced to beg for work. I went to the principal of our public school and was told I would be taken care of, but after a week of waiting I finally asked a prominent representative about the matter and was given a letter of introduction to the governor's relief committee.

After walking seven miles to the bureau, I was advised at the building door by a uniformed policeman to come back at 6 o'clock the following morning. He did not even bother to see to whom my letter was addressed or from whom. I was pushed out onto the sidewalk. I have always been a liberal giver to any cause I felt was worthy, often depriving myself of things, but I for one am through giving. I am asking for work, not charity, and if the above mentioned experience looks like relief then give me abuse. B. E. WING.

EARLY SETTLERS.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—As regards pigeons in the loop, I will say, as an old resident of Chicago, that long before we had a loop, when the Chicago business men drove horse drawn vehicles to the business district and there were cab stands along the many curbs, where horses were hitched and fed, we had many pigeons, as they were attracted by the grain which fell from the feed bags. Of course, now we do not have so much grain around; therefore the pigeons are attracted to the elevated stations for peanuts.

OLD TIME READER.

THE OUTLAW.

Ottumwa, Ia., Feb. 8.—THE TRIBUNE editorial, "American Help for Communism," was timely. Russia may have a right to her form of government, but America has a right to her standard of living. American experts may have a legal right to sell their skill to Russia, but it is just as deadly as treason. Why do business with Russia? Why bolster up a system which is against everything we stand for? Why not outlaw this outlaw once and for all?

F. T. OSTDIEK.

THE USES OF LEISURE.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 9.—In a letter published Sunday, Feb. 8, the mother of a college student complains that her son has too much time to loaf. She says, in part, that he does his lessons in two hours, which leaves him ten hours to loaf.

If such are the circumstances it seems evident that her son has not realized or understood the aim of a college training. The actual assignments are not planned to require all the student's time in preparation of them. The courses merely throw out ideas in certain directions for the student to develop by means of his own independent thinking. It is unthinkable, to me at least, that a course should present all the facts and do all the thinking. The time which this mother calls "loafing" should partly be spent in research along the lines of thought suggested by the professor. If such procedure is followed the leisure time becomes constructive.

If, as the mother suggests, class work should consist of eight straight hours, the result, it seems to me, would be unsatisfactory. The student would tend to become bewildered by the presentation of a great mass of facts. He would have but little opportunity to think about what he was learning. When could he correlate this knowledge with his own ideas of life?

RICHARD HUNTON.

THE LIFE OF AN ENGINEER.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—For the benefit of "Dissatisfied" and the readers of THE TRIBUNE I wish to correct any impression that all colleges and universities offer a life of ease and sedentary pleasure to their students.

I am a student in a well known institution preparing young men for engineering. Eight-thirty every schoolday morning I am found beginning my morning classes. Throughout the day my time is consistently occupied with lectures, recitations, and laboratory periods until 4 p. m. After this day of attempting to absorb all the ocean of information presented I attempt to get a few minutes' recreation before 6 o'clock dinner. Too soon I must start on my home work, spending from 5 to 6 hours in the preparation of the lessons of the following day. Mathematics is the chief subject pursued, requiring hours and hours of patient effort for its mastery. Saturdays and Sundays are taken up with work and investigation at the various technical libraries in preparation of theses and scientific discourses to be presented to the various classes. C. D. McW.

BALLYHOO.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—Your article and picture on the Lake Calumet bubble shows that you are not afraid to print the truth. How the mayor did howl about the harbor, and he promised steamboats whistling from Lake Michigan to the gulf by way of Calumet harbor in his campaign speeches on the south side in 1927. The real estate firms affiliated with the city hall crowd profited. SOUTH SIDE CITIZEN.

OVERCROWDED THEATERS.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—I attended two movie theaters in the neighborhood during the last week and when every seat was occupied the patrons still coming in were lined up against each side wall and stood there for the remainder of the performance in front of the exits.

FEAR REPUBLICAN OUTBREAK; SPAIN GUARDED BY GUNS

Observe Anniversary of 1873 Republic.

JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Feb. 11.—The republican elements in Spain made capital of the anniversary today of the ill fated republic of 1873 by solemnly canonizing the "martyrs" of last December's even more luckless attempt to oust the king. Thousands of people after attending mass in Madrid for Capt. Hernandez, who was executed for the Jaca revolt, marched in procession before the home of his mother and the home of Señora Galan, whose son led the Jaca uprising.

While this was going on, King Alfonso was not wasting time. He called in a number of his generals, who are known to be eager to get into action. At the same time the colonels of the Madrid garrison met in extraordinary session with the captain general of the first region, Frederico Berenguer, brother of Premier Berenguer, and troops throughout the country were ordered confined to their barracks in readiness for service in case the republicans started disorders.

Premier Issues Statement.

This gave rise to suspicion among the old inhabitants, who during the unsettled political weather of the last few days have feared a new dictatorship was imminent.

However, after tonight's council meeting, Premier Berenguer issued a note intended to calm the excitement. It said the factions which are boycotting the elections in March may be trying to bring order in Spain, but that in reality they were playing into the hands of the out and out revolutionists. Regardless of this, he declared, he still intends to hold those elections.

Later a member of the cabinet said: "The government will go on with the elections regardless, even though it might be necessary to close parliament immediately afterwards."

Shooting Irons Keep Peace.

With the republicans' leading orator in jail, the country got through today's anniversary without serious incidents. More effective than the absence of oratory was the noticeable prominence of shooting irons and tear gas contraptions in the hands of the police.

Authority drew its sword literally and during the day to end an outbreak of oratory. This was in the famous, historic forum, where intellectuals gather to talk against the government. Despite warnings, the membership of the society took the government at its word about constitutional guarantees being restored and opened the club forcibly. They got in an hour's hot discussion when the police arrived and invited the gathering to disperse. When they refused the police drew swords and with the flat sides the recalcitrants were belabored into the streets. The governing committee was thrown into jail. They promptly launched complaints with the high court against the police on grounds of infringement of their constitutional rights. Late tonight the committee was released.

ANNOUNCE COUNTIES' SHARE OF $9,194,193 GASOLINE TAX FUND

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The county portions of the 1930 gas tax collections, totaling $9,194,193.05, were announced today by Garrett D. Kinney, director of finance. The money was distributed in proportion to the license fees paid by county residents.

Some of the larger allotments to the 102 counties were:

County—	Sum.
Cook	$3,848,587.96
St. Clair	202,121.80
Kane	196,593.73
Peoria	199,787.52
Lake	184,661.41
Madison	188,422.39
La Salle	150,238.68
Dupage	149,511.46
Champaign	111,174.61
Rock Island	136,718.88
Sangamon	154,886.20
Winnebago	191,150.67
Will	148,472.24

Total gas tax collections during the year were $27,582,679.16, and of this two-thirds went to the state to build roads during 1930 or obligated by road contracts, the other third going to the counties.

The counties spend their road money by submitting plans to the highway department for approval and drawing checks for the amount necessary to pay them after approval is given. The money is now in the state treasury.

FORD WILL BUILD 2 AIRPORTS AND SCHOOL IN BRAZIL

PARA, Brazil, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Henry Ford is to build two new airports in Brazil and a trade school like that at Dearborn, Mich., Ford Motor company technicians who arrived here recently disclosed today.

One of the airports is to be here and the other at Boavista, where the company already has rubber plantations. They are to be constructed to facilitate rapid communication between the general Ford offices in Para and the plantation on the Tapajos river, about 500 miles away. The trade school is to be at Boavista.

The technicians already have visited the Boavista plantations by airplane and they said the steamer Lake Farge was expected shortly with materials for the various new enterprises.

BUSINESS ENDS WEDDED LIFE OF FAMOUS DANCER

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Florence Walton, world famed dancer, was divorced today from Leon Leitrim, whom she married following her separation from her late husband, commonly known as Maurice, who died a few years ago. The collapse of Miss Walton's latest marital venture came after the couple had given up professional dancing to enter the business world, the wife to become a smart modiste and the husband to become an automobile salesman.

Miss Walton, tall, slender, brunette, was the idol of Broadway as a dancer during the war. She met and married Maurice Mouvet, the olive skinned son of a Belgian biscuit maker. Miss Walton had nothing to teach Maurice in the technique of modern dancing, but she had the prestige to enable him to scale the greatest heights as her partner, and later as her husband.

Maurice abandoned the stage and the ballroom to cross to France and volunteer in the American ambulance service. Florence remained in New York quietly until her friends urged her to resume her career, and then she met Leon Leitrim. Of average height, slight, with the raven black hair of the Caucasus, Leitrim was a Georgian whose family had fled the country at the revolution, and settled in Geneva, Switzerland.

Then Leon went to New York, where he took up ballroom dancing. Soon after he met Florence and became her dancing partner. And while they danced Maurice drove his little ambulance back across the shell swept areas of the advance combat zone in France.

The war ended, Maurice returned to his wife. But he did not return to his dancing partner. Florence continued to dance with Leon. Then Maurice and she separated.

Florence obtained a divorce and married Leitrim. Married, they were as great a success as they had been as hoofing partners. They came to Europe, appearing in the various capitals, London, Berlin, Vienna, and Madrid, as well as at the leading fashionable resorts.

A couple of years ago Florence became restless. She tired of the stage. Leon took on a few pounds and wearied of continual gymnastics and track work to keep down the weight.

Becomes a Modiste.

So Florence decided to become a modiste. Her friends had always complimented her on her ability to make chic hats for herself and asked her why she wouldn't make them for them. Florence found a dainty little spot in the rue St. Florentin, next door to Jean Patou's, and opened up as a full fledged modiste.

She had wonderful success, not only among her friends, but with the public.

Leon got busy, too. He turned to his old hobby, automobiles, and joined the staff of an automobile company. Beside being a supersalesman, Leon was appointed as one of the racing drivers for that concern.

A Few Little Spats.

Florence went to work every morning at 9 o'clock. Leon left the house at 8:30 for his job. Florence was tired after her long days in the shop—she closes at 7 p. m. Leon had to take prospective customers out and show them the town.

They drifted apart. A few little spats and they decided to live apart for awhile to try it out. The separation worked well and now they are divorced. Leon has just signed a contract to go to Hollywood to make some films. He will sail for America in March.

O CAPTAIN! MY CAPTAIN!

[ABRAHAM LINCOLN, 1809-1865]

O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weather'd every rack, the prize we sought is won,
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting,
While follow eyes the steady keel, the vessel grim and daring;
But O heart! heart! heart!
O the bleeding drops of red,
Where on the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

O Captain! my Captain! rise up and hear the bells;
Rise up—for you the flag is flung—for you the bugle trills,
For you bouquets and ribbon'd wreaths—for you the shores a-crowding,
For you they call, the swaying mass, their eager faces turning;
Here Captain! dear father!
This arm beneath your head!
It is some dream that on the deck,
You've fallen cold and dead.

My Captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still,
My father does not feel my arm, he has no pulse nor will,
The ship is anchor'd safe and sound, its voyage closed and done,
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;
Exult O shores, and ring O bells!
But I with mournful tread,
Walk the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

HOOVER TO GIVE NATION LINCOLN MESSAGE TODAY

Will Talk from "Abe's" Famous Desk.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Nationwide exercises in commemoration of the 122d anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln will be featured tomorrow by a Lincoln day message delivered by President Hoover.

The President will speak to the nation from the historic room in the White House once used by President Lincoln as a private office and study.

The microphone into which the President will speak at 10 p. m., will be placed on the famous "Resolute" desk at which Lincoln prepared his Emancipation Proclamation.

The Lincoln room, closely associated with memories of the Great Emancipator, is on the second floor of the White House.

Another address of national interest will be made by Lewis G. Reynolds, custodian of the Lincoln museum. Speaking from the room in which Lincoln died, Mr. Reynolds will describe the Old Royd Lincoln collection which is now the property of the government.

Other Exercises Planned.

No general ceremonies have been arranged in the capital, although numerous patriotic organizations have planned exercises. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, where Lincoln worshiped during his years at the White House, will speak in the college chapel at American university.

The Republican national committee announced today that Republican rallies have been called throughout the country for the purpose of listening to the President's address. Preceding Mr. Hoover's tribute to the civil war President numerous government officials and several Republican members of congress will deliver speeches in various cities.

Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde speaks at Louisville, Ky.; Secretary of the Interior Lyman Wilbur and Secretary of Labor William N. Doak in Washington, while Robert Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, will speak at Nashville, Tenn.

Japanese Envoy Speaks.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi of Japan uttered a plea tonight for economic disarmament and adherence to the ideals of Abraham Lincoln in an address commemorating the 122d anniversary of the birth of the civil war President.

The ambassador shared the speaking platform with the governors of three states in the memorial services held at the state arsenal.

Govs. William H. Murray of Oklahoma and Wilber M. Brucker of Michigan, joined the chief executive of Illinois, Louis L. Emmerson, in the memorial services.

Gov. Murray asked for a return of the "spirit of humanity and brotherly love which was Lincoln's," for a solution of the nation's present problems. Gov. Brucker spoke on "Lessons from Lincoln."

HUSBAND SLAYS WIFE IN HOME DURING QUARREL

In the presence of a neighbor, Santo Caesario, 50 years old, a stationary fireman, shot his wife, Catherine, 48 years old, to death after they had quarreled in the kitchen of their home at 3230 Congress street late yesterday. Mrs. Mary Wilcox, 3144 Congress street, a neighbor, told police that Caesario had been drinking.

The three Caesario children, John, 15 years old; Albert, 13 years old, and Samuel, 9 years old, were in an adjoining room at the time of the tragedy.

Policemen Patrick Kenny and John Scully of a Fillmore street station flivver squad, arrested Caesario.

MASTERS' BOOK ON LINCOLN BARRED IF THIS BILL IS PASSED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—On the even of the anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln, Representative Crail introduced a bill today to bar from the mails a book entitled "Lincoln, the Man," by Edgar Lee Masters.

In the measure the California Republican charged the book was "obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy, and indecent." He added it was a scurrilous and unprincipled attack on a good man whose memory is enshrined in the hearts of American citizens.

Of the floor Crail said "If the government is going to be so particular about remarks of its citizens on Premier Mussolini and apologize for them, it should take action for preventing the circulation through the mails of an attack on one of its most beloved characters in history."

DAISY APPEALS IN EFFORT TO EVADE SENTENCE IN JAIL

Los Angeles, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Daisy De Boe began her fight to escape a jail sentence for the theft of $825 from Clara Bow, film actress whom she served as secretary, by filing an appeal today from a decision denying her a new trial.

Miss De Boe, granted probation for five years on condition that she serve 18 months in the county jail, alleged among other things her conviction by a jury was reached by "lot or chance."

The reference to a verdict by "lot or chance" was based on a statement of one juror that the count on which Miss De Boe was convicted was "selected at random" from the 35 counts on which she was tried. William Beirne, her counsel, said he would attempt to free her on an appeal bond.

WIFE LOVES HIM SO MUCH SHE AIDS HIS LOVE AFFAIR

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—When W. G. Chapman went on trial for bigamy today the court heard evidence tending to establish that Mrs. Chapman was so infatuated with her husband that she ever wrote his love letters to the woman to whom he subsequently was married.

After he was sent to prison to await trial, the evidence indicated, she invited the second wife to live with her. One of the letters introduced as evidence and said to have been written by Mrs. Chapman closed: "With best love till we return to ashes."

Chapman was sentenced to nine months in jail.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough or chest cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make a full pint. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in severe bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

ILLINOIS HONORS ITS ADOPTED SON, LINCOLN, TODAY

Memorial Ceremonies Here, Throughout U. S.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Today is the birthday of Lincoln the rail splitter, Lincoln the Emancipator, Lincoln the martyred President. Chicago, in common with the rest of his adopted state of Illinois, as well as the other states, will celebrate the anniversary with fitting ceremonies and with a cessation of many activities, including those in schools, courts, banks, and, for the latter part of the day, in the postoffices.

From morning until night various features of the city's observance will carry on the tribute to the civil war President. This morning, at the St. Gaudens statue, opposite Dearborn street in Lincoln park, the Cubs, younger brothers of the Boy Scouts, will make their first public appearance in Chicago when they lay a wreath at the foot of the monument. A guard of honor of Sea Scuts will escort the colors, and Boy Scouts from every troop in the city will be present.

Society to Celebrate.

At noon, the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution will hold its annual Washington-Lincoln day luncheon at the Hotel La Salle. Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, will be the principal speaker. John W. Crawford, Northwestern university student, will deliver Lincoln's Gettysburg address.

Dr. Louis L. Mann of Sinai temple will be the speaker at noon before the forum committee of the Covenant club. He will discuss "Lincoln As a Prophet."

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Memorial hall in the Public Library building, G. A. R. veterans will attend a memorial ceremony. William P. Wright, president of the G. A. R. Hall and Memorial association, will welcome the guests.

Will Hold Open House.

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Chicago Historical society the annual open house maintained on Lincoln's birthday will culminate with a special program. Dr. Louis A. Warren of Fort Wayne, historian, will be the speaker.

Members of the Mizpah Men's club will commemorate the anniversary at the Community house, 1615 Morse avenue, with a patriotic celebration. Otto Eisenschiml and Charles Simon will speak.

Many Chicago pupils will see the motion picture on Lincoln's life which will be shown today at the Field museum under the auspices of the James Nelson and Anna Louise Raymond Foundation. One showing will be at 10 a. m. and another at 11. Admission is free.

Probate Judge Henry Horner left Chicago yesterday to speak at the opening of the Lincoln Research museum at Fort Wayne, Ind., today. Tomorrow he will address the Lincoln club in Springfield, on "The Life of Lincoln," repeating the talk on Saturday in Peoria.

The Chicago Board of Trade will close today.

Lane Technical High school yesterday staged a joint observance of the anniversaries of Washington and Lincoln. Grant Beebe, principal, spoke on "Lincoln and Washington," and Ira Holland and G. W. Magill, students, gave orations on the ideals of Washington in the Union League club competition.

Japanese Envoy to Speak.

Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador to the United States, passed through Chicago on his way to Springfield, where he will speak at a Lincoln celebration today. He arrived here on the Liberty Limited from Washington, D. C., and was greeted by Atsushi Kimura, Japanese consul in Chicago.

BEWARE OF COLDS!

"ONLY a cold." What a stupid remark! For every cold is a threat—a warning. Every hour makes you more miserable—weakens your resistance—makes it easier for your cold to develop into something far worse.

Go after your cold HARD . . . and end it in a hurry. Rub Mentholatum vigorously on your chest. Cover it with flannel to speed its action. Then drink plenty of water to carry the poisons from the cold out of your system.

Put just a bit of Mentholatum in each nostril to keep your nasal passages clear. It does not irritate sore surfaces. The odor is pleasing.

ACCEPT VIADUCT AS WAY TO OPE 103RD STREE

I. C. C. to Fix Details a Apportion Costs.

A definite plan to open 103d str with a viaduct over the tracks of Nickel Plate and Western Indiana r roads at their juncture with East 1 street, which has been approved the railroads, the city, and south s civic organizations, was presented the Illinois Commerce commission y terday.

Three variations of the plan will studied by the commission and a hearing on Feb. 25 one of the p posals, with allocation of costs, to submitted to the litigants. At sess representing the litigants hundreds of south side residents cro ing the commission hearing rooms pressed confidence in the commiss and orally agreed to abide by the ing.

Give Estimates of Costs.

The report of the engineers s gested a 60 foot roadway with two feet sidewalks at a total cost of $ 932; a 50 foot roadway with one 6 sidewalk at a total cost of $870, or a 40 foot roadway with one 6 sidewalk at a total cost of $740. Additional expenses above the di cost of the viaduct are included cause the tracks of the Western diana are twelve feet higher t those of the Nickel Plate and st ear tracks not in the original d sance are included.

The report was signed by A. C. I very, engineer for the Nickel Plate J. Noonan, engineer for the city, F. E. Morrow, engineer for the C W. L.

Would Consolidate Tracks.

Under the plan the railroads pose to build the overhead struc at 103d street and move to that inity all tracks and switchyards f farther north, permitting the ope of a number of shorter east and streets.

Alderman William A. Rowan [1 assured the commission he could strain the department of public w from enforcing an order recently g by the city council which dema that the tracks be removed before 31. Service of the order, he said, now depend on treatment of the sent proposal.

Attorneys representing the litigants and hundreds of south side residents crowded the commission hearing rooms expressed confidence in the commission would finally agreed to abide by the ruling.

Give Estimates of Costs.

The report of the engineers suggested a 40 foot roadway with two 10 foot sidewalks at a total cost of $936,000; a 60 foot roadway with one 6 foot sidewalk at a total cost of $870,219, and a 60 foot roadway with one 6 foot sidewalk at a total cost of $740,000. Additional expenses above the direct cost of the viaduct are included because the tracks of the Western Indiana are twelve feet higher than those of the Nickel Plate and street railway tracks not in the original ordinance are included.

The report was signed by A. C. Harper, engineer for the Nickel Plate; E. J. Noonan, engineer for the city, and W. H. Morrow, engineer for the C. & W. I.

Would Consolidate Tracks.

Under the plan the railroads propose to build the overhead structure at 103d street and move to that vicinity all tracks and switchyards from farther north, permitting the opening of a number of shorter east and west streets.

LADY SUFFOLK'S ATTORNEY ASKS LEITER OUSTER

In behalf of Lady Marguerite Hyde, countess of Suffolk and Berks, and other complainants among the heirs of Levi Z. Leiter, Attorney Leland K. Howe yesterday pleaded with three judges sitting en banc in the Appellate court to remove Joseph Leiter as one of the trustees of the $30,000,000 estate of his father. The court is reviewing the decision of Judge Denis E. Sullivan in the Superior court which refused to remove Liter.

"We appeal to your honors not to regard Joe Leiter as harmless because his hands are tied, his teeth are pulled, his claws are sheathed," argued Howe. "His past actions in the management of this estate should be an indication of what his future conduct will be."

The reference was to the decree of Judge Sullivan which provided that any action by the three trustees must be unanimous, and in case of a disagreement must be submitted to the court. Lady Suffolk is a trustee, Joseph another, and the third, appointed by the court, is Daniel V. Harkin.

BELGIAN COURT UPHOLDS RIGHT TO CENSURE DUCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Feb. 11.—A man who might be called the "Belgian General Butler" has won his lawsuit against a Fascist daily in Brussels. Belgian citizens will be free to criticize Mussolini after this precedent.

When the would-be murderer of Crown Prince Umberto of Italy, Fernando de Rosa, was tried here this fall, F. F. Passelecq, a leading Brussels lawyer and expert on Italian law, was called as a witness. M. Passelecq criticized the Fascist régime severely.

"The Italian king is reduced to nothing better than chancellor of the government," M. Passelecq said. In fact, he made it clear he considered King Victor Emmanuel a mere figurehead. He also declared that "the Italian people have had no chance to exercise their sovereignty in the matter of choosing the Fascist government.

These words aroused the ire of Le XXe Siecle [The Twentieth Century], a Fascist-inspired daily in Brussels. The newspaper violently attacked M. Passelecq but refused him its columns to defend himself. M. Passelecq sued the XXe Siecle and won his suit. The Belgian Fascist daily is condemned to publish M. Passelecq's article explaining why he criticizes the Fascist government. It also will bear the cost of the lawsuit.

The Brussels court in its decision said: "M. Passelecq's words contain nothing offensive for the Italian people."

Missing Policeman's Coat Found on Bank of Canal

The mystery of the disappearance two years ago of Leroy McLean, colored policeman of Robbins, was revived last night when a Chicago policeman's uniform coat was found on the bank of the Sag canal near 131st street and Cicero avenue. Chief of Police William H. Wallace of Robbins, who found the coat, notified the Chicago detective bureau and Detectives Harry Lang and Harry Miller identified handwriting on papers in the pockets as that of McLean. A Chicago policeman had loaned the coat to McLean, they said.

Find Bread Can Be Made in Way to Prevent Rickets

TORONTO, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Ordinary bread can now be charged with vitamin D, food element which prevents rickets, a review of scientific papers in the Canadian Medical Journal today says. Research workers in the hospital for sick children discovered the new process, the review said, and now have three of the six known vitamins in a loaf.

SLEUTH FOR NYE HERE ON 2 DAY SECRET MISSION

Agent Baldwin Is Silent on Trip to City.

William H. Baldwin, chief investigator for Senator Gerald P. Nye's committee, which has been investigating campaign expenditures, arrived in Chicago from Washington yesterday. He refused to disclose his mission here.

Interviewed at the Palmer house, Baldwin said he was not at liberty to divulge the secrets of his employer, Senator Nye. The sleuth said he was "investigating," but refused to say if there had been any recent development in the senatorial inquiry which had brought him here three months after the senatorial election.

"You'll have to talk to Senator Nye about what I'm doing," he told inquirers. "My work is confidential and I can't be talking about it for publication."

Not Here to See Watchman.

Baldwin denied that he came to Chicago to see H. J. Loose, a night watchman, who drew $500 a month and expenses for 7 months from the Nye committee, or David S. Groh, a Chicago private detective, who was alleged by investigators for Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick to have handed one of them $150 to obtain information for the Nye committee.

Baldwin figured prominently in the news during the primary investigations last summer when it was charged that he was a former undercover agent for the Ku Klux Klan. Committee members denied the charge, but it was later established that Baldwin had held such a post.

Spend More than Candidates.

A recent compilation in Washington on the Nye comittee expense account showed that of the $96,503.12 expended in 14 states more was spent in Illinois than on all the other states combined. Of the $55,728.48 spent in specific investigation, $29,350.16 was used in the Illinois investigation. The expense account revealed that in a number of states the committee spent more than the candidate under investigation spent in his campaign and in several states the committee spent more than both candidates.

The expense accounts of the committee and its investigators on their travels brought caustic comment on the floor of the house recently.

Seeks Writ to Get Name on Aldermanic Ballot

Peter J. Spingola, 5501 West Gladys avenue, yesterday began mandamus proceedings in the Superior court to compel the board of election commissioners to place his name on the ballot as a candidate for alderman from the Thirtieth ward. Spingola alleges that his petition as a candidate was thrown out at the request of Ald. John S. Clark [30th]. He charges the election commissioners had no right to rule on the signatures on his petition.

STUDEBAKER SIX world's lowest priced car with free wheeling

THIS is the one motor car economy announcement of real consequence this year.

Free Wheeling, the greatest automobile advancement since the electric starter, is now yours in a brilliant new Studebaker Six priced from $795 upward.

It is the same Free Wheeling with positive gear control used in the three great Studebaker Eights and adopted, intact and unmodified, by the Pierce-Arrow and Lincoln.

It brings you a 12% to 20% economy of gasoline and oil and substantial savings in chassis wear, tires and repairs.

Studebaker has done many things to merit the public's confidence during its 79-year career. But nothing in Studebaker history matches this move. Nothing in the motor car field compares with this opportunity to get Free Wheeling in a car of this low price.

Come, see and drive this brilliant new Studebaker Six. Experience the marvel of Free Wheeling. Ride on momentum instead of gasoline. Go five speedometer miles for every four miles of engine effort. Shift from high to second and back to high without touching the clutch. See why Free Wheeling is both the greatest thrill and the greatest economy in motoring—why highway commissioners and safety directors throughout the country have driven Free Wheeling Studebakers and then voiced approval of Free Wheeling with positive gear control as a new measure of safety to driver and public.

Choose no comparably priced car until you drive this Free Wheeling Studebaker Six. Arrange today to have a Studebaker dealer take you Free Wheeling.

FREAR BILL ASKS WAR VETO POWER FOR THE PEOPLE

Would Prohibit Forced Foreign Service.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—A joint resolution authorizing the President to call a world conference for the purpose of strengthening the Kellogg anti-war treaty was introduced in the house today by Representative James A. Frear [Rep., Wis.].

His plan included adoption by the major Kellogg anti-war powers of an agreement pledging them not to go to war until after the question of whether a country should declare hostilities against another had been passed on by popular vote in all nations where this right exists.

Seeks War Referendum.

A second resolution offered by the Wisconsin radical Republican proposes a new amendment to the constitution, making it mandatory for the administration in power to put the question of going to war up to popular vote prior to any declaration of hostilities.

The amendment also would forbid conscription, but when public safety demands congress would have authority to "provide for forced military service on the North American continent and in no other place."

In the senate the foreign relations committee definitely blocked consideration at the present session of the protocol for American adherence to the world court.

Refuses Reconsideration.

The action came on a motion by Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana for reconsideration of a previous decision of the committee to defer the court issue until the regular session next December. It was agreed, however, that the protocol will again be taken up by the committee in the event of a special session before December.

The committee members voted virtually on party lines, all but two of the Republicans favoring postponement in order to avoid getting the court issue involved in the legislative jam at this session. The vote for postponement was 10 to 8, with the Democrats voting solidly against the Walsh resolution.

WEST AUSTRALIA HINTS AT LEAVING COMMONWEALTH

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A hint that western Australia may seek separation from the commonwealth was given by the state premier, Sir James Mitchell, in a public statement today.

He voiced strong opposition to the financial rehabilitation plan of the commonwealth treasurer, E. G. Theodore, which, he said, meant wholesale inflation and added that if it were persisted in western Australia would be forced to reconsider her position within the commonwealth.

The Theodore plan rejects any reduction of wages and involves an operation for restoring the value of Australian currency to its 1929 mark. Another feature embraces negotiations for the reduction of interest rates on Great Britain's war loans to the commonwealth. These were begun by Prime Minister Scullin today.

Sir James Mitchell, in today's statement, also opposed vigorously drastic financial remedies put forward by Premier Lang of New South Wales. These, Sir James said, amounted to virtual repudiation of Australia's obligations to British bondholders.

"Our bond with the commonwealth is not insoluble," he said. "Western Australia will not recognize any commonwealth right to impugn our honor and menace our finances."

COLLEGE CUTS 7 OFF FACULTY AS ECONOMY MOVE

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Seven members of the faculty of Transylvania college, oldest institution of higher learning west of the Alleghenies, today were notified their services will not be required next year.

They are Dr. C. A. Maney, head of the department of mathematics; Prof. L. R. Dingus, head of the department of modern languages; George E. Powell, athletic director and head football coach; Prof. Foster Krake, head of the department of music, and Mrs. Krake, instructor in music; William Clay and Norman Braden, instructors.

Dr. Maney said the action was "for the purposes of economy." Transylvania is supported by the Disciples of Christ denomination.

1,000 TELEGRAMS ARE SENT TO ASK GIFTS FOR RELIEF DRIVE

One thousand telegrams were sent yesterday to relief fund concerns in Chicago which have not yet contributed to the $5,000,000 relief fund being raised by the governor's unemployment commission. Pending the beginning of the home appeal drive through franked mail, which is scheduled to begin on Monday, a final intense drive will be carried on for the rest of the week. The direct solicitation drive will end Saturday noon.

Total collections last night stood at $4,605,548, which, with provisional subscriptions, valid only if the entire quota is raised, amounted to $4,699,048, $300,952 less than the quota. Among subscriptions reported yesterday were $16,000 from employés of the sanitary district and $2,826 from employés of the forest preserve. Other donations included: Union Stockyards and Transit company (additional), $1875; Household Finance company and employés, $2,201; employés of McDonald Machine company, $811; Sol. H. Goldberg, $1,000; Pullman company (additional), $953.

RED CROSS PLEA FOR AID IS SENT AROUND WORLD

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—From a banquet hall in Times square tonight the Red Cross flashed a message around the world summoning aid for distressed Americans ashore.

The operator whose vibrant fingers tapped out the call was none other than David Sarnoff, once a keyman himself, now president of the Radio Corporation of America.

Getting the biggest thrill of his career in radio, which goes back to the early days of wireless, the still youthful financier and industrialist sent the message with all his old-time fire, while an estimated 15,000 ships on the seven seas stood by.

Ald. Massen's Daughter Nabbed Again as Speeder

For the third time in less than a year Miss Elinor Massen, 19 year old daughter of Ald. J. A. Massen of the Forty-eighth ward, was arrested yesterday for speeding in Evanston. Miss Massen, a senior at Northwestern university and prominent in campus activities, was overtaken by two motorcycle policemen while traveling 40 miles an hour in Church street. She was taken to the station, booked and released on her own recognizance to be arraigned on Saturday.

GOOD FELLOWS INCREASE AND SO DOES FUND

New members joined the ranks of THE TRIBUNE Good Fellows yesterday and brought the roster of Good Fellows to 1,539. Since last October when the call was issued to help needy families through the winter the Good Fellows have accumulated a fund of $92,709.45.

This fund is being used to maintain 304 families. Into their homes have gone food, coal, clothing, household incidentals, money for rent, car fare to seek work. Every penny contributed is spent wisely because the needs of each family have been studied and the income provided according to a scientific budget used by welfare agencies.

All families served by the Good Fellows have first been investigated as to their worthiness by four recognized social agencies of Chicago: the United Charities, central charities bureau [Catholic], the Salvation Army and the Jewish social service bureau.

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR DISSOLUTION OF REICHSTAG

Fascists Assail "Young Plan Slave Drivers."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 11.—A spectacular campaign for a dissolution of the reichstag was begun throughout Germany today by the 107 Fascist deputies who marched out of the reichstag yesterday to protect the curtailment of their immunity and to "overthrow the German slave drivers for the Young plan exploiters," as their handbills proclaimed this morning. Hamburg, Breslau, Munich, and Cologne witnessed warm demonstrations at railroad stations in honor of the fascist deputies on their arrivals from Berlin.

The Fascists filed a motion in the reichstag asking that the money saved through their absence be donated to Germany's jobless.

Fascist Lawyers Confer.

In Weimar the Fascist executive committee is sitting permanently under their supreme chief, Adolf Hitler. Outsiders are spreading the rumor that the Fascist intend to call a rump parliament composed of their members, their friends, and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalists at Weimar. The Fascist leaders emphatically deny this, but say they will endeavor to force the dissolution of the present reichstag.

Legal experts retained by the Fascists are conferring in Berlin and Weimer to find a way to achieve this. They have aldost completed the formulation of a regular bill demanding the dissolution of the reichstag, which they intend to submit to the German people in a national referendum.

Representatives of the Steel Helmet organizations, who have been working for a referendum demanding the dissolution of the Prussian diet, have now joined the Fascist conferences. The two groups are trying to combine to work for the same aim, the simultaneous dissolution of the diet and reichstag, which, they believe, would give them an overwhelming majority and full control of Germany. But so far it has proved impossible to reconcile the ambitions of the Fascist and Steel Helmet leaders.

A Partial Boycott.

The Nationalists who marched out of the reichstag with the Fascists yesterday have announced that they will not boycott the reichstag fully. The Nationalists came to the reichstag today and signed the roll call to get their $5 allowance for the day. Then they left the plenary meeting. Dr. Hugenberg has instructed his followers to watch the reichstag closely and to file a motion of lack of confidence as soon as the government parties are not fully represented, and thus overthrow the Bruening cabinet unexpectedly.

Chancellor Bruening still hopes that the Fascists will return to parliament, since the members have not filed formal resignations.

Both the Fascisti and Reds have called monster massmeetings at Berlin's Lustgarten for Sunday. The police tonight are considering letting the Reds and Fascisti meet at the Lustgarten, which is on an island in the heart of Berlin, surround it with heavy cordons of police, and let them have it out alone.

NEW YORK FREE FOOD STATIONS SERVE ALL MEALS AT SAME HOUR

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—To keep the hungry from making the rounds of the breadlines and eating as many free lunches as they can every day, New York's seventy-nine food stations for the unemployed are going to serve bigger meals and all at the same time.

Lunch will be served from 12 to 2 and dinner from 4 to 6.

Forty individuals and agencies which have been serving 69,985 free meals every day at the seventy-nine stations decided on this measure today.

A central registration for homeless men to prevent duplication in the breadlines will be established.

Fretful DAYS Restless NIGHTS ...give child Castoria

FUSSY, fretful, can't sleep, won't eat.... It isn't always easy to find just where the trouble is with a young child. It may be a stomach upset; it may be sluggish bowels.

But when little tongues are coated and there is even a slight suspicion of bad breath—it's time for Castoria!

Castoria, you know, is a pure vegetable preparation especially made for babies and children. When Baby cries with colic or is fretful because of constipation, Castoria brings quick comfort, and, with relief from pain, soothes him to restful sleep. For older children—up through all the school years, Castoria is equally effective in helping to right irregularities. Just give it in larger doses. What a comfort Castoria is to mothers!

Get the genuine, with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on wrapper and the name Castoria that always appears like this:

Pleasant New Way to Treat Nasal
CATARRH

30 DAYS FREE TRIAL

Tells the World His New Discovery Opens Up Catarrh Stuffed Nostrils in 3 Minutes

Is That Good News?

Ask Any Walgreen or Economical Drug Store About Opex

Catarrh is a disease that causes no end of annoyance and humiliation and is a condition that all clean people detest.

A few years ago Catarrh was considered incurable, because no one was clever enough to get together a formula that would spread over the membranes of the nasal tract a cleansing substance that would keep them free from mucus.

But Opex changed all that and now all you have to do is to spray on Opex and faithfully treat the cause of Catarrh.

When you spray Opex you can send the healing, purifying vapor from one nostril thru the other (see picture) or from either nostril to the bottom of the lungs and out through the mouth. You can actually see this stream-like smoke coming from nostrils and mouth.

That's the way to get after Catarrh and to lessen those annoying, ringing, buzzing noises in the ears when caused by Catarrh.

The price of a bottle of Opex that will last two months is $1.00—it's easily worth one hundred dollars to any man or woman who wants clean nostrils free from disgusting mucus.

And remember this: the toughest old head colds are knocked out in a few hours with Opex.

Bear this in mind also for it will be joyful news to millions. After you spray Opex for two or three weeks there won't be any lump of mucus in your throat to hawk up every morning—what a blessing.

Opex is sold in this city by all Walgreen and Economical Stores with the distinct understanding that if you are not satisfied at the end of thirty days your money will be gladly returned. Opex is delightful to use because of its wholesome fragrance. You can spray that irritated throat with Opex.

PREDICT BUMPER GRAIN CROP FOR RUSSIA THIS YEAR

Land Protected by Extra Heavy Fall of Snow.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 11—Soviet transportation is again in the throes of crisis. Trains are arriving at destinations with an average delay of three hours. Freight blockades, with [illegible] and delays are reported on all lines, and the soviet government has assigned to the gay pay ou[t] police] the task of restoring efficiency.

The present crisis is chiefly due to the extra large fall of snow this winter. In many provinces the population of villages along the railroads has been mobilized to clear the lines. Even the army was put to work. But a blizzard after snowstorm has covered most of Russia two and three feet deep, and beneath this protective insulation winter grain is thriving. It is too early to predict what kind of a crop Russia will have this coming summer, but if normal conditions follow the yield should be large.

Europe Watches Crop.

The Baltic states, Poland and Rumania watch agricultural developments in Russia closely. Weather conditions are an important factor in making a guess at the size of the soviet crop. Soviet statistics are not considered reliable for they have often been found to be inflated or deflated as the need might be.

In the case of flax, the soviet government informed the little Baltic states, whose flax crop helps to balance their budgets, that she did not intend to export flax this year, that the crop was going to meet the needs of her home industry. The Baltic countries accordingly, held their crops for an increase in price. Suddenly the Soviets exported 50,000 tons in 10,000 ton lots, selling each shipment at a lower price than the last. The flax market was forced down more than $100 a ton in a few weeks, and Latvia, with 200,000 tons stored in her warehouses, lost $2,500,000. Lithuania and Estonia lost about the same amount.

Government Runs 5,720,000 Farms.

Last year 54,000 tractors were operating in Russia, and 5,720,000 peasant farms, 22 per cent of the entire Russian total, were joined into communistic enterprises working under government direction. For these 5,000,000 peasant families life has changed completely. Religious holidays are abolished. They now eat rations instead of providing their own food. Their live stock, their inventory, and even their private property has been collectivized. They cannot longer sell their produce at the market price.

Instead, the government buys at a price fixed in Moscow, without regard to the law of supply and demand. In return for their labor they are provided with rations of cloth and other necessities and are paid small wages which they can either deposit in state savings banks or use to purchase a government bond.

300 Children Storm Palace.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 11.—A [illegible] uprising occurred Sunday at Gatchina, a town of 20,000 population near Leningrad, where one of the late czar's palaces was located. More than 300 homeless children, armed with clubs and pieces of fence railing, stormed the palace seeking protection from the blizzard. The waifs did enormous damage before they were evicted by the united efforts of the police and fire departments. The children used the emergency fire equipment in the palace to defend themselves. The palace, which has 300 rooms, one of the largest, was flooded during the fight.

POSTAL LEASES DATA REFUSED TO COMMITTEE

Brown and Blaine Clash at Hearing.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Postmaster General Brown flatly refused today to furnish the senate committee investigating postoffice leases with data collected last summer for a report to President Hoover.

His appearance before the committee was marked by frequent and sharp clashes with Chairman Blaine as the Wisconsin senator attacked Brown's contention it would be "incompatible with public interest to provide the information."

Blaine characterized the postmaster general as "arrogant and impertinent." The witness accused the committee chairman of "lecturing" him and said he would answer the questions in his own way.

The hearing, held in the same room used by the senate lobby committee last year, resembled in many ways some of the stormy sessions held by that committee. Blaine, a prominent member of the lobby committee, was the only member of the postal committee present today.

Collected by Inspectors.

The information Blaine requested of the postmaster general was collected by postal inspectors and formed the basis of Brown's recommendation to President Hoover that the government own its postal quarters instead of renting them, as far as possible.

Blaine said the committee had obtained an appropriation of $10,000 for collecting data on the buildings leased by the government and said it would save the committee time and money if Brown would turn over the information the department had amassed.

Brown said:

"We want to be helpful in any way we can, but we regard it as incompatible with the public interest."

"Have you stated all the reasons?" Blaine asked. "Is incompatibility your only reason?"

"Yes."

Only Reason, He Says.

"Why would it be incompatible?"

The postmaster general said many of the leases would soon expire and it would handicap the government in renewing the leases, or purchasing the buildings.

"It would embarrass our negotiations," he said. "If we disclosed what we believed the property was worth we would not be in as good position as if we did not."

Blaine then began to read from questionnaires which the inspectors filled out in connection with every building. As he read each question he asked Brown if the answer to it was confidential.

In each case the postmaster general said it was, and refused to furnish the information.

"I'll Make the Answers."

"Ask me the questions you want," Brown said, "but I'll make the answers."

"I don't know whether you will or not," Blaine said. "There is no need for you to make a defense. There are no charges against you in connection with collecting the information."

Blaine continued to read the questions, many of them pertaining to dimensions of the buildings, the purpose for which the buildings were constructed, descriptions of them and their locations.

"The same answer," Brown repeated over and over again.

Finally when Blaine insisted much of the information was not confidential, the postmaster general said:

"I don't care for your lectures."

"I can't stop your impertinence," the committee chairman replied.

"I know you can't," Brown returned. "I know your limitations."

FARMER TELLS JURY HE SIGNED 2 CHECKS FOR MAL DAUGHERTY

Washington Courthouse, O., Feb. 11.—(AP)—With opening arguments completed, the prosecution in the trial of Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the Ohio State bank, today presented as one of its first witnesses a farmer who admitted signing two checks which Daugherty is accused of having used to defraud the bank.

John Perrill, Fayette county farmer, said he indorsed the checks, each for $2,500, at Daugherty's request before the bank closed last year. Perrill denied, however, that he signed two notes which the state claims Daugherty intended to offer as security and said he never saw them before and was unable to explain how his name had been signed to them.

Daugherty, a brother of former United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, is being tried on one of sixteen indictments charging abstraction of $5,350 in bank funds. This was the amount written on the notes which bore the name of the Coffman Manufacturing company.

Perrill was on the stand when court adjourned until tomorrow. Earlier witnesses were O. C. Gray, state bank superintendent; J. C. Van Pelt, state bank examiner, and Claude Z. Hummell, liquidating agent of the bank.

Gray said examiners' reports indicated the Ohio State bank was solvent when it closed.

Defense attorneys said Daugherty would take the stand to "explain everything."

MICHIGAN MAY GET REFERENDUM DRY LAW TEST

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Liberal forces in the Michigan legislature scored a victory today when a house committee reported favorably the resolution of Representative Vincent P. Dacey of Detroit which would provide for an advisory referendum on prohibition at the April election.

It was made a special order of business for next Wednesday afternoon. The question that would be put to the Michigan electorate under the resolution's terms, as modified in committee, is:

"Do you favor the national prohibition law in its present form?"

It is the first measure pertaining directly to prohibition modification to reach the floor of either house in many years, although several other measures, some calling for drastic changes in the law, have been presented at this session.

HOOSIERS CLASH AT HEARING ON MEDICINAL RUM

Doctors Plead for Change in Dry Law.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Indiana legislators who object to the ultra arid terms of the state bone dry law had their innings in the house today at a committee hearing on the bill to permit licensed physicians to prescribe medicinal liquor, which is in charge of the measure. Finding the sentiment about equally divided, the public morals committee, whic his in charge of the measure, decided tonight to withhold a report on the bill until after the public hearing on the bill for repeal of the entire bone dry law.

Before an audience that filled the house of representatives chamber to the corridors, the committee listened to a three hours' argument as to merits of the present law. Remarks of the speakers were interspersed with hoots and catcalls. Debate became so furious at times that it was difficult for the committee to continue the hearing. There were jeers throughout the speech by Mrs. Elizabeth C. Stanley, Liberty, state president of the W. C. T. U., and she was unable to close her remarks. Lewis E. York, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, demanded "that this house be put in order."

"Used to It," She Says.

"Never mind, I was reared on a farm and I often wandered into my father's barnyard, so I'm used to hissing and quacking," Mrs. Stanley retorted.

Among those who spoke for medicinal liquor were Dr. C. A. Stayton, secretary of the Indianapolis Medical society; Dr. Henry R. Alburger, Dr. Albert E. Sterne, Dr. James H. Stygall, and Dr. Claude A. Savage, prominent Indianapolis physicians, and Dr. J. H. Gilpin of Fort Wayne. Among opponents of a change were Dr. Rollo N. Harger, toxicologist of the Indiana university school of medicine; Dr. Homer J. Hall of Franklin, Dr. W. R. Turner of St. Paul, and Dr. E. M. Haggard of Indianapolis.

Physicians favoring passage of the bill contended whisky is needed in treatment of certain ailments, while those of the opposition took the view that substitutes are as effective.

Discrimination Charged.

"The medical association has been discriminated against for several years," declared Dr. Alberger. He said he had been handicapped in treating illness by lack of whisky. Dr. Sterne declared "the question has but one import. It is not a moral question; it has nothing to do with prohibition, but it's simply a question of medicine."

Dry forces were much in evidence, with E. A. Miles, attorney for the Indiana Anti-Saloon league; Mr. York, and Mrs. Stanley leading a large group of the league and the temperance union.

ENDS 2 YEARS OF "INDIGESTION" IN SURPRISING WAY

There's good news for all stomach sufferers in the sensation being created by a simple discovery, due to the quick, easy way it relieves so-called "indigestion," and its symptoms of gas, bloating, belching, headaches, nausea, heartburn, etc.

"Pape's Diapepsin," as it is called, is eaten like candy—and is just as harmless. No narcotics or pain-killers in it. Nothing habit-forming. No sooner swallowed than pain stops; normal digestion is restored.

Thousands are so enthusiastic over the results they are securing that they simply have to tell their experiences to help others. Here's what attractive Miss Irma Linn, 1004 East Washington St., Des Moines, Iowa, says:

"I am not at all nervous now and do not suffer any more from gas, headaches, heartburn or that heavy feeling even after the heartiest meal. I eat radishes, pastries or anything else without discomfort.

"I sure owe a lot to the friend who got me started on Pape's Diapepsin. It ended my two years' suffering from indigestion in a surprising way."

All druggists sell Pape's Diapepsin; or write "Pape's Diapepsin," Wheeling, W. Va., for a FREE sample box.

Mrs. Gladys H. Bevans Tells
Daily How to Guide Children

THE LONG LOOP

BY B. M. BOWER

SYNOPSIS.

Dix Larrabee, head of the Whistling Creek ranch, was swindled in an oil well frame-up by Tom Gray, neighboring rancher and banker. Everything he owned, except the ranch, was mortgaged. Dix, an orphan, keeps from his grandmother and his young brother, Chuck, the true state of affairs. Gram has her heart set on seeing Chuck a graduate of college and Dix with the idea of changing the brand of the cattle from the O T ranch to a coffeepot, symbol of Dix's own.

Wing, an Indian helper, discovers a lost valley with a geyser on the Coffeepot ranch. A passage leads to it, through what is seemingly a blank cliff wall. It is an ideal place for cattle.

Mysterious misgivings Dix begins rustling from Gray's herd, hiding the stolen cattle in the valley. A blizzard obliterates all traces of the crime. After a second foray Dix decides to call quits, but Mart and Tom continued night riding on their own. Dix's bank account steadily after every shipping.

Chuck and a flyer friend named Frosty arrive at the ranch. Chuck confesses to Dix that he gave up a medical career for aviation. He and Frosty plan to build secretly a flying plane for a prize. A shed built against the crevice hiding the entrance to the valley seems to them the ideal place for their work.

Tom Gray's aunt and cousin Helen visit the O T ranch. Helen knew Chuck in school. From what Owen tells her, Helen guesses the true situation involving Dix. Helen and her friend, Josephine Parker, drive over to call on Larry. Their nickname for Josephine is Jo. When she meets Dix it's a case of love at first sight, but Dix believes she is cold and avoids her. Chuck gives a big party at the ranch, and Helen and Jo leave the next day. Helen probes through Dix's desk and learns a great deal about private business. When she returns to the O T ranch Owen is anxious for information.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

THE RANCH AIRPORT.

"Well, you sound as if you were just making a monkey of me, and I don't expect a fellow to stand for that. It's no joke, I want you to know. I'm just about primed to go over there with the sheriff and tear their damn ranch apart."

"I don't think the rough stuff is going to get you anywhere, Owen, not even with me," Helen interrupted him in what may have been an attempt to soothe him, but which had the opposite effect. Owen bristled.

"I've been easy-going too long. I thought you were going to find out something and you come back here——"

"O, Owen, you're too precious when you're mad! Now I'll tell you the truth. I've established friendly relations with the whole family, and that's something. The real work is from now on. I know a lot of the people around over the country, and I've been invited places—Jo and I could have a free hand with your car and you wouldn't be fussy with the gas, I can get out and scout around places where you'd be tipping your hand to go. I know one thing—the Larrabee ranch is clean as a whistle of any stolen cattle. I got Larry to take me for a ride or two around over the place, and there isn't a spot big enough to stand a cow on that I didn't see. It isn't as if it were surrounded by rough country that would take days searching. That cliff that runs around is a solid blank wall. I took particular notice of that. The basin runs level, almost, to the wall, and there it stops. If you want to know what I think, Owen, I think you're mistaken about Dix Larrabee. Of course, he might have some lineup with a gang of rustlers else in the country, but I can't think so."

"Well, look her over. Some neat little ship, what?"

"I can get you bank figures to show what he's deposited in the last two years from his beef shipments."

"Well, I wouldn't call that proof, and neither would dad. For all you know, he may be running cattle somewhere else and have the payments made direct to him here."

"Fat chance!"

"But do you know? He doesn't tell all he knows, that lad." Helen stepped bold of his arms and lifted herself from the rock. "If you'll lend me the car, I'll scurrup around over the country and see what's to be found out. Somebody'll talk. And I don't believe you're much more anxious to get to the bottom of this thing than I am. I might even marry into that family, you can't tell."

"Harry—say, are you really in love with Chuck, Helen?"

"How who wants to know? Other girls have been, why not I? Do I get the use of the blue car, Owen?"

"Sure. All you want. But Chuck Larrabee——"

"Rather lay off Larry, if you don't mind. I've got quite enough on my hands, I should think, without having you to fight. Thanks for the car. I'll be using it tomorrow, I think. You're a lamb, really."

"Say, Helen——"

But Helen had turned abruptly and was running up the path to the ranch porch.

From out of the south, toward the railroad that marked the lower boundary of the Coffeepot range, a great, silver winged dragonfly came droning steadily up along the eastern arm of Whistling Creek mountains.

"They're coming!" shouted Dix, and backed the Ford hurriedly out of the shed, driving up to the house to get Gram, who had never seen an airplane in her life and wasn't quite sure she wanted to, except that Chuck was in this one, which would give it a special dignity and importance for her. He helped Gram in, boosted Minny into the back seat, and turned the car around almost with one swoop. At the bunk house he paused long enough to pick up Mart and Tom, and they were off for the flying field across the creek.

"Mebbyso I takeum ride; fly all same chicken hawk," Minny announced.

"My good land! What do you want to fly for? You better stay on the ground where you won't have so far to fall. You'll never get me into one of them things."

"Mebbyso I flyum Sawlake," Minny stubbornly persisted. "Chuck, he mebbyso I fly."

"A big cow like you flying! Why, if you was to fall there wouldn't be anything left but a grease spot where you lit!"

They quarreled over that all the way to the landing field, while the plane grew to a thrumming roar. The big plane circled, banking with a flash of silver wings in the sun. As Dix stopped the car well back from the white flag that marked the boundary at that point, the pilot zoomed low at them in a way to make Gram clutch Dix and shut her eyes against certain death. Two helmeted heads craned over the edge of the cockpit, and a hand flapped derisively as they lifted and soared off in another circle which ended in a birdlike tilt of wings as they turned and came dropping down to the far end of the field. Grinning, goggled faces peered toward the cheering group from which Dix was trotting out upon the field. Minny showed a disposition to waddle after him, but Gram caught her by the skirt and yanked her back.

"You come back here! What in time you think you're going to do there? Shame on you!"

"You be yo'self," said Minny, with true collegian brusqueness. "I flyum Sawlake. You see." And she twitched herself free from Gram's clutching hands and made ponderous haste to the plane.

"Dix, you go stop the old fool!" snapped Gram.

"No stoppum Minny. You betcha my life."

At the plane Chuck and Frosty were straddling out of the cockpit, adjusting goggles and helmets and grinning upon the world. Chuck landed on his feet, shook a leg to ease its cramp and caught Dix by the shoulder, turning him full face to the front.

"Well, look her over. Some neat little ship, what? We sure did business, at that. Curtiss Robin, only two hundred hours in the air, 90 horsepower OX-5 motor running like a new watch, three place job—and we got it for a song!"

"Yeah, about how many verses?"

"Say, she was a steal. Fellow that had her got in a jam and had to have money, and it was just luck we happened along before somebody else beat us to it. I piloted her about half the way over, myself. Say, we cooked up a great idea, on the way. You wait till you hear it." He turned to see what was plucking so insistently at his sleeve, and there was Minny grinning her silliest.

"Mebbyso I fly now Sawlake," said Minny.

"O, why bring that up? Too dark pretty quick. Mebbyso we eat supper. Some other time you fly."

"Aw right," Minny conceded, the sparkle going out of her eyes. "Nex' time I fly."

The three stood and watched her plod heavily back to the car, her gingham apron flapping corners as she went.

"What you call air-minded," Dix said dryly. "You'll have to take her up or there'll be no living with the old girl.

"Take her to Graypoint tomorrow," Frosty half promised. "Oughta get some publicity in that."

"Publicity? I thought you wanted to cover up."

"Yeah," Chuck put in, "so we do want to cover up our work on the flying plane. But this Robin is going to earn us money to build the flying one. We're going to do commercial flying, week-ends. Take her over to Graypoint and carry up passengers. Maybe Frosty'll take on a few stunts, if she'll pay enough. And we can work on the plane between times. Say, I'm one the wiser. Oughta make a hit in Graypoint, don't you think?"

Einstein, Who Lost His World, Seeks New One

Sets Scientific Traps for Fleeing Nebulae.

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein told astronomers and physicists here today the secret of the universe is wrapped up in the red shift of distant nebulæ.

For more than an hour he discussed possibilities of the shape of the universe to replace his discarded Einsteinian universe. The meeting was held at the Mount Wilson laboratory and attended by the Carnegie institution of Washington's astronomers who discovered this red shift, Dr. Edwin C. Hubble and Dr. Walter S. Adams.

"The red shift of distant nebulæ has smashed by old construction like a hammer blow," Einstein said, swinging down his hand to illustrate. "The red shift still is a mystery."

"The only possibility is to start with a static universe lasting a while and then becoming unstable and expansion starting, but no man would believe that."

This red shift has been analyzed by Dr. Hubble as the speed of distant island universes receding from the earth, some at 7,200 miles a second. Based upon this observation, Dr. Richard Chace Tollman of Pasadena, suggested an expanding universe.

"A theory of an expanding universe," Einstein said, "at the rate figured from apparent velocities of recession of nebulæ would give too short a life to the great universe. It would only be ten thousand million years old, which is altogether too short a time. By that theory it would have started from a small condensation of matter at that time."

Prof. Einstein said the red shift may be interpreted as the light quanta getting redder by losing energy as they go long distances.

"But no man can get a picture of how this happens," he added.

Mr. Tolman suggested if we had a periodic solution of contraction and expansion it might be satisfactory.

Einstein replied the equations do not satisfy such a thing, but indicate if such were the case the whole universe might explode, "going swish," he added, laughing.

"I don't know the answer," said Einstein.

Dr. Adams said the proposed 200 inch mirror telescope to be installed in southern California within four years might bring these solutions.

Sun's Rays Penetrate Far Into Earth, Scientist Says.

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Discovery of cosmic rays in sunshine—the same rays that penetrate about 700 feet into earth—is described in word received today from Vienna.

The communication is from Prof. E. Spath, president of the Chemical and Physical society, and is sent to clear a misunderstanding about the report made recently to the society by Prof. Victor F. Hess of the University of Graz.

Vienna dispatches said Prof. Hess announced the discovery of cosmic rays, and that his talk created a sensation among scientists.

Prof. Spath, however, points out that Dr. Hess did not claim to have discovered cosmic rays, which were found 18 years ago, but had evidence a small percentage of these rays come from the sun.

Their origin has been one of the great scientific mysteries. The fact that most electroscopes used to detect them showed as many at night as in the day was held by some scientists to eliminate the sun as a source.

The American physicist, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, says they come from creation of matter in interstellar space.

Other equally distinguished scientists gathered facts to show that only annihilation of matter in the hot interiors of stars could produce radiation of any such power.

So the rays have become for the moment exhibit A in the eternally rascinating question of the origin of creation. According to Dr. Millikan, they show creation actually going on. To others they merely add to evidence of extinction of all things—the "heat death"—the time when nothing may live because all the heat is dissipated.

Historic Chicago Lecture Is Set for Sunday Afternoon

"Historic Sites in Chicago" will be the subject of an illustrated lecture next Sunday at 1 p. m. by Dr. William H. Johnson at the museum of the Chicago Historical society. Using colored lantern slides, Dr. Johnson will describe such historic spots as the Chicago portage, Pere Marquette's winter headquarters, Fort Dearborn, and the John Kinzie house site.

TO HELP POOR

MISS HARRIET VITTUM.

Students of Northwestern university will give a charity ball tomorrow at the Aragon ballroom, 1200 Lawrence avenue, for the food distribution work at the Northwestern Settlement. Miss Harriet Vittum is in charge of the settlement. The students hope to obtain at least $1,000. For that purpose a pep session was held yesterday. Wayne King, orchestra leader for the dance, appeared on the campus and sold tickets.

Lane H. S. Student Wins Patriotic Contest Honors

G. W. MaGill, Lane Technical High school student, was yesterday declared the winner in a preliminary stage of a patriotic contest being sponsored by the Union League club. He will represent the school in a semi-final meeting to be held at Crane Technical High school on Feb. 16. The competition ends in the finals at the Union League club soon after Washington's birthday.

Bishop Stewart to Speak.

Dr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Keeler and the Chicago Diocesan branch of the Girls' Friendly society will be hosts at a reception given for Mrs. Richard S. Austin of Cincinnati, mid west vice president of the society, this afternoon at 3 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's parish house, 1424 Dearborn parkway. Bishop Craig Stewart, Mrs. Edwin J. Randall and Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson will be speakers.

Salvation Army Reports 1930 as Better Year

Public Response Greater Than in 1929.

Announcement was made yesterday that the Salvation Army collected more money toward its budget in 1930 despite widespread unemployment and depression than in the previous year. The report was given at the annual meeting of the board in the Hotel Sherman. John J. Mitchell, reëlected treasurer, said the 1930 total, $324,505, was larger by $19,000 than that of 1929.

"We feel that the response of the 1930 drive has been most gratifying," declared Commissioner W. A. McIntyre in commenting upon Mr. Mitchell's report. "Although times may be hard, the hearts of the givers are open to respond quickly to the call of humanity.

"The decrease in the number of the employed only serves to swell the load which the Army already is carrying, and much encouragement has come to the workers because of the generous support of Chicago's citizens. In spite of the fact that there were 50,000 less employés to contribute to charity last year than in the previous year, the Army is heartened to learn that 2,396 firms contributed to the Salvation Army last year, as compared to 1,913 in 1929."

Lewis E. Myers, contractor, was elected chairman of the board for the eighth consecutive year. John F. Gilchrist was reëlected vice chairman, Sangston Hettler, secretary, and Frederick W. Moore and C. A. Cairns, members of the board. Four other new members will be added later.

A resolution was adopted commending the work of George F. Nixon, chairman of the fund raising committee.

The amounts collected were reported from the following sources by Mr. Mitchell: Industries, $86,121.10; women's division, $58,585.30; firms and individuals, $179,899.05; making the total of $324,505.45.

The board was authorized to find another headquarters. The proposed widening of North State street would affect the building at the southeast corner of State and Superior streets.

FRANKFURT-AM-MAIN, Germany, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Hans Naumann, philologist of Frankfurt university, announced today that he had accepted a call from Harvard university and would be connected there during next summer.

Father Jobless, Sons Are Ailing, Mother Asks Help of Sally

The J. P. family have started selling their furniture a little at a time to meet their expenses, Mrs. P. wrote to Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE unemployment department yesterday.

"I wonder if you could get my husband a job of any kind," she said in her letter. "We are absolutely destitute and don't know what to do. We have three boys, 10, 6, and 2 years old, all ill. Two of them have been ill for the last two weeks and we have no money for a doctor. The oldest boy has been ill for the last year."

Another appeal came from a widow with four children who wanted some light factory work, to clerk in a store, or secure home work so she might keep her family together.

A young widow out of work for the last four months wrote Sally that she must have some kind of a job in order to support her 9 year old son who has heart trouble. She said she had worked as a saleslady and had done office work, but would be willing to do almost anything to make a living for her son.

A number of good jobs for men and women came to the Sally Joy Brown department yesterday and were sent to the Illinois free employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, to be distributed among the unemployed who wait there for a job. Among them was a job as a diemaker offered by the S. F. company in the 600 block on Lake street. This job may be permanent and pays $1.15 an hour.

The E. apartment hotel in the 6000 block on Kimbark avenue has a furnished apartment for a married couple in exchange for work about the building done by the wife. Mrs. C. W. in the 2100 block, Merris avenue, called for a woman to do some cleaning at 50 cents an hour.

W. C. in the 1200 block on North La Salle street called for a plumber and offered 75 cents an hour. The C. I. & O. S. company on West North avenue needs a man to clean the office and run errands, and the C. laundry in the 5800 block, North Western avenue, has a job for a young boy. An exclusive shop on North Michigan avenue has a place for a girl in the tailoring department.

"Brent House" Honors Former A. E. F Chaplain

The name Brent house was given to the national conference center of the Episcopal church, 5540 Woodlawn avenue, in honor of the late Bishop Charles H. Brent, chief of chaplains in the A. E. F. and bishop of western New York. This was announced by Mrs. George H. Biller, director of the house. Brent house was established by funds raised by the womans' auxiliary of the Episcopal church and replaces the center formerly located at Racine, Wis.

THE STAGE

EVA LE GALLIENNE, whose Civic Repertory theater is highly respected in New York, announces that she intends to take a rest for a year. Her company, which is now in the home-stretch of its fifth season, will adjourn May 16 and will not resume operations in its Fourteenth Street theater until the fall of 1932.

There has been talk of a tour, which would include Chicago, for next season, but Miss Le Gallienne's formal announcement of her plans does not mention it. She intends to withdraw to her country estate in Connecticut for a long period of recuperation from her arduous labors as star and manager. Next November she will go to London, and there will organize a company for a tour of the principal cities of continental Europe.

Her recent revival of "Camille" would have been called a "smash hit" and kept in performance for a run if she followed the Broadway principle. But she is a firm believer in the repertory system, and the prosperous "Camille" has been treated as merely an addition to her schedule. Other plays that have won popularity under her auspices are "Cradle Song," "Romeo and Juliet," and "Peter Pan." Miss Le Gallienne refuses to accept the familiar stage adage: A repertory theater ceases to exist when it discovers a hit.

"The Lonely Way," by Arthur Schnitzler, which the Theater Guild will bring to the Illinois theater March 2, will have its first performance in Baltimore next Monday night. The Guild's production of "Miracle at Vernun," a German drama telling a fantasy of the post-war period, went into rehearsals this week. It is a possibility for the Guild's spring season in Chicago.

Arthur Sinclair and Maire O'Neill, veterans of the old group of Irish players from the Abbey of Dublin, will have the leading rôles in a play by Patrick Kearney which is due to open in Boston, April 6. The title has not yet been selected.

Among the new plays announced for spring production in New York are "The Venetian Glass Nephew," "The Iron Widow," a dramatization of Harry Hervey's recently published novel; "So Like Me," "Grey Shadow," and "The Judge's Secretary." The musical shows that will soon be launched include "Park Avenue" and "Singin' the Blues."

A special matinée performance in honor of Washington's birthday is announced by the "Three Little Girls" company, at the Great Northern theater, for Monday, Feb. 23. This operetta is now in the twenty-second week of its Chicago run. Mrs. Fiske will give an extra matinée performance of "Becky Sharp" at the Blackstone next Thursday. C. C.

Canal at Washington Called George's Own Work as an Engineer

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A grandson of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant asked a house committee today to permit restoration of the work of George Washington.

Lieut. Col. Ulysses S. Grant III., director of the capital building and parks commission, urged the committee to approve the Cramton bill to make $3,000,000 immediately available for expenditure on the George Washington memorial parkway along the Potomac river between Mount Vernon and Great Falls, Va.

Grant said it would enable the commission to purchase the historic Baltimore and Ohio canal, which runs about 40 miles up the Potomac river from Washington.

Junior Red Cross Votes $300 for Drought Relief

The student council of the Junior Red Cross yesterday appropriated $300 from its service fund to be used for drought relief. This represented the participation of 700 schools belonging to the Chicago chapter of the Junior Red Cross in the campaign. At a meeting of the executive committee of the Chicago drought relief fund attended by Samuel Insull, chairman; Gen. Abel Davis, Melvin A. Traylor, Howard W. Fenton, James B. Forgan, and James T. Nicholson, it was announced that Chicago has subscribed $560,000 of its $940,000 quota. The national fund, it was reported, has been about 75 per cent subscribed.

Ina Claire Here Tells of Marriage and Careers

Ina Claire, former Broadway actress now a motion picture star, passed through Chicago yesterday en route from New York to Hollywood. She and her husband, John Gilbert of the films, are living in separate establishments in Hollywood to prevent clashes of temperament and preserve their affection, Miss Claire said. Miss Claire added that she is through with the legitimate stage forever, believing a motion picture career more compatible with marriage.

"Set Styles by Own Clothes," Clothiers Urged

Their Official Cites Banquet as Fashion Lesson.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Members of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers met yesterday afternoon for the official style meeting of their annual business conference in the Hotel Sherman. They not only heard about what they should sell for other men to wear, but were taken to task for failure to set an example.

Speaking of the convention banquet on the previous evening, P. B. Juster of Minneapolis, style committee chairman, who presided at the meeting, said the appearance of some banqueters had been ridiculous.

"I hate to bring this up," he said, "and I admit it was a little better than it was at the banquet last year—but still it was disgraceful, the small number of you fellows who wore correct attire at the banquet.

"Now, you're clothiers. You know what is correct. Yet instead of wearing a dinner jacket, some of you appeared in what was—I might also say ridiculous—apparel for such an occasion.

"There's a hardware convention now in this hotel. I often see some of you fellows and some of them at the same time. If it wasn't for the big badges they wear, I couldn't tell some of you clothiers from those hardware merchants. That's a serious thing, boys."

Mr. Juster himself was dressed for the afternoon style symposium in a Cambridge gray frock coat with trousers to match, a white vest, a blue shirt of one of the new pastel shades, with a pale gray tie touched with mauve.

Thus fortified, he decried the stressing of price appeal above that of style in recent advertising.

"Ever since the war," he admonished, "we've been educating the public to style. We've told men that, for the sake of their business success, their popularity, their confidence in themselves, and their prestige, they should dress according to style. The one suit man became the four suit man. Then, suddenly, we sacrifice style on the altar of price."

Plain colors in pastel shades will be the rule this spring and summer, Gerald Grosner of Washington predicted. Bow ties with square ends will be worn.

"In direct contradiction to all our theories on style," Mr. Grosner said, "we find the well dressed wealthy man, who sets the style, wearing the same plain shades and white shirts that other men wear. This year pastel shades, particularly, those that go with gray, will be worn. Purple may revive, as nothing else goes so well with gray and gray is scheduled for a tremendous play."

The man who wears a collar with points more than 3 inches long will be definitely out of style, Mr. Grosner revealed. Round collar tips and extremely short square ones and the prince of Wales tab collar shirt, worn with collar pins, will be correct, he said.

"As to underwear," he said, "shirts and shorts reflect the apparel of the well dressed man. Pastel shades will predominate in shorts, with undershirts of white trimmed with the pastel shade around the armholes and neck."

One-eighth inch of a man's hat brim may make a great difference, it was revealed by R. E. Cleary of John T. Shayne & Co. His paper on hat styles was read in his absence.

"For the young man, a hat with a 3¼ inch crown slightly tapered, with the brim snap down in front with a decided upward swerve towards the back, is favored," Mr. Cleary stated. "He may wear a 1¾ inch brim but a 2 inch brim is better. Such a brim gives a swagger effect that our youth adores."

For the business man about town he favored the 2¼ inch brim with a slight roll all around which can be worn in set style or snapped. More derbies will be worn in March than ever before, he said, and will be in black, Oxford gray and tan. Colors for men's hats in general will be crystal, coral, ecru, and the lighter grays and tans, with a few light greens and dark browns.

Julius Myers of Springfield was elected president of the organization.

Artist's Trees Mysteries; but Sky Beautiful

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

THERE are occasions when modernism justifies itself. The present exhibition of paintings by George Waller Parker in the Carson, Pirie, Scott galleries is one such occasion. You will find in these paintings several characteristic modernist threads spun, however, into a pattern that approaches for its base nothing more original than a sturdy academic thoroughness. This thoroughness takes its way into a sure craftsmanship and a technique learned through study, not left to inspiration.

Mr. Parker is a painter of substance gifted with a keen appreciation for color. When his trees are French modernist, pattern 1920, we forgive him. Their green is fresh and soft to the eye. What matter that their shape be like unto the sponge? Trees are minor details in the work of a man who can paint sky as can Mr. Parker, or boats like his, or houses or people, and with these elements weave enchanting, haunting pages lit with color.

To be exact, the man who can paint "Cobblestones and Tiles," "Blood and Thunder," and "The Golden Stair" may be all kinds of a modernist or all kinds of an academician, or all kinds of a mixture of the two, and still in every company hold his own as being a master of his craft. These are fine paintings. "The Golden Stair" ought to be hung in a museum for the satisfaction of a vast public. It comes as near perfect as any canvas of its size and type you will find in a year's search. It is brilliantly handled and still the reserve that holds it is never once broken.

"Blood and Thunder" is a painting of fishing boats in the harbor. The sails are red and the building up of this composition is cleverly and quietly carried out. Beside it hangs "Cobblestones and Tiles," snow on the rails, an old woman hobbling up the steps, the brown stone front of a low building offering sheltering arms to her weakness. Here again it is the sound, intelligent technique of the picture that gets you and holds you. The other paintings of foreign streets and houses, of boats and men, stay in your memory as harmonious wash of color and line, but the three distinct, irrepressible triumphs are the paintings we have named.

The exhibition will continue through Feb. 28.

The Old Story

Paying a woman's penalty—time after time

In the year of 1931 there should be no monthly martyrs to pain. Some women still think they must suffer—they haven't heard of Midol—or can't believe that it has solved their problem.

Did you know that five to seven minutes after swallowing a tiny tablet you can be yourself—can be comfortable—can go about without feeling a single further twinge of muscular pain?

Your regular periods need not be painful—they are not painful to those who know of Midol. These wonderful tablets make Nature's process a mere incident. No pain, not even discomfort when you have learned to depend on Midol, as women who used to have the hardest time have found. It is not a narcotic, does not interfere with the process, but does stop the pain; relieves headaches, too; neuralgia, etc. Every drugstore has Midol.

What Would You Do with a High Handed Mother-in-Law?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Perhaps the following case calls for psycho-analysis to discover just how much of the childhood "antagonism" clings to adult action. Again, it may be a case of sheer mother-in-law cussedness. In any event, I'm asking you, my readers, for your opinion on the action you think best to be taken by the distraught young wife.

When a little girl "Worried" saw how two grandmothers and two aunts made life miserable for her mother. No matter what she did, they criticized her right in front of her child. The whole atmosphere was charged with antagonism, so that "Worried" vowed that no child of hers would be subject to such conditions. After she left college she supported herself and lived in another state and appreciated her family more because she didn't have to see them often enough to create friction.

Then she met the man—and found him tied to his mother's apron strings!

His mother bossed the whole family, two maiden sisters and her husband by becoming seriously ill whenever her will was crossed. [Editor's note: That terrible, terrible type that's never "taken" in one of its will inflicting fits.] This mother's system was to have you so much indebted to her that you were constantly having to do things for her and invite her to go places with you. So, "Worried" and her fiancé were almost never alone.

The mother even hinted she wanted to go along when the ring was selected and was sarcastic and bitter when the invitation was not forthcoming. From then on, it was a case of trying to boss the younger woman's every move. For a time "Worried" tried to compromise, spending a couple of weeks with her mother-in-law when the latter complained she did not visit them enough.

When a baby arrived the complications became more acute. Objection was raised to the young mother's trying to break the baby of thumb sucking. All of her modern methods were furiously criticized. Meanwhile the husband of one of the opponents and the son of the other responded to mother suggestion rather than wife. And so an open break resulted.

The young wife refused to visit her mother-in-law, refused to let the baby go where there was antagonism in the air. The husband now insists that every time he goes to see his mother, the baby, now 2, will go along. And so, a divorce shadow threatens.

What's your verdict? That the baby be let go and be the possible peace intermediary? Or fight it out with the older woman on her own ground of noncompromise?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Too Many Relatives.

"Dear Miss Blake: Every night that my girl invites me to her house she has four or five relatives there. Is she treating me right. JOHNNIE."

You have grounds for complaint, as you naturally want to spend some time with the girl alone.

Better Find Another.

"Dear Miss Blake: When I ask the girl I love to take her to a show she always refuses. Please advise. "PETE."

After repeated refusals you can only assume she does not wish to go out with you. Turn your attentions elsewhere.

Southwest Gets Its Day in Social Whirl

BY THALIA

YOU really begin to "get" the lure of the great southwest when you read such things as a clipping from a Phoenix newspaper describing a big party the Marquette Hales and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Jones Jr. gave a few days ago at the Two Shoe ranch for a hundred of their guests from the Castle Hot Springs hotels and the neighboring ranches. Doesn't this make you want to rush right out, buy a sombrero, and take the train for Arizona?

Located in the heart of the Biltmore mountain quadrangle, this setting lent a unique attraction to the affair. A full moon lighted the contour of the picturesque mountain peaks and cactus covered divides. In the heart of this amphitheater nestles the Two Shoe ranch, with its buildings of old Mexican style adobe . . .

The Two Shoe, it seems, is run by a picturesque cowboy, Lawton Champion, and many Chicagoans go there. And more about the fascinations of the vicinity: There are outdoor private schools for the youngsters and such riding all the time. Jarvis Jones's beautiful new place is in Arcadia, the nicest residential section of Phoenix, and is at the foot of Camelback mountain. Mr. Hunt, who has his daughter, Louise, and his sister, Mrs. Patterson, with him now, works every day making a cactus garden. "That is the only kind any one has out here, of course," my correspondent adds.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. and his wife, the former Mrs. Waldo Logan, have a house near Ingleside, in Arcadia, and her daughter is in the first grade in a private school there.

The Lester Armours and little Stanton are at the Arizona-Biltmore in Phoenix, but are off quail hunting in Mexico this week. There is to be a rodeo for the benefit of the Red Cross at the Biltmore on Valentine's day, and the Biltmore guests are financing it. William Thaw of New York City started the idea, and the Chicagoans who are patrons include J. W. Embree, Moise Dreyfus, Mrs. A. H. Whiting, and J. Alexander Waller.

And then, too, there's the institute-for-lay-boards-of-hospitals-and-public-health-nursing-organizations. [What a title! You have to rattle it off, or it takes too much time to say.] IT is to take place next Tuesday at the Palmer house, and the Central Council of Nursing Education, in which all the fashionable ladies on hospital boards are interested, is in charge. Besides, the council is giving a dinner on Monday night in collaboration with the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of Nursing Education. Some of the younger women are to usher at the dinner, and Ghita Watson is getting several of the Junior Leaguers to help at the luncheon. Mrs. Fred W. Upham is in charge of the whole thing.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The annual army and navy reception was given tonight by President and Mrs. Hoover. The Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley were the first to pass through the blue parlor at the head of the line of guests to be received. They were followed immediately by the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams, both couples passing through the "Lincoln doors" of the blue room to the red parlor, to take their places. Following them were the assistant secretaries of war and navy and their wives, with the chief of staff, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, following, and then the Commandant of the Marine Corps and Mrs. Fuller. This drew considerable criticism, as many officials hold the chief of staff should precede assistant secretaries. Gen. MacArthur's mother, who is his hostess, was not present because of illness.

Chicago Teachers' College Benefit Set for Feb. 24.

A choice item on the future calendar is the benefit to be given by the board of directors of Chicago Teachers' college on Tuesday afternoon, the 24th, at 3 o'clock at the Gustavus F. Swift residence at 1551 Astor street. Mrs. James W. Morrisson is to speak on "Random Memories," constituting, according to the announcement cards, "Reminiscences in not too serious vein."

The card goes on to say that "Mrs. Morrisson, long identified with and a leader in the intellectual and social life of Chicago during her years of residence here, is leaving this spring to make her home in the east. This opportunity of hearing a personal review of interesting events of the last twenty years in Chicago's life by a gracious and fascinating speaker will be in the nature of a farewell."

Some Reminders That Lent Approaches; Lectures Planned.

Here come the Lenten lectures! Mrs. E. I. Cudahy writes in about the annual series given by the chapel guild of the Cenacle. The schedule is as follows: The Rev. J. B. Delauney, C. S. C., will give the first, "The Soul of India," at Mrs. Cudahy's house at 1501 State parkway next Monday; the Rev. J. M. Drought, M. M., the second, "China," at Mrs. Lester Armour's residence, 325 Wellington avenue, on March 2; the third, Dr. Louis H. Wetmore on "The East vs. the West," at Mrs. William Roy Carney's, 2400 Sheridan road; the 4th, the Rev. P. J. Byrne, M. M., on "Corea and Russia," at Mrs. Carney's again; and the fifth and last, the Rev. Frederic Seidenburg, S. J., on "Mexico Today," with pictures, at Mrs. Edward N. Hurley's residence at 3400 Sheridan road. Florence Murphy is in charge of the ticket sale.

Just a sample of what's going on . . . Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift and Geraldine will be back on Saturday from a week in New York, and Mrs. Walter Wolf got back yesterday . . . Mrs. Woodbury Stearns Agar Jr. is giving a bridge party, lingerie shower, and tea on Saturday for her husband's twin, "Sister" Agar, whose engagement to George William Hust was announced on Christmas day [No date has been decided for the wedding yet] . . . Mrs. Upham is at Lake Placid . . . Mrs. Berrien Eaton went back to Detroit yesterday after a few days' visit with her mother, Mrs. Earl L. Hambleton, and her sister, Miss Peggy Hambleton, at the Ambassador [Peggy tells me that Eric DeLamarter is giving the symphony talk tomorrow morning at the Fine Arts building, and that he's TERribly good speaker] . . . Mrs. Bob Curtis came down with the flu yesterday.

Arts and Industries Group to Give Dinner Tomorrow.

Data on the Association of Arts and Industries dinner tomorrow night in honor of Frank Lloyd Wright: At the speaker's table there'll be John Norton, Harold F. McCormick, Andrea Rebori, James D. Cunningham, Theodore R. Geriach, and Francis Barry Byrne. Dr. Ferdinand Schevill is to introduce Mr. Wright before his talk on "Glass Houses," and Alfonso Iannelli, chairman of the program committee, will speak briefly. Col. Pelouse will preside and guests at Mrs. Pelouze's table will be Mr. and Mrs. John H. McGibbons, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Faithorn, Mrs. Arline Peck Warrick, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis.

NEW YORK SOCIETY.

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Crandall have returned from Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Mrs. Gutzun Borglum has come from San Antonio, Tex., and joined Mr. Borglum.

Col. and Mrs. Thomas B. Clarke Jr. will start Friday for Palm Beach and Nassau.

Mrs. Charles De Rham Jr. returned on the Mauretania from abroad.

Weapons of 2500 B. C., and of Greek Type, Found by Americans

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The discovery at Tepe Gawra in Mesopotamia of a number of unbroken painted bowls about 5,000 years old has been reported to Horace H. F. Jayne, director of the University of Pennsylvania museum.

The report, from Prof. Ephraim A. Speiser, who is conducting excavations at Tell Billah in Mesopotamia for the university museum and the American School of Oriental Research, also told of the finding of an Ægean battle axe, and a short sword, both of bronze, dating from about 2500 B. C.

"Significance is attached to discovery of the axe and sword," Jayne said, "in that they are of the Ægean type, thus pointing to the fact that the Hurrians, who were the predecessors of the Assyrians at Tell Billah, may well have had commercial contacts with the people who inhabited the Greek peninsula during the third millennium."

Did your Child have a bad cold last week?

If your child had a bad cold last week, don't be content just because the child is no longer hacking and sneezing. A cold is bad enough, but a child that catches cold easily and often, needs attention.

Half-sick, pale, run-down children do not have the strength to resist disease and throw off infection. The after-effects of a cold can be very serious. Start now to build up weight and strength.

Father John's Medicine has been proved for over 75 years by countless mothers. It is used regularly by over 184 institutions and hospitals. It is a simple food medicine that supplies the vitamins that every child needs. Children thrive on it amazingly. Their appetite improves, their very food seems to do them more good. Pale cheeks glisten with health. Little bodies become strong and vigorous.

Father John's Medicine is a combination of simple food elements, none of which could harm an infant. Because of its scientific combination of ingredients it brings all the benefits of cod liver oil in the form best suited to a growing child's needs. It is easily assimilated by even the most delicate stomach. It tastes good and contains no alcohol or drugs.

If your child had a cold last week, start now with Father John's Medicine. Don't take needless chances when this simple aid will help build strength and vigor. All druggists have it.

If You've a Lovely Forehead and Eyes, Expose 'Em to View

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Let's concentrate on the brow, today, since it is so much in evidence everywhere.

First, I want to tell you about a woman, one of those sort of sunk souls without any faith in herself, pictorially speaking. She recently fell into the beauty-operating hands of an observing attendant. Said the latter, one day, to her client: "Will you be good enough to tell me, Miss So and So, why you, of all people, and now when everybody else is exposing her forehead—why you choose to wear your hair down that way, covering up your very best asset? Why, your forehead and eyebrows are beautiful. And your eyes would be stunning if you didn't conceal them the way you do."

The woman said: "All right, you go ahead and fix my hair." That particular night she went to a dinner at which a noted artist was guest of honor. He said to his hostess: "I'd like to borrow Miss So and So's eyes, eyebrows, and forehead for something I'm working on now."

It just goes to prove that there may be most emphatic beauty in that part of the face that begins at the eyes. Now, I notice that eyebrows are being plucked at a lot, right now. Some, in their zeal, edge a little closely to the old pencil line of a few years back. You don't want that, but you do want your eyebrows to look as if you'd had a hand in their shaping, if you know what I mean, which you do, of course. They must look as if they'd been pruned, and shaped, and trimmed so that there is contour to the line. It is a little thicker in toward the nose and gradually trails off into a finely shaded line.

Look at yours, some time today, and see if you couldn't do something about their shape, yourself. If they couldn't be just a bit more "refined" looking, a bit more art-y, so to speak.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BILL H.: SNORING IS DUE TO an obstruction in the air passages. Often it is the result of neglected adenoids from childhood or chronic catarrh. Breathing through the mouth causes evaporation from the mucous membrane, making the mouth dry; during the night the wind whistles over the dry surfaces, which act as a sounding board.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Accepted Before Invited.

As my friend and I were walking along the street we met his aunt. We stopped and talked to her for several minutes. When we parted she said, pleasantly:

"You must come to see us sometime."

Wanting to appear quite proper, I sweetly thanked her.

She smiled kindly.

"Yes, you come over, too."

Never again will I thank any one for an invitation until I am certain it is meant for me. H. S.

Food Talk.

Mrs. J. K. writes: "Do you believe in waterless cookery? I have a new cooker and should like to know how to use it in the most satisfactory way."

I believe in waterless cooking for foods that are adapted to the conditions of this type of cooking. A cooker for waterless cooking necessarily has a tight fitting lid which holds in the moisture contained in the foods. This moisture which passes off in steam from the ordinary kettle is utilized in the cooking. It is true that a little water is used in these cookers, but when the cooking is finished there is no excess liquid.

Such foods as sweet and white potatoes, rice, macaroni, cereals, carrots, squash, dried beans, peas, and meats of all kinds are satisfactorily cooked in such cookers. Flavor is conserved in a fine way because much of the natural delicate aroma is held in by the tight fitting lid and none of the soluble minerals are lost in water that is ordinarily drained off vegetables. And this is a valuable feature.

These cookers, however, are not best for green vegetables and the so-called "strong juiced" ones. Green vegetables contain volatile organic acids that pass off with the steam. In a cooker with a tight fitting lid and where the boiling is not vigorous, the steam can not pass off but must condense on the lid and drop back onto the vegetable. The condensed steam carries with it the organic acid which when it comes in more direct contact with the chlorophyll of the partially cooked vegetable changing the beautiful green color of the chlorophyll to an unattractive dirty brown color.

The strong juiced vegetables like cabbage, brussels sprouts, cauliflower, onions, and turnips also contain volatile organic acids and when these can not pass off into the air but are held in by a tight lid they react chemically on the natural sulphurous salts within the vegetable. The sulphurous compounds that result are not so pleasant as the original salts and have a disagreeable odor.

We are all familiar with the unpleasant aromas that fill the house when onions, turnips and cabbage are coooked too long in a covered container. And, besides the unpleasant smell that one gets when vegetables are cooked in this way, there is always a discoloration which spoils the appearance—the pink color of cabbage, the brown color of turnips and onions we have all seen.

Some of the best vegetables and meat I've ever eaten [those that I've listed] were cooked in a cooker for waterless cooking and some of the most uninviting cabbage that I've tried but couldn't eat was so cooked.

Such cookers are ideal if used correctly. They are convenient for working women. Whole meals may be cooked in one vessel to save both labor and heat units. Yes, I'm for waterless cooking, but when it is abused I'm against it.

DATE BUTTERSCOTCH TAPIOCA PUDDING.

¼ tsp. salt.
2 cups hot water.
3 tbsp. butter.
6 tbsp. brown sugar.
¼ tsp. vanilla.
1 cup dates, chopped.

Cook tapioca and salt in water in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Melt butter in saucepan, add sugar and stir until melted. Add tapioca mixture, vanilla and dates. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven [350 degrees F.]. Serve with cream.

Constant Spanking Is Admission of a Parent's Failure

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Today's article is really carried over from yesterday's, which contained a letter about a father whipping his son with a riding crop in another's presence.

In another case we have the father showing his power by using his superior muscular strength, because he has no other kind of power over his two boys—no power of guidance, no power of understanding, no power of mental or spiritual or loving control.

One little phrase in his wife's letter shows that. "My husband punishes their misbehavior, which is frequent, by spanking." Notice "which is frequent," showing that the spanking does no good. They go on misbehaving—he goes on spanking.

In other words, he's a failure at managing them. And in his heart he knows it.

About all I can suggest to fathers like these two is: If you could see yourself you wouldn't like the picture. You're not really thinking of your son's good as much as you are venting your own temper, or irritation, or impatience, or covering up your own inadequacy. You're not showing respect to your child. You're taking an unfair advantage of him. You're not finding a permanent intelligent basis for dealing with him because when he's your equal physically you'll have to quit the whipping business—unless he's so broken spirited that he lets you do it.

You're living in the Dark Ages. As a memorandum of some of the things that parents want to be to their children the mothers' and fathers' litany might serve as a reminder and a summing up.

Puffed Sleeves Hint of Renaissance Days

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Sleeves continue to be self-centered in new Paris fashions. They simply refuse to relinquish the center of the style stage. There are short sleeves on dresses and long sleeves on coats that are designed to lend them variety. Some are puffed between the shoulders and the elbows—others between the elbows and the wrists, while some can't make up their minds between the two and take both.

Trailing, double puffed sleeves, that might have been worn by a great lady of Renaissance days, are the most striking feature of the Maggy Rouff evening coat sketched here. It is in jade green satin—jade green being Maggy Rouff's newest evening color. It is kimono cut and the sleeves are puffed by means of unpressed plaits, stitched at the drop shoulder line, just above the elbows and at the wrists. A simple scarf collar ties in front. The coat is straight and two-thirds length, the level of most of the smartest wraps worn in Paris and on the Riviera, now.

The jade green satin frock that accompanies this coat is made with an original three-tiered tunic over the plain skirt. It fastens on at the top by a narrow hip girdle that crosses in front and fastens under the top tier in back. The simple bodice is shirred on the shoulders and has a surplice décolleté.

Drink ORANGE JUICE and laugh at Colds

By Ask your doctor!

COLD germs are always lurking round; but they "get" you only when you're run down—when you have acidosis, or too much acid in your system.

You lack summer sunshine, garden vegetables and fruit. Advance the calendar by drinking orange juice. This health-giving beverage corrects acidosis; it supplies, in especially generous measure, the mineral salts and vitamins which you so badly need.

Science says, you needn't worry about colds if you'll drink a pint of "Seald-Sweet" orange juice every day. "Seald-Sweet" are the choicest of the sweet Florida crop. They contain one-quarter more juice than oranges grown in other sections.

Each one is proudly labeled.

Write the Florida Citrus Exchange, Tampa, Florida, for a free copy of the new Citrus Health Booklet with recipes.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Looking Back

SENATOR HALE SEEKS ACTION ON WARSHIP BILL

Fear No Action at This Session.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Passage of the $74,000,000 warship authorization bill at this session of congress appeared doubtful today.

Although majorities in favor of the measure adding one new cruiser, one aircraft carrier and four submarines to the United States fleet are claimed in both houses by its supporters, all efforts to get the bill up for early action in either the senate or house have failed.

The only hope for congressional approval of the bill now rests in the ability of Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the senate naval committee to get the warship bill up for action in the senate within the next week or two. House navy leaders announced today that approval of the lower body can be obtained speedily in event the senate passes the bill.

Radical Opposition Develops.

Efforts on the part of Chairman Hale to secure early consideration of his measure have proved unsuccessful. An appeal to the senate steering committee was made Monday in an effort to obtain a preferred place for the naval bill but this has not met with success. Radical opposition has also developed.

Unable to obtain aid from the steering committee, Chairman Hale today began rallying senate navy forces back of a movement to force action on the naval construction bill.

Reed Leaves It Up to Hale.

Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], one of the delegates to the London naval conference and a supporter of the $74,000,000 bill, does not plan to make any independent effort to get the bill up for a vote, he said today.

"The handling of the $74,000,000 bill is up to Chairman Hale," he said. "I am for it and hope it will be passed."

Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval affairs committee said today that he will await the outcome of the senate move to approve the naval construction treaty before pressing for house action. "We can pass the bill in short order, if the senate approves it," he said.

If the bill fails to pass this session the first step toward building up to the treaty will go over until the eve of the opening of the world disarmament conference called by the league for January, 1932.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

BOY SCOUTS TO TAKE PART IN PRIEST'S RITES

Members of the Boy Scout troops which he organized among the parishes of the Catholic diocese of Chicago last year will assist in the funeral services on Saturday for the Rev. Raphael J. Ashenden, head of the Catholic Youth association. The priest was killed in an automobile collision late Tuesday night in Northbrook, after he had attended a Boy Scout meeting at Techny.

RAPHAEL J. ASHENDEN.

Twelve selected Eagle Scouts, Cardinal Mundelein's guard of honor, will stand watch over the body of Father Ashenden while it lies in state in the Holy Name cathedral from tomorrow afternoon until the funeral at 10:30 a. m. Saturday. The 5,000 Catholic Boy Scouts will meet at the 122d Field Artillery armory, Chicago avenue and Fairbanks street, and march into the cathedral to pay their last homage to their leader. Scout color bearers will form lines down the aisles during the service. The guard of honor will accompany the body to Calvary cemetery and a Scout bugler will blow taps over the grave.

Bishop Bernard J. Shell, with whom Father Ashenden coöperated in the organization of the Catholic Scouts, will be in charge of the services. Pallbearers will be six priests, friends of Father Ashenden.

Theodore R. Keller Estate Is Valued at $1,276,198

An inventory of the estate of Theodore R. Keller, business man, who died on Sept. 6, was filed yesterday with Nuncio C. Bonelli, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. The inventory lists property valued at $1,276,198, including bonds at $1,029,000 and stocks at $209,335. The largest single holding is 2,115 shares of National Bank of the Republic stock valued at $154,395. Under the terms of his will Mr. Keller left one-third of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Jessie R. Keller, and the remainder to five children.

Orang-outang, Largest in Captivity, Dies of Flu

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 11.—(AP)—"Sultan," Giant $20,000 orang-outang and chief attraction at the Feishhacker zoo here, died today of influenza and pneumonia after a week's illness. George Bistany, director of the zoo, said the huge simian was the largest one of its kind in captivity and could not be replaced.

Ex-Legislator Werts Dies of Paralytic Stroke

Monmouth, Ill., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Everett L. Werts, former 33d district state legislator and mayor of Oquawka, died today after a paralytic stroke suffered last night.

RUGGLES ESTATE HEIRS OPEN NEW FIGHT ON WILL

Another legal battle over the will of the late Charles F. Ruggles, eccentric millionaire lumber man of Manistee, Mich., was started yesterday with the filing of a suit in the federal court at Grand Rapids to invalidate a trust estimated at from $6,000,000 to $50,000,000 bequeathed for educational and benevolent purposes.

The suit was filed on behalf of the Chicago Bank of Commerce, assignee of two heirs, Abbie Brundage, a niece, and Reginald Ruggles, a nephew, both of Michigan. Attorney Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court, counsel for the plaintiff, said the proceedings did not attack the special bequests of some $200,000 to heirs and employés, but attacked the construction of the trust, to be disbursed at the discretion of the trustees-executors, Ewald J. Pfeiffer and Charles MacPherson.

A suit brought by the heirs attacking the legality of the will on the ground that undue influence was exerted upon the 84 year old lumberman was unsuccessful in a Michigan court. The present suit was instituted in federal court because of diversity of citizenship. Attorney Olson contended that the discretionary powers of the trustees are too broad, that the testator's objects are uncertain, and that state perpetuity laws are violated.

JOHN C. BURNS, VETERAN OF '61, TAKEN BY DEATH

John C. Burns, 84 years old, a civil war veteran, died yesterday at his home, 1622 Farwell avenue. Mr. Burns was a graduate of the Cincinnati Law school and was one of the founders of the K. of P. in Ohio. His father, Barnabas, was an outstanding member of the Democratic party in Ohio during the civil war. He is survived by his widow, May. The couple had no children.

Dies 10 Days After Her 100th Birth Anniversary

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 11.— (AP) —Mrs. Janet Apple lived just 10 days beyond her hundredth brithday. On Feb. 1 she celebrated that anniversary surrounded by her six children. She died today. Until four weeks ago Mrs. Apple had done her own housework, but illness had prevented work for the last month. She came from Scotland in a sailing vessel in 1843.

Mrs. Ida M. Kimball, Widow of Steel Manufacturer, Dies

Mrs. Ida M. Kimball, wealthy widow of Edward D. Kimball, iron manufacturer and jobber, died yesterday at her home, 4825 Kenwood avenue, of a heart attack. She was 70 years old and childless. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the residence to Rosehill cemetery.

Dr. James N. Ellis, Noted Surgeon, Dies at Atlanta

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Dr. James Nimmo Ellis, 68, recognized for many years as one of the south's leading surgical authorities, died today.

A Matter of "Cold" Reasoning

To check a cold at the first sneeze breathe the delightful VAPEX vapor

EVERY one will admit that it is wise to prevent colds. Yet you seldom take precautions to keep from catching cold in germ-infested places. When you do catch cold, you often let it run its course.

There is a delightful inhalant that will take care of preventing colds and of relieving them, too, without fuss, or muss, or trouble. It is Vapex—the war-time discovery. Put a drop of it on your handkerchief—breathe the vapor—and you breathe your cold away. Use it at night at each end of your pillow. Use it in crowded places to avoid infection.

Vapex is the inhalant approved by Good Housekeeping. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It has never been successfully imitated. A single application of Vapex costs only 2c. For the $1 bottle contains fifty applications. Ask your druggist for V-A-P-E-X—the original inhalant discovered during the war.

JOSEPH F. BERRY, RETIRED BISHOP, DIES IN FLORIDA

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The Rev. Joseph F. Berry, retired senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, died at his home in Winter Park, Fla., today according to a message received by the Michigan Christian Advocate. He was 74 years old.

Bishop Berry began preaching in Michigan 57 years ago. He was an associate editor of the Michigan Christian Advocate and was later editor of the Epworth Herald. It was while he was serving in the latter capacity that he was elected bishop in May, 1904.

The funeral is to be held Friday at Winter Park.

At the time of his retirement members of the four districts of the Wyomong conference presented Dr. Berry with a $40,000 home, which he accepted on condition that it would become the property of the Preachers Aid society after the death of himself and Mrs. Berry.

Dr. Berry edited several song books, chiefly inspirational in nature, and was author of a book giving the history of the first four years of the Epworth league.

The Milwaukee bureau of THE TRIBUNE is announcing an elimination tournament in Milwaukee Feb. 26, 27 and March will be held in the St. Augustine Athletic club.

The Wisconsin athletic commission, at its meeting Tuesday, granted these bouts to St. Augustine. The matches will be held in the hall at South 14th and Boucher streets.

Milwaukee always has been known for its amateur boxers so it is certain the eight champions, which will come to at the Coliseum, will be among the best, and it would not be surprising if several Wisconsin boys made the trip to New York to show the east why they are the best in the country.

16 Will Qualify.

The Ashland boulevard tournament, Monday and Tuesday, will qualify two boxers in each of the eight weight divisions, for the Coliseum bouts. All contestants must report at the Ashland auditorium Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock to weigh in and for physical examinations.

At 8:30 the drawings will be made public and the boys who box Monday night will be announced. The first bout will start promptly at 7 o'clock.

Admission for this sectional tournament, as in all others, will be seventy-five cents. No seats will be reserved. A list of the entries will be printed in Sunday's TRIBUNE.

FIGHT AT DANVILLE

Danville, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—More than 2,000 packed the state armory tonight to see the second night's bouts in the Danville Commercial News-CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves boxing tournament.

Winners in each division will represent Danville at the Coliseum, Chicago.

DON'T DELAY

Tickets for the Golden Gloves boxing tournament are on sale at The Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street. Get your seats now if you plan to attend the world's biggest amateur boxing tournament. Delay means disappointment.

Champions from 15 cities meet Chicago's leading boxers at the Coliseum March 2, 3, 4. The winners fight at Chicago Stadium March 11 to determine the team which will represent Chicago against New York at Madison Square Garden March 30.

Tickets for the Coliseum bouts cost $1, $1.50, and $2. The prices at the Stadium are $1, $2, and $3. Orders will be accepted by mail if accompanied by check. Send application to Ticket Manager, Golden Gloves tournament, The Tribune, Chicago.

No Cheers, No Speeches for This Golden Gloves Seeker

BY HOWARD BARRY.

There's one young fellow out at Lawndale gym who will hear no cheers at Ashland Boulevard Auditorium Monday night, even if he knocks out his man in the first round of his battle for Golden Gloves. And he'll make no speech—not even a speech of acceptance if he wins a trophy in the final eliminations next month. That is because he's deaf and dumb, hearing not even the thud of his own gloves as they batter the jaws of an opponent.

He'll be down on the program as Merenn Kupis, and though his opponents frequently forget his name, they seldom forget his punch. When he's not fighting, Merenn works as an automobile mechanic. He's 22 years old and has been in the ring for about three years.

Chancy Crain's Back.

Chancy Crain is back again, all set to go after another place on THE TRIBUNE Golden Gloves team. He's grown quite a bit since last year's tournament, in which he thrilled thousands by the power of his punches and his gameness under fire.

But don't think that he's increased only his poundage. Since the night he became overaggressive and took an unexpected clip on the chin in the intercity bouts with New York, he's gained a heap of discretion. He says he's going in there this year to box with caution through the early stages and bide his time. Then when the opening comes—"Sock!" he'll cut loose with dynamite and there will be another fellow on the canvas—he hopes.

Pilots Ice Wagon.

Chancy took a vacation from the ring after the bouts last spring and went back home to a little downstate town called America. Along in June he became the skipper of an ice wagon, which would ply through the streets of Mounds, Ill., daily except Sunday.

Chancy saved enough on that job to carry him through the depression into which the ice business slipped with the coming of cold weather. But presently there came the call of another Golden Gloves tournament and Chancy couldn't resist it.

So just as he had done a year ago, he slipped out one morning, climbed into a freight car and came to Chicago. He arrived yesterday at the Lawndale gym, his old battle ground, where he will prepare for the bouts which begin next Monday night.

Came in Unknown.

Last year he hiked into town entirely unknown and went through his first fight on an empty stomach. He comes back this season with the reputation of being one of the hardest hitters in the central states. He earned that reputation in last season's tournament by putting every opponent on the floor at least once, and even in the intercity bouts he had his man down for the count of nine in the first round.

Chancy is confident of winning another place on the team, this time in the welterweight division. And after that—well, he has a bone to pick with these New Yorkers.

Anita Peabody Presents Reigh Count with Son—Mr. Futurity

BY FRENCH LANE.

The long anticipated heir of Anita Peabody and Reigh Count, first and second in the $120,000 Futurity at Belmont Park in 1927, has arrived at John Hertz's Leona farm near Cary.

It's a boy and his name will be Mr. Futurity.

The young fellow, almost an exact picture of his famous daddy, who was the American champion in 1928, was foaled on Monday. He has a coat of rich, deep sorrel, there is a star in his forehead, and he has the short quarters and straight legs of a natural distance runner, the same build, color, and markings of his sire.

No thoroughbred has been produced in American racing with a more picturesque background.

Recalls 1927 Futurity.

Let's go back to the autumn of 1927 at Belmont Park on Futurity day. It is the richest race run in this country and in 1927 drew into the competition one of the strongest fields ever to strive for the huge prize. In the parade to the post with Anita Peabody and Reigh Count were such turf notables as Victorian, Petee Wrack, Vito, Sun Beau, Sun Edwin, Scotch and Soda, Nixie, Algernon, Oh Say, Grouchor, Tuskegee, Excalibur, Agitator, One Hour, and Brooms.

Anita Peabody had been bred by Mr. Hertz and Reigh Count had been purchased by him, so they competed in the Futurity as an entry in the Hertz black and yellow jacket.

Anita Takes Lead.

As the field of nineteen tore away from the barrier and headed down the Widener straightaway of seven furlongs a flash of yellow and black was showing in front and the horse carrying it seemed to be flying. It was Anita Peabody. Back in fifth or sixth place was another flash of yellow and black. It was Reigh Count, just getting into stride, within striking distance of all those in the field except Anita Peabody.

The terrific pace made by Anita Peabody was too great for all those behind her except her running mate, Reigh Count. And when they were within a furlong of the finish Reigh Count moved into second place and came up alongside of Anita Peabody.

Then came one of the greatest dramas ever enacted on the race track between Jockey Chick Lang, who was riding Anita Peabody and Mack Garner, who was in the saddle on Reigh Count.

Mack in Dilemma.

It is the ambition of every jockey to win a Futurity, but Garner's instructions were to let Anita Peabody with Lang in the saddle win if she could. If she faltered he was to go ahead on Reigh Count and try to save the day.

A half furlong from the finish the two Chicago juveniles were running heads apart. Garner could see Anita Peabody's head a-bobbin' and he sensed that something was wrong. Something was wrong, for Anita Peabody, in her desperate dash for the Futurity glory, had developed a lameness that eventually ended her racing days.

"What'll I do, Chick?" shouted the desperate Garner to Anita Peabody's rider.

"Stay back, I think we can keep going long enough to win," Lang cried out to him.

Garner, who had never won a Futurity, sacrificed his greatest chance. He kept Reigh Count a head back of Anita Peabody until they went thundering past the finish line to claim first and second money.

Last Race for Anita.

It was Anita Peabody's last race of 1927. She made one start the next spring and won. The lameness developed in the Futurity came back on her and she was sent into retirement. Her mating with Reigh Count was delayed until the big red horse had won an American championship in 1928 and then had invaded England in 1929 to win a Coronation Cup and finish second to Imvarshin, the English champion, in the Ascot Cup, the field of which included the best distance runners in Europe.

BRUINS DEFEAT BROOKLYN PRO QUINTET, 18-15

Chicago's Defense Halts First Half Champions.

Brooklyn's Visitations, champions of the first half round in the American pro league, took an 18 to 15 defeat from the Bruins last night at Broadway Armory.

The easterners, who are also leading in the second half race, found their lead cut down to one game, and fans are conceding the Bruins an excellent chance for the title.

It was a battle from start to finish. Brooklyn was at the top of its game, but the Bruins seemed to be clicking more effectively in all departments.

The defense of the Bruins was so powerful that it wasn't until 19 minutes had elapsed in the first period that Brooklyn scored a field goal, this by Herlihy.

Bruins Lead at Half.

The Bruins led the Visitations, 8 to 7, at the end of the first half, on field goals by Miller and Kennedy and a pair of free throws by Wickhorst.

Wickhorst in the second half caged two field goals, the last of which clinched the game for the Bruins. It came with eight minutes to go and gave Chicago a 16 to 11 lead. Later Wickhorst caged two free throws.

In a preliminary game the E. F. Drivers easily defeated the Skokie Valley Reds, 28 to 18.

Lineup:

CHI. BRUINS [18].	B.	F.	P.	BROOKLYN [15].	B.	F.	P.

JOLIET, 35; FORT WAYNE, 31.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The Joliet Marmons defeated Fort Wayne of the American Professional Basketball league, 35 to 31, here tonight. Fort Wayne led, 21 to 15, at half time. The game was played in De La Salle High school gym.

Brown with 10 points and Mehalek with nine led the scoring for Joliet.

BLACKHAWKS AT OTTAWA TO PLAY SENATOR SEXTET

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks will arrive here tomorrow morning from Boston to pay the Senators their last visit of the current season and at the same time are plotting to take tomorrow night's hockey game from the local sextet at the Arena.

To date the Hawks have won two games from the Senators, chiefly because the pace set by their front line trios gets too hot for the local team after the first two periods of play.

Tomorrow night's game is the third and last of the Hawks' road trip, during which they have split even thus far by winning from the New York Rangers and losing a 2 to 1 decision to the Boston Bruins.

Ruth Made Defendant in $50,000 Mortgage Suit

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, king of swat in baseball, was made defendant in a real estate suit for $50,000 filed in Circuit court here today by attorneys for William J. McPherson of St. Petersburg. The attorneys said the suit was brought on default of payment of a mortgage on St. Petersburg property owned by Ruth.

Charles Dryden, Humorist and Baseball Writer, Dies at 74

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles Dryden, for many years nationally known as a Chicago baseball writer, died of paralysis yesterday in a hospital at Biloxi, Miss. He had been an invalid for almost ten years, during which he was confined to his home at Ocean Springs, Miss. He was 74 years old.

He became famous for the unique manner in which he reported ball games. Whenever possible he built his stories around an incident which struck him as humorous. He also was recognized as one who could pick a nick name for a ball player and make it stick. "Peerless Leader" for Frank Chance was one of his inventions. Of Ed Walsh he once wrote: "The only man in the world who can strut standing still."

Dryden became a writer through no desire of his own. He was employed in a foundry at Monmouth, Ill., and while thus engaged got into the habit of writing funny ideas that entered his mind. A friend, reading some of Dryden's sketches, advised him to quit the foundry and turn author. Dryden did so by writing several humorous books, one of which was titled, "On and Off the Bread Wagon." It was mainly a story of his own personal experiences.

A Narrow Escape.

He did a stretch as an ordinary seaman in the U. S. navy before the days of modern battleships. One of his pet stories about his days before the mast concerned a visit by his ship to a South sea island. Dryden, according to his own word, was grabbed by cannibals. They carried him off, laid his head on a stone and a big fellow with an enormous club prepared to finish the job.

As the executioner held the club aloft ready to bring it down Dryden looked up and said, "Say, pard, what's your batting average." It never happened but it made a good story.

In his wanderings Dryden became stranded in Galveston, Tex., and could conceive of no way to get away. Having a natural love for the sea he drifted down to the wharves and encountered a youth who, as a cabin hand of some kind, had just reached port. The kid wanted to know what kind of a place it was and Dryden informed him it couldn't be beaten. The youth promptly abandoned ship Dryden then went aboard and applied for the job.

How to Get a Job.

When Dryden decided he would be a writer he went to San Francisco. He was hanging around a newspaper office when a big fire broke out. There being no regular reporters available, Dryden was assigned to cover the blaze. He wrote a funny piece about what he had seen. He neglected to mention that several firemen had been killed. But the story made such a hit with the bosses that Dryden was a regular from then on.

Another one of Dryden's stories that never grew stale by recounting involved a Frisco Chinaman. The fellow was crossing the street and his queue dropped into a cable car slot. The queue caught on the cable and the Chinaman went whizzing up the street. He made the entire route and upon getting back to the spot where the perilous adventure started he was released when a butcher, who had witnessed the mishap, severed the queue with a cleaver.

PAYNE LEADER IN INTERSTATE SHOOT TOURNEY

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Gus Payne, Oklahoma City amateur, twice clay target champion of the United States, today placed first in all events of the third day's program of the twenty-seventh annual interstate trap shoot here.

In the morning he cracked a 99 to take high place in the classification 100. Sam Jenny, Highland, Ill., finished second with 96 to beat Jean Pope of East Moline, Ill., and E. F. Woodward of Houston, Tex., who tied with 95 for third place.

In the afternoon Payne captured both the interstate cup races, shooting out a field of 82 amateurs in the flyer event after an extra session, and scoring a 94 to take possession of the target trophy. Jenny again trailed in the target cup competition with Frank Troeh, Portland, Ore., and Fred Ludington of Wauwatosa, Wis., tied for third place.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 11.—(AP)—George Pipgras, New York Yankee pitcher, underwent an emergency operation for acute appendicitis late today and tonight was reported resting comfortably.

STECHER GROANS, PLESTINA GRUNTS AND FANS YAWN

Joe Overthrows Marin in Battle of Bellows.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—The Billy Sandow herd of western wrestlers this evening muscled into the New York territory, pioneered and developed by Jack Curley and his herd, and the wrestling war was on. The overt act was performed in the armory of the 69th regiment in comparative quiet, but there were enough witnesses on hand to prove that the thing happened, anyway.

The Sandow interests did not produce their heavyweight champion, Mr. Ed Don George, the football player from the University of Michigan, but did reveal once more Joe Stetcher, the old occasional champion, who used to belong to the Curley herd but was run off by some rustlers from the Sandow interests who altered his brand and kept him. Stetcher wrestled Marin Plestina, the old human street car, and beat him after 26 minutes of effort with a scissors hold. The customers shouted suspicious remarks at times.

Athletes Poorly Groomed.

Altogether, Sandow's keepers showed ten head of stock weighing about 2,800 pounds. Pat McGill, an Irishman, beat Al Baffort of the University of California, Jack Sherry beat John Spellman, who claims that Brown university made him what he is today, Stanley Stasiak beat John Grandovitch, and Boris Demitroff, an old prime minister of Bulgaria, was still wrestling with Count Zarynoff, the former commander in chief of the Russian armies, at a late hour.

Jim Londos, who is Curley's heavyweight champion of the world, sat by and sneered.

It must be said that the boys of the western wheel in their first presentation in New York since the customers turned from the fights to wrestling out of spite, did not exert themselves to surround their entertainment with splendor. The athletes came into the ring wearing soiled and shabby bathrobes, and their trunks and tights were faded and raveled and dotted with moth holes, besides which the performers themselves seemed not too recently washed.

Among Those Not Present.

Among those who could not be seen from a ringside seat were Alfred E. Smith, Flo Ziegfeld Jr., Col. Lindbergh, Gen. Pershing, and Prof. William Lyon Phelps of Yale.

John Spellman's chest was covered with a deep growth of buffalo fur.

"Billy Sandow has promised to give me that one when he is through," said Mr. James Johnston, the ex-officio chairman of the prize fight commission. "I'm going to make a rug. And did you know that if you take one of these wrestlers and slit his tongue you can teach him to say words almost as well as a parrot? They are remarkably intelligent, and Sandow states that all these sounds which they utter in their stirring contests have some meaning. When they gobble like a turkey, that means something."

How Plestina Works.

It was about this point that Plestina sat down over a large area and, picking up Stecher in his arms, began to play him like a concertina, swaying his head and his own very interesting torso to the weird moaning rhythm of Stecher's sighs. Suddenly, running off a roughish trill with a quick play of his stump but sensitive fingers along Stecher's ribs, he folded him up, threw him away, and jumped to his feet, bending his nude scalp almost to the floor in a series of graceful bows to the customers on all sides of the ring.

Mr. Johnston came down to the ringside again later and criticized a child of 4 in a seat in row 1, who was shrilling, "This bout is a lot of baloney!"

"You're a cheap fourflusher," Mr. Johnston shouted, shaking a trembling finger in the young customer's face. "You sit here and yell cheap cracks about men who could toss you through the side of the building with a fair referee. I'll give you five hundred dollars if you can get into that ring

BULLETIN.

The team of Letourner and Guimbretiere early this morning took the lead in the six day bicycle race at the Stadium. Richili and Grimm were pushed back a lap, and Linari and Belloni two laps.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Richili and Grimm seem to be kidding the other riders in Chicago's twenty-fifth six day bike race. They keep bouncing up and down during each evening's riding but when the business agent of the bike artists' union comes around at the close of each night's earnest effort they are to be found right up there in the No. 1 spot.

At that they haven't been able to josh Linarj and Belloni very much, for while Emil and Bill resume the technical lead as a result of their points they find the two Italian stars tied with them in mileage. Such has been the situation for the last three early morning reckonings. And there's always a third team, shifting as to personnel in the mileage tie. This morning it was Letourner and Guimbretier.

Red Devils Thrill Fans.

Despite the persistence of the Richili-Grimm and Linari-Belloni combinations, their riding was mainly defensive, and real thrills being supplied by the French red devils, who staged a shocking fadeout Tuesday night by dropping from first at 8 o'clock to eleventh at midnight.

Last night they experienced a remarkable revival. Starting at 9 o'clock they stole two laps in successive jams and from 9:21 to 9:30 stole another lap in one jam and two more in a single jam that followed immediately. They kept up their terrific maneuvering until they were leading the race alone at 10:20 but relented somewhat and were happy with the triple mileage tie for the lead when Lincoln's birthday arrived.

Richili and Grimm in addition to continuing in the lead also led all the riders in sprint points, a most unusual condition for this stage of a six day race. Usually one of the trailing teams steams up for sprint points to camouflage its deficiency in the mileage but Richili and Grimm, both sprinters by trade, have tolerated no such reputation bolstering so far in the present competition.

Georgetti Close Up.

At midnight the second flight had only one tenant, the team of Georgetti and Brocardo, winners of the last New York race, who were only one lap behind the three leading teams. The third flight was composed of three teams, Spencer and Hill, Walthour and Walthour, and Buschenhagen and Kroschel. The last named did their best riding of the week.

There were few serious spills, although a total of 110 laps were stolen and there was more than the usual amount of in and out riding.

C. A. A. Gives Up Competition with Outside Teams

The Chicago Athletic association, once noted for powerful teams and individual athletes which sought honors throughout America and in the Olympic struggles in Europe, will no longer engage in outside competition.

The famous C. A. A. track team was disbanded several months ago. Other athletic teams, which carried the Cherry Circle banner to so many triumphs were also discarded. Only the C. A. A. hockey team and its water polo team remained in the field for outside competition this year.

Directors of the C. A. A. at their meeting this week decided to abandon these sports as far as competition with rival organizations are concerned.

"It became a question of whether we were to branch out, organize teams for every division of competition and regain our old time athletic prestige or abandon outside activities entirely and confine our athletics to our own club house for members and sons of members," D. B. Gann, the new president of the C. A. A., said last night.

"We decided against sending teams or individual athletes out into the competitive field, but athletic activities of our members and their sons will in no way be limited. They will continue to engage in just as many forms of athletics as ever among themselves in our club house."

The Cherry Circle hockey and water polo teams will be disbanded at once.

SILVERDALE WINS MIAMI FEATURE; RACOON SECOND

Favorite Peto Runs Next to Last.

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—E. B. McLean's Silverdale, carrying 125 pounds, ran the mile in 1:38 4-5 to win the Magic City handicap, feature at Hialeah Park, Miami, today. He went to the front early and set a fast pace, but was driving hard at the end. Racoon was second and William T. third Peto, which has run some fast races here and was well played, failed to finish in the picture, pulling up next to last.

Baltimore Takes Claiming Event.

Stetpping up a notch in competition, F. Eaton's Baltimore easily defeated a field of high class claimers in the Corral Nuevo purse at Oriental park.

J. H. Loucheim's Maybe set a slow pace for the greater part of the mile and one-sixteenth and finished a distant second with third going to Evening Sky from the Paradise stock farm.

The race was run over a track fetlock deep in mud—the worst condition the strip has been in during the meeting. As the result Baltimore's time was 1:57 4-5.

Burgoo Wins Wyoming Purse.

Burgoo, a consistent three year old from E. R. Bradley's stable, came through with an easy victory in the U. S. S. Wyoming purse at the Fair Grounds, New Orleans.

Breaking fast under the alert W. Cannon, the Bradley color bearer showed the way to the finish line to beat J. Bulluing's Civollag by one and one-half lengths. The time for the six furlongs was 1:13.

SUES MANDELL FOR KANE'S SHARE OF SINGER PURSE

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Catherine Allen of Chicago, administrator of the estate of Eddie Kane, fight manager, asked the Supreme court today for a judgment of $17,753 against Sammy R. Mandelle [Sammy Mandell], lightweight boxer.

The papers alleged that Mandell, as a result of a match on July 17, 1930, with Al Singer, received a purse of $64,030. Half of this under a contract, it was charged, belonged to Kane.

Kane received but $14,280, the papers declared.

Bodkin Makes Statment.

Teddy Bodkin, lifelong friend of Sammy Mandell and his present manager, said last night Eddie Kane had been paid $1,598 more than his share of the purse Sammy received for his title fight with Al Singer last July. According to Bodkin, Kane always had taken one-third of Mandell's earnings as his compensation for arranging matches.

Mandell is whitering at Daytona Beach, Fla.

ZAHARIAS AND LONDOS HEAD COLISEUM CARD

Promoter Doc Krone is rounding up the pachyderms of the mat for his next show at the Coliseum Wednesday night. Jim Londos meets George Zaharias in the windup. Kola Kwariani will be pitted against Mike Romano in one of the supporting numbers. The rest of the card has not been arranged.

LONDOS PINS GARIBALDI.

New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Jim Londos, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling title, threw Gino Garibaldi, Italy, after 34 minutes 20 seconds of hard wrestling at Ridgewood Grove tonight. Londos brought the match to an end with a crotch and head hold.

Harvard, Princeton Renew Dual Relations in Rugby

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 11.—(AP)—For the first time since 1926, Harvard and Prinecton will meet in a dual sports event. A home and home agreement was concluded today for two rugby games this spring, one to be played at Cambridge on April 4 and the other at Princeton on May 9.

CUB PREXY TELL RADIO FANS TEAM'S CHANCE

He Speaks His Mind That New Ball.

There's no reason why Rogers Hornsby can't play 154 games at second base for the Cubs this season . . . Bob Smith is one of the outstanding righthanded pitchers of the National league. . . . Charley Root will be as good as before his ankle failed him last midseason. . . . The fans like the hitting game and freely ball should be retained.

The above, and other matters, were expressed from William Veeck, Cub president, when Announcer Bob Elson filled him with questions last night on the first of a series of "fanning bees" over W-G-N. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

"I had a talk with Root when he was in California last month," said Veeck, when asked about the condition of the speedballer's arm. "Yes, Root went home last fall he was advised by the doctors to take a complete rest. He's done that. He has even played golf. He said the ankle hadn't bothered him. He also told me he's a bit heavier, but that won't hurt him."

Sees Smith as Regular.

Referring to Smith, who was released from the Braves, Veeck said the newcomer was being counted on as a regular pitcher.

"Smith not only is a pitcher of an excellent fielder and a good hitter," he said. "Smith was good enough to play an infield position in the major leagues, so he naturally is what we can call a fielding pitcher."

Announcer Elson asked Veeck to tell the fans what he thought would develop in the next National league campaign.

"There'll be five teams in the race," answered the Cub chief. "Of course I am including the Cubs. Brooklyn appears to have added the greatest strength. They'll have O'Doul in the field, which was one of their weak spots. Everybody knows what O'Doul did to us last season."

Veeck also had a good word for Charley Grimm, whose fate has been in doubtful because of the Cubs' efforts to buy Jim Bottomley from the Cards.

Calls Grimm Ideal.

"Grimm is the ideal type of baseball field," said Veeck. "He is a good organizer and hustler. He does a lot of work in the pinches with his head. Nobody can field with him. If there is a man who can do better, he should get Grimm's job, but just now I don't know how to find that man."

When asked his opinion of the Cubs' ball Veeck really warmed up. He declared the public likes the "pure" game in sports. He cited the popularity of Jack Dempsey and Notre Dame's football teams as examples. He mentioned that with the ball which has been in use in recent years no game was over until the last man was out.

CUB PREXY TELLS RADIO FANS OF TEAM'S CHANCES

He Speaks His Mind on That New Ball.

There's no reason why Rogers Hornsby can't play 154 games at second base for the Cubs this season, Bob Smith is one of the outstanding righthanded pitchers of the national league. . . . Charley Root will be as good as before his arm ailed him last midseason. . . . The Cubs like the hitting game and the dead ball should be retained.

The above, and other matters, were mentioned from William Veeck, Cub president, when Announcer Bob Elson called him with questions last night in the first of a series of "fanning bees" over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel.

"I had a talk with Root when I was in California last month," said Veeck, when asked about the condition of the speedballer's arm. "When Root went home last fall he was advised by the doctors to take a complete rest. He's done that. He hasn't even played golf. He said the arm hasn't bothered him. He also told me he's a bit heavier, but that won't hurt him."

Sees Smith as Regular.

Referring to Smith, who was purchased from the Braves, Veeck said the newcomer was being counted on as a regular pitcher.

"Smith not only is a pitcher but an excellent fielder and a good hitter," he said. "Smith was good enough to play an infield position in the big leagues, so he naturally is what you can call a fielding pitcher."

Announcer Elson asked Veeck to tell his fans what he thought would develop in the next National league campaign.

"There'll be five teams in the race," answered the Cub chief. "Of course, I am including the Cubs. Brooklyn appears to have added the greatest strength. They'll have O'Doul in left field, which was one of their weak spots. Everybody knows what O'Doul did to us last season."

Veeck also had a good word about Charley Grimm, whose fate has been doubtful because of the Cubs' efforts to buy Jim Bottomley from the Cards.

Calls Grimm Ideal.

"Grimm is the ideal type on the ball field," said Veeck. "He is an organizer and hustler. He does a lot of work in the pinches with his bat. Grimm can field with him. If there is a man who can do better, he can get Grimm's job, but just now I don't know how to find that man."

When asked his opinion of the new ball Veeck really warmed up. He declared the public likes the "punch" in sports. He cited the popularity of Jack Dempsey and Notre Dame's football teams as examples. He mentioned that with the ball which has been in use in recent years no game was over until the last man was out.

WHY DO YOU WANT TO KNOW IF MY HUSBAND IS A BIG OR LITTLE MAN, KAYO?
WELL, ME BRUDDER MOON ALWAYS SAYS A NEW NEIGHBOR'S JEST SO MUCH MORE TROUBLE TO HIM, MRS. ROODLES. AND HE LIKES TO GET A LINE ON 'EM BEFORE ANYTHING HAPPENS. ME OLD MAN WAS ALWAYS LIKE THAT HISSELF.
HE WAS A GREAT FIGHTER, TOO. HE FOUGHT JIM JEFFRIES, WHEN JEFFRIES WAS IN HIS PRIME— PAW SPILLED A TRAY FULL OF GRAVY ON MR. JEFFRIES VEST AND OH BOY! DID HE GET MAD? THEY BROUGHT THE OLD MAN HOME ALL WRAPPED UP IN HIS APRON TILL HE LOOKED LIKE A MUMMY. AND I'M QUITE A FIGHTER MESELF.
MY, MY! I WONDER IF SUCH GENIUS IS HEREDITARY.
AW, I DON'T KNOW MRS. ROODLES. I AIN'T GOT ANY CHILDREN.

WEST SIDE BOYS TO OPEN GOLDEN GLOVES QUEST

cago, March 2, 3, 4, where champions from fifteen cities will fight for a place on the Chicago team which will face New York. The results:

Charles Holderby, Decatur, won from Melvin Howell, Grape Creek, forfeit 112 pounds. At the end of three rounds the bout was declared a draw, but Howell was found to have a broken bone in his hand and was unable to go a fourth round.

Porgie Wilson, Danville, took a four round decision from George Glenn, Danville, 118 pounds.

Sylvio Guiliani, Georgetown, knocked out Walter Shaffer, Westville, first round, 126 pounds.

Fred Steffani, Westville, defeated Lewis Paulson, Alvin, decision, three rounds, 135 pounds.

Jackie Parker, St. Bernice, Ind., won from Steve Chasten, Champaign, decision, three rounds, 147 pounds.

Jose Griskell, Georgetown, outpointed Zano Gaitus, Westville, three rounds, 160 pounds.

George Shields, Danville, kayoed Frank Markunas, Westville, second round, 175 pounds.

CHAMPION IS DETHRONED

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 11.—[Special.]—One 1930 champion was dethroned by a former flyweight tonight in the quarter finals of the News-Times Golden Gloves tournament when Joe Veney won a decision over Jack Milan in the lightweight class. Eight boxers were victorious on knockouts, while two won on technical knockouts.

The best bout of the night came in the lightweight division when George Toth outpointed Kip Wilkins, Niles. Wilkins was saved from a knockout by the bell at the end of the second round, and came back to slug Toth on even terms through the third round. Results:

FLYWEIGHT—John Nate stopped Tony Garlat [2]; Frank Bodish stopped Zoley Horvath [1]; Steve Halaiko beat Oscar Trudeau [3]; Charles Christianson, Elkhart, stopped Dan Simon [1].

BANTAMWEIGHT—Dave Miller, Niles, stopped Louis Nemeth [2]; Albert Carroll stopped Donald Shenenberger [1].

FEATHERWEIGHT—George Engel, Plymouth, beat Stephen Goll [4]; George Van Der Heyden beat Homer Slack, Edwardsburg [3]; Charles Chase, Elkhart, stopped Harry Fetters, Edwardsburg [2].

LIGHTWEIGHT—Joe Veney beat Jack Milan [4]; George Toth beat Kip Wilkins, Niles [3].

WELTERWEIGHT—Joe Nate stopped George Smith [1]; John Szekendy stopped Junior Harris [1]; Walter Karmolinski beat Louis Szabo [3]; George Veney stopped Louis Gedoy [1].

MIDDLEWEIGHT—Emery Nemeth beat Jack Williams [3]; Verne Wilkins, Niles, stopped Roman Gray [2].

Here Are Two Amateurs Who Learned the Ring Game Young

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Imagine two little boys, one 5 and the other 4, knowing how to use a pair of boxing gloves. Call on Mrs. Shrosbree and she'll show you a set of little battle scarred mittens once worn by her sons, George and Robin, who are now quite grown up and who have entered in the lightweight division of the Golden Gloves tournament.

"O yes, I like to see them fight, and I do everything in my power to help them," said Mrs. Shrosbree. "I personally watch and prepare their food to see that they get the proper diet. My husband, an ex-prize fighter, is their instructor, and between the two of us we see that the boys keep pretty strict training.

"Of course, the most important thing right now is their education. Robin, who is the better student, is studying civil engineering, while George, the older of the two, wants to be a football coach. However, their father and I want them to be happy, whether it is boxing, coaching, or playing.

Likes to Watch Them.

"I'm glad they are fighting for the Golden Gloves, because these tournaments are so much fairer than club fights. The boys are fighting opponents of their own weight, instead of some one heavier or lighter than they."

"You bet," said the father and manager gruffly, "I can tell whether the kids are yellow or holding their own."

"Well, you see, with four other children to take care of, I don't find much time to worry about cauliflower ears and bruises," Mrs. Shrosbree said laughingly. "I don't think boxing is any worse than football, though."

"Sure, if they had any sense, after what I taught them, they could at least keep out of the other fellow's way, even if they couldn't win," said their father at the wrong minute.

"Now, pa, you know perfectly well those boys don't have to keep out of any one's way. It's always the other way around," was Mrs. Shrosbree's comeback.

School Comes First.

"Many wonder why we don't let the boys take up fighting as their vocation," said Mr. Shrosbree, "but I was a fighter once, and I know that you last just so long in the game. After that, you are through. You've got to step aside for the younger fellows. And I want my kids, if they have to go to work at something besides fighting, to know things, to have a chance.

"Fighting is fun when you are young, and you have years ahead of you. But, when you start slowing up and the two mile run in the morning makes you feel tired, that is when you begin to sort of envy the fellow with the office job, who doesn't depend upon strength, but brains. And that is why ma and I want the boys to have schooling. It is a chance for them to get ahead of the game."

AMERICAN ICE CHIEFS HOPE FOR 10 CLUB LEAGUE

Officials of the American Hockey league left Chicago yesterday for home after a two days' meeting at the Morrison hotel in which plans were launched for extending the circuit into eastern territory next year with the ultimate view of having a 10 club league. Attendance figures submitted by the secretary showed considerable increase, it was announced. The Kansas City club alone was reported as $30,000 ahead of last year's gate receipts at the same period of the season, an increase largely attributed by William F. Grant, owner of the Pla-Mors, to the presence in the league of Chicago and Buffalo.

The only disappointment of the year is Minneapolis, it was said.

THREE K. OF C. CAGE TEAMS PLAY TONIGHT

South division teams in the Knights of Columbus Basketball league will play three contests tonight at Fenger High school. Santa Maria, leading the division, will meet San Salvador, while Genoa plays Ridge for second place. Garcia Mareno vs. St. Philip Neri will open the card.

The games are being played tonight in order to shorten the schedule that the league championship round may open March 22 at the Coliseum. Next Thursday night the west division will play at the West Side clubhouse.

right now and stay more than fifteen minutes with Stecher."

Wrestlers Poor But Honest.

The child ignored Mr. Johnston and the cry, "That's a lot of baloney," continued.

It is thoroughly understood, of course, that Mr. Johnston, the ex-officio chairman of the prize fight commission, is not legally permitted to promote any bout or bouts, but rather oddly, it was Mr. Johnston who knew the extent of the gate receipts.

"About $3,500," he said; "it is a very modest beginning, but then these boys—I was almost on the point of saying our boys—are not relying on any spectacular effects to win the customers. They are poorly garbed, as I note you have said, trusting you will pardon me the liberty of peering at your dispatches, which I much admire for their fine intelligence, the rippling play of wit, and the admirable fair play, but remember that rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake. These boys are honest wrestlers."

After the main contest the large, sloppy foreigners with about three-eighths of an inch of forehead between them, climbed into the ring and began to slap one another in the face with terrible fury. One was Stanley Stasiak of Poland and the other was John Grandovich of Russia, or vice versa.

Battle Rages Furiously.

After ten or fifteen minutes of this they went to the mat together and wallowed across the floor roaring horribly and so closely mingled that Stasiak found himself spanking his own pants brutally and yelling in Polish, "Let go that ear, you dirty Russian." He seemed thoroughly confused and when he plunged to the mat an instant later Grandovich ran over and kicked him on the back of the skull. This cleared Stasiak's head at once.

"I wish," Mr. Johnson said, dropping down to the ringside again for company, things being rather lonely way back there beyond the fifth or sixth rows, "I do wish we could get the public educated up to ladies wrestling bouts. They have them over in New Jersey from time to time and when those ladies get in there sportsmanship yells for police protection."

Simrall's Luck on Gridiron Same in Liquor Raids

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The same kind of luck which made Capt. Jimmy Simrall the "scoreless wonder" of the Michigan football team for three years brought him into the hands of the law in connection with police liquor raids on fraternity houses, say his close acquaintances.

Time after time on the gridiron Simrall took a forward pass or circled en end to place the ball on the one yard or two yard or five yard line. On every occasion something happened to prevent him from scoring—a desperate shoestring tackle, a slip in the mud. A star backfield man for three seasons and captain of the Big Ten co-champions his last year, Simrall never scored a point.

As a campus leader, Simrall has vigorously opposed drinking by students. His intimates declare he never has been known to drink any illegal beverage. But Simrall lives in a fraternity house which was raided by police early today and in which police reported finding liquor. Friends say, "It's just Simmie's luck."

RIVERSIDE BEATS DOWNERS GROVE FOR 9TH IN ROW

Riverside-Brookfield High heavyweights continued to set the pace in the West Suburban league last night, scoring their ninth straight victory by defeating Downers Grove, 32 to 11, on the winners' floor. The Riverside lights made it a pair by trimming the Downers Grove ponies, 38 to 24. August Jeschke featured for the Riverside heavies with ten field goals and three free throws.

Medill and McKinley divided a double header on the former's floor, the home lights hanging up the highest lightweight score of the City league season by winning, 51 to 19, while the McKinley heavies evened the program with a 26 to 24 decision. Senese featured for the winning heavies with 15 points. Capt. Varelas, Batie, and Kantor supplied the major portion of the Medill lights' title.

Schurs heavyweights, led by Peterson with eight points, invaded Senn for a 29 to 26 victory, but the home lights turned back the Schurz ponies, 18 to 16. Smith counted 13 points for the Senn heavies.

Hinsdale and Glenbard divided a West Suburban league bill, the former's lights winning, 25 to 21, and the Glenbard heavies taking a 25 to 21 battle.

Bowen's heavyweight quintet journeyed to Lockport for a 24 to 19 victory. Haarlow led the attack with four field goals and two free throws, while Celmer contributed eight points.

Austin and Lane track teams divided a dual meet at the Tech gym yesterday, the former's senior team winning, 55 to 30, while the home juniors divided the program with a victory, 36½ to 31½.

ROSS ROBINSON BETTERS 5 MILE SKATING RECORD

Piles Up 60 Points in Ice Championships.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Ross Robinson, Toronto, Canadian national champion, was the favorite tonight to win the North American amateur speed skating championship. He skated the five mile race here today a second under his own world's record, to pile up 60 points for the two days of competition, 20 more than his nearest rival, Ray Murray, New York, with only two days of racing remaining. He won the mile yesterday.

The five mile race was the only senior event run today. Irving Jaffee, New York, placed second and O'Neil Farrell, Chicago, third.

Orel Duffy, Toronto, in the juvenile group today hung up his second mark in two days by winning the 220 yard dash in 22 3-5 seconds. Yesterday he set a new record at 440 yards. Eddie Stundl, Chicago, in the intermediate group, shaved four seconds from the old mark for the half mile to finish in 1 minute 20 3-5 seconds.

Stundl now leads the intermediate group, James McCarthy, Saranac Lake, tops the juniors, and Duffy is far ahead of the juveniles. Senior standings:

Ross Robinson, Toronto, 60.
Ray Murray, New York, 40.
O'Neil Farrell, Chicago, 30.
Frank Stack, Chicago, 30.
Irving Jaffee, New York, 20.

RISING MARKET PULLS PEOPLE BACK TO BROKERS

Crowd La Salle St. Houses to Watch Tape.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Brokerage houses were filled to capacity in the financial district yesterday as an increasing number of people began to evince interest in the market's rising tide. Stocks here continued to show unmistakable signs of strength, although scattered pre-holiday profit taking tended to retard the advance.

On the Chicago exchange leading shares pushed ahead again, with the utility issues pointing the way. The most spectacular advance of the day was scored by nsull Utility, which whirled up 3⅝ points as a harassed short interest attempted to cover.

Despite the increasing interest shown in the market by the public, the extent of its participation remained a matter of some doubt. Brokers and market observers generally leaned to the belief that the spectacular show of strength in the last few days has been due more to covering on the part of short sellers, both amateur and professional, than to any considerable increase in public buying.

Await Holding of Advance.

That the public would participate in larger numbers if the advance is sustained was not questioned. The prospect of any immediate increase in public participation hinges on the market's ability to consolidate and hold its gains, it was felt.

The majority of the gains chalked up ranged between one and two points. In this class was included Middle West Utilities, Corporation Securities, General Theaters and Castle corporation. Moderate irregularity prevailed in the motor group, where both gains and losses were largely fractional. Total sales for the day were 340,000 shares, the biggest turnover since Dec. 17.

Further evidence of the widening distribution of industrial stocks generally and particularly utility shares is furnished by the figures released yesterday by Samuel Insull.

Mr. Insull stated that since stock purchase rights were authorized late in 1930 by three of the largest companies in the Insull system the number of stockholders of these concerns has increased substantially.

Increases in Holders.

Since the middle of December the number of stockholders of Commonwealth Edison has gained by more than 3,500; Peoples Gas Light and Coke company stockholders have increased 5,000, and Public Service of Northern Illinois has added 5,500 more holders of its stocks.

All the stock offered under the rights by the three companies has been subscribed for, Mr. Insull stated. Because such offerings had first to be offered to existing stockholders and were always subscribed for in their entirety the new stock offerings previously had not increased the number of stockholders of the companies, Mr. Insull said.

"The stock subscriptions recently terminated were an exception, in that a number of stockholders found it desirable to sell their subscription 'rights' in order to raise cash for immediate personal requirements," he said. Stockholders who did not wish to exercise rights sold them to Utility Securities company, which, in turn offered them to the public.

The combined operating revenues of the three companies showed a gain in 1930, Mr. Insull added. Each of the companies also reported a gain in income available to dividends.

GOOD OMEN IS SEEN IN SLIGHT BUSINESS RISE

Compare Start of '31 with 1922.

Security and commodity markets throughout the country will be closed today in observance of Lincoln's birthday. Banks and many other business houses will also be closed. The Chicago Live Stock exchange will remain open, however. The weekly report on bankers' loans by the federal reserve board usually issued Thursday will be released tomorrow afternoon. The statements of condition of the federal reserve banks will be made public Saturday morning instead of Friday morning as is customary.

BY O. A. MATHER.

It wasn't so long ago that financiers and business men alike were hoping for an upward turn in the stock market in order to inspire cheerful sentiment and so improve business. But now that the stock market has advanced rather sharply, they are warning against any runaway movement in the stock market that may outrun improvement in business and produce a relapse later.

The changed point of view may appear to be something of an anomaly, but it is based on common sense and good logic bred of experience. Their general line of reasoning is epitomized in the current CHICAGO TRIBUNE survey.

"The first month of this year brought no astounding changes in the tide of business activity," it says. "After a grueling depression was getting heavily on commerce, there was no reason for expecting the dawn of a new era in January. True, there was a quick improvement in 1930, when the upturn began, but it was not revived. Our highest reasonable hope for 1931 were that improvement would get under way before the year had gotten far along but that when the improvement came it would be lasting.

Affords Basis for Enthusiasm.

"It seemed likely that there would be no abnormal stimulation of business and that the recovery must start slowly and inconspicuously, continuing its gain at a disappointingly slow gait, gaining adherents only as it went, but finally convincing most quarters of its genuineness. But comparison of last month with January, 1922, a year of brilliant and sustained improvement after a severe depression, affords a basis for moderate enthusiasm.

"The steel industry, stock market, and other measures of business activity fluctuated last month much as they did in the first month of 1922. With employment and earnings, the situation was probably better than nine years ago. Although caution rules in business, here and there an increase of confidence is observable. For the reasons given and from the precedents cited, the slight improvement in January is considered a favorable omen. We have had as much progress as could be expected by this time of year if 1931 is to prove to be such an unusually satisfactory year as 1922 was."

Hopes that trade and industry will resume a measured upward course in the next few months, without artificial and abnormal stimuli, were expressed by two Chicago bankers yesterday.

On Talking About Business.

"We shouldn't talk business up or down but let it take a normal course," Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, said. "Last year there was so much pessimism and too much talking business down. Conditions have improved recently and sentiment is more cheerful but we will make haste, although more gradual, progress if we do not become excessively enthusiastic and try to talk business up."

"It is to be hoped that business will improve gradually and steadily in the next few months, without any false stimulants and consequent relapses," Frederick H. Rawson, chairman of the First National bank, said. "It is also to be hoped that there will be no interference by politics and legislation. In fact, it might be a good thing if congress could take an extended vacation. The main thing that the country needs is to be let alone in order to regenerate normally and lastingly. We have the basis in better sentiment and improving conditions, and these should not be interfered with."

Steel Improvement.

Further improvement in the steel industry is noted in the mid-week review, despite sectional irregularities. "Bankings as a whole have registered another slight gain." Iron Age says. "Steel ingot output has made further advances at Chicago, Youngstown and in the east and for the country at large now averages 50 per cent of capacity, compared with 48 per cent a week ago. In general, steel makers are adhering closely to a policy of rolling products in close step with actual releases.

"Orders from the automobile, agricultural equipment, road machinery and machine tool manufacturers are gradually increasing. Highway construction is in the incipient stage and much structural steel work and pipe line tonnage is pending. The gain of 5 per cent in the rate of raw steel output in January reflected a recovery from industrial suspensions in the latter part of December."

Ogden L. Mills Anticipates "Unfavorable" Bonus Turn

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—A hint that the soldiers' bonus situation at Washington might take a more unfavorable turn within the next forty-eight hours than Wall street has anticipated was dropped by Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, in an address today at the Bond club.

OGDEN L. MILLS.

Voicing the administration's disapproval of proposals for furnishing war veterans with cash, Mr. Mills said the situation was "sufficiently serious" to justify consideration of it. Then he added:

"I am sorry to say that while you have heard much in the last few days about these proposals, you are going to hear much more in the course of the next forty-eight hours, and I am not entirely sure that the news is going to be as good as you might have anticipated from the statements which have appeared in the press and which have indicated that perhaps congress was going to consider them in a temperate and sensible way."

Treasury Faces Big Deficit.

With many of the leading bankers and bond men of New York in his audience, Mr. Mills discussed the probable effects of bonus legislation involving a large bond issue, frankly stating that he did not believe the treasury was in a position to undertake any financing aside from its current operations and that a bond issue of a billion dollars or more could not be floated except at unjustifiable rates.

"In my opinion," he asserted, "I do not believe we could float a billion dollar issue and sell it to new buyers at less than 4 per cent, or a billion and a half dollars at less than 4¼ per cent."

He declared the treasury now faces a deficit of approximately $500,000,000 at the end of this fiscal year, largely because of increased expenditures for federal works undertaken in an effort to help solve unemployment.

Mills pointed out that at the turn of the year there was a gradual return of confidence which was interrupted when the country "suddenly realized that congress was seriously considering the borrowing and distributing of huge sums," with the result that bond prices broke abruptly.

"If only the threat of additional federal bond issues could be removed," he added, "we would begin to see almost at once a growing stream of investment funds, which, transformed into capital expenditures, would lay the foundations for a gradual business recovery."

Sell U. S. Securities Again.

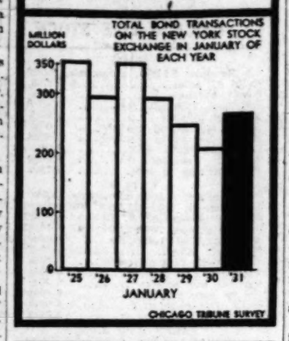
New York, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Liquidation was resumed in United States governments in the final hour today and long term treasury issues reacted from 3-32 to ⅝ of a point.

Selling orders poured into the market at a rapid rate in the last half hour when virtually all of the day's trading was done. The turnover was the largest of the week, amounting to approximately $2,184,000, which is comparatively large for government securities on the stock exchange.

The wave of selling followed the speech of Ogden L. Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, before the Bond club.

Since the decline which followed the original bonus proposals was halted Feb. 2 governments have moved upward, but were dormant most of today. In the final hour more than $1,000,000 long term treasury bonds were sold. The 4¼s sagged ⅝, 4s lost ⅛, and treasury 3⅜s dipped ¼. Treasury 3⅜s sagged 7-32. Liberty fourth 4¼s, which were firm in the early trading, reacted ⅛ to close 3-32 net lower in the largest turnover of the group—$862,000.

BOND TRADING ON THE STOCK EXCHANGE WAS HEAVIER LAST MONTH



ATTACKS ON CAPPER BILL ARE CONTINUED BY GRAIN INTERESTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Attacks on the Capper bill to extend the power of the secretary of agriculture over trading in grain futures were continued before the senate agriculture committee today by the presidents of the St. Louis and Kansas City Grain exchanges.

J. W. T. Duvel, chief of the grain futures administration, said, however, the proposed regulation would not "destroy" the exchanges, but would provide a needed limitation to excessive speculation.

A. V. Imbs, president of the Merchants exchange of St. Louis, told the committee that if additional restrictions were enacted exchange activities "will be transferred to foreign countries."

"To place such power in the hands of any individual supported by government authority is dangerous legislation," he said, adding that it would restrict trading because "this authority which can be exercised at any time will stand in the offing as a threat to a free and unhampered market in which no one will care to risk his business ability, reputation, or money."

Frank A. Theis, president of the Board of Trade of Kansas City, asserted the legislation would "make the secretary of agriculture practically a dictator of the marketing of grain."

Officials of both exchanges were cross-examined by committee members. Senator Norris [Rep., Neb.] said:

"What gamblers make some one else loses. There is no wheat involved. They merely make a bet."

Senator Capper [Rep., Kas.], author of the grain measure, contended virtually all exchanges now were operating "wide open, with unlimited opportunities for short selling."

Explains New Device to Reduce Electrical Costs

BY SCRUTATOR.

A group of several hundred engineers yesterday heard C. W. Stone, consulting engineer for the General Electric company, explain in terms that were very nearly understandable to a mere layman just what may be expected of that startling new device, the thyratron. His talk was made at the afternoon session of the Midwest Power Engineering conference in the Stevens hotel.

In the broadest terms, this device may a few years from now cut the cost of electrical energy transmission to such a degree that reductions of rates will be in order. Mr. Stone did not say that; he only explained what the thyratron is and what it has been accomplishing in the laboratory.

It is a tube somewhat like the one in the radio set. It is an envelope of glass from which the air has been exhausted and replaced by another gas. Within it are three electrodes, the cathode, the anode, and the grid. It is about the size of a red fire extinguisher in a hallway and looks a little like one.

Control Current Flow.

What it will do, if laboratory indications are borne out in actual use, is to make possible to transmit all electric energy, when it is so desired, as direct current, and to change this direct current back into alternating current at will by using the thyratron in another connection.

As Mr. Stone put it, the thyratrons are one way devices and by their use the amount of current flow is controllable.

With a direct current system the amount of power flow from any generator is easy to control by the voltage of the generator. With alternating currents the amount of power flow can be controlled only by the governors of the prime movers, the mechanical power makers, in the generating station.

For engineering reasons that have prevailed heretofore alternating currents have had to be used in spite of the disadvantages in transmitting them. One of these disadvantages, according to Mr. Stone, is that the weak spots in transmission cable insulation are much more likely to break with alternating current. There is thus an ever present danger, in the continuing interconnection of power systems, of breakdowns.

Voltage in direct current could be raised greatly, Mr. Stone said, in the existing transmission lines. With properly connected thyratrons, he asserted, it would be possible to transmit 50 per cent more power through such lines without raising the voltage, and to transmit at least three times as much by raising the voltage, and with no loss in safety.

Cites Vast Possibilities.

Another virtue of thyratrons is that they enable utility operators to connect up generators of different frequency and to feed them together into one power stream of the same characteristics. Further, they can be substituted for high voltage switches, it is claimed, and Mr. Stone offered the suggestion that the saving in switches and in cost of generating stations alone would justify the rather high present expense in installing the thyratrons.

Mr. Stone urged that the tubes would have to be tried out in actual conditions before they could be properly appraised. Costs of transmission circuits themselves, he said, should be only half or less than they now are.

There are vast possibilities involved in this new bit of engineering, which has occupied years of the investors' time, he said. It may conceivably lengthen out the maximum economic distance through which electricity now can be transmitted. As one of the engineers remarked, the thyratron may make a great deal of present utility equipment obsolete; but the thorough tests of its value are yet to be made.

Holiday year ago.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 11.—They took the lid off the bubbling stock market again today and let it blow off some more steam. It was the fourth successive day of the bull barbecue and a long line of standard issues were swung up 1 to 10 points to new price tops for the year.

Outbreaks of realising and professional selling occurred to mar the show from time to time, however, and a general round of profit taking in the late trading on the score of the holiday recess clipped the tops off most of the more active issues. Final figures reflected gains of from 1 to 3 points among the pivotals and the rank and file of secondary descriptions with a number of the more sensitive specialties towering as much as 10 points above their starting points.

Volume Is 4,700,000.

NEW YORK LIFE HEAD TO RETIRE TO BOARD PLACE

New York, Feb. 11.—[Special.]—Darwin P. Kingsley, the Vermont farm boy who worked his way to the presidency of the New York Life Insurance company and for nearly a quarter century guided that vast institution with its billions of assets, will retire from that office to become chairman of the board of directors. He has been president since June, 1907.

Mr. Kingsley is 74 years old, and his health, although not impaired seriously, is not strong enough for the tasks imposed by one of the biggest jobs in the commercial world.

Thomas A. Buckner, vice president of the New York Life, who celebrated his fiftieth anniversary of service with the company in April, 1930, will be elected to the presidency to succeed Mr. Kingsley. He started as a boy in insurance in Illinois and, like Mr. Kingsley, worked his way through every branch of the New York Life business to the top.

EASTMAN KODAK DECLARES USUAL EXTRA DIVIDEND

New York, Feb. 11.—Eastman Kodak company today declared its usual extra dividend of 75 cents on common in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1.25.

Inauguration of dividends on General Theaters preferred is part of the plan of reclassification of the company's oustanding stock through which one-third of a share of newly created $3 cumulative dividend convertible preferred and two-thirds of a share of common were offered in exchange for each voting trust certificate representing common stock outstanding at the time of the offer. The preferred stock, on which dividends have just been inaugurated, will be convertible into common stock on the basis of four-fifths of a share of such stock for each share of preferred. It will be subject to redemption at $52.50 a share.

SET JAN. NET OF MILWAUKEE ROAD AT $611,000

According to preliminary estimates of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific Railroad company for January gross revenues will be about $9,400,000, as compared with $11,488,640 for January, 1930. The net railway operating income will be about $611,000, as compared with $669,535 for January, 1930.

The Chicago and Alton showed a net operating deficit of $211,687, compared with net operating income of $61,599 for the corresponding month of 1930.

The Southern Railway showed preliminary net income of $9,126,512, equal to $4.72 a share on the common, against $18,128,787, or $11.65 a share, in 1929.

Favors Early Passage of Bill on False Bank Rumors

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The house banking committee went on record unanimously today in favor of immediate passage of the Brand bill to make it unlawful to circulate false rumors causing runs on federal reserve banks. The committee directed Chairman McFadden to seek a special rule or a suspension of rules for consideration this session of the bill which already is pending before the house. It has the indorsement of treasury and federal reserve board officials.

The bill would include state members of the system as well as national banks. A fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for one year would be provided for violators of the law.

Continental Shares, Inc., Reports Asset Shrinkage

The annual report of Continental Shares, Inc., the Cleveland Eaton-Otis investment trust, shows an indicated shrinkage in investments for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1930, of $30,105,430. Securities carried at cost of $147,899,348 had a market value on Dec. 31 of $117,792,917. Income from dividends and interest during the year amounted to $5,097,566, and net profit on the sale of securities was $1,824,498, making an aggregate of $7,022,064 before giving effect to depreciation of securities held. Income covered all expenses, federal taxes, and preferred dividends.

A Way To Simplify Your Income Tax Problems

A classified statement of the income from your securities, ready for your income tax return, automatically comes to you each year if the securities are in an Agency Account with the Trust Department of this Bank. In addition, a detailed statement of all transactions is furnished you regularly at such other periods as you designate. U. S. GYPSUM SHOWS GAIN IN 1930 EARNINGS

An increase in earnings in 1930 of the United States Gypsum company was shown by the annual report issued yesterday. Net profit, after all charges, last year amounted to $5,408,685, compared with $5,102,304, an increase of $306,380.

The 1930 earnings are equivalent to $4.01 a share on the 1,212,598 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of the year after provisions for the dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock. The earnings were equivalent to $4.15 a share on the average number of shares outstanding during the year. In 1929 the net earnings equaled $3.98 a share on the 1,149,290 shares outstanding at the end of the period.

During the year the company expended $4,433,018 for plant additions, including $2,898,328 for acquiring new properties, for which capital stock was issued to the amount of $2,672,458 and $316,870 was paid in cash.

Commenting on the prospects President Sewell L. Avery said: "Although the immediate outlook for an improvement in building is not encouraging and a slow recovery is indicated, the position of the company as to properties, products, distributive facilities and organization, justifies the expectation of a reasonably satisfactory year for 1931."

Executive Wanted

One of the largest corporations in America, selling its products through retail grocery outlets is seeking the services of an executive between the ages of 30 and 36. Applicant should be experienced in merchandising and selling, and must have reached a position where he is now earning a salary of not less than $5,000 yearly. It is the plan of this corporation to employ such a man, training him in retail sales work and eventually placing him in an executive capacity commensurate with his ability. Those who fail to meet ALL of the above requirements will waste time by answering this ad. Replies held strictly confidential.

RESOURCES OF 7,038 NATIONAL BANKS ARE $421,001,000 HIGHER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Resources of the 7,038 national banks in continental United States, Alaska and Hawaii on Dec. 31 totaled $28,799,784,000, an increase of $421,001,000 over the Sept. 24 totals.

The announcement made by John W. Pole, controller of the currency, said the amount reported Dec. 31 was $32,799,000 less than the resources of 7,049 national banks at the end of 1929.

Total deposits on Dec. 31 aggregated $22,871,646,000 and showed increases in the three and twelve months period of $390,329,000 and $98,153,000, respectively. Included in the total deposits on Dec. 31 were demand deposits of $10,438,790,000 and time deposits of $8,727,430,000. Deposits evidenced by savings bank books totaled $6,166,360,000, representing 15,798,806 accounts.

Paid in capital stock of the reporting associations was $1,722,159,000, a decrease of $22,966,000 in three months but an increase of $17,686,000 in the year. Surplus funds of $1,548,364,000 and net undivided profits, excluding reserve accounts, of $515,973,000, or a total of $2,064,337,000, showed a decrease of $114,907,000 since September, 1930, but an increase of $18,918,000 in the year.

Loans and discounts, including rediscounts, on Dec. 31 amounted to $14,362,039,000 and showed decreases since Sept. 24 and Dec. 31, 1929, of $291,039,000 and $788,007,000, respectively.

Investments in United States government securities of $2,654,836,000 showed a decrease of $162,319,000 in the three months period but an increase of $42,749,000 in the year.

The percentage of loans and discounts to total deposits on Dec. 31 was 62.79, in comparison with 65.18 on Sept. 24, 1930, and 62.52 on Dec. 31, 1929.

WHEAT SELLING BRINGS REVERSAL OF PRICE TREND

New Crop Months Close 1¼@1½c Lower.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Denial of rumors that a revolution had broken out in Russia and the development of a heavily overbought condition resulted in general selling in wheat yesterday. The market reversed its action of the previous day, the new crop months breaking 1¾@2¼c from Tuesday's close with the finish at net losses of 1¼@1½c. The July was 70c and September, 69¾@69¾c. Old crop months were unchanged to ⅝c lower with March, 79⅝c, and May, 82⅝c.

At the high point Tuesday July wheat at Chicago showed 6⅞c above the low of last week, and it took but a little selling to start the market downward, many of the local element being long. With a holiday ahead there was a general disposition to even up. The break was assisted by pronounced weakness in Winnipeg, and by the decline in corn, while the support came largely from holders of bids and in sympathy with the strength in the stock market.

Winnipeg Leads Decline.

Messages from Winnipeg indicated that longs in wheat in that market were somewhat overextended. Considerable profit taking developed, with prices at the inside off around 2¼c from Tuesday's finish with some stop loss orders uncovered on the way down. The finish was 1¾@1⅞c lower.

Owing to the material advance which has taken place of late, Manitoba wheat has gone to a large premium over grain from other countries which has curtailed the demand to a considerable extent. Russia was reported to have sold 1,100,000 bu wheat to Europe during the day, largely to the United Kingdom. A good business was reported as having been done in Argentine and Australian grain. Liverpool closed ¼@⅝d lower after selling at a new high on the present movement early in the day. Buenos Aires was ½c lower at the last in the face of an advance of ½c in the exchange rate.

Corn Market Weaker.

Corn prices were on the downgrade from the start. While there was buying at times in sympathy with the strength in the stock market and by holders of bids the finish was within a fraction of the inside figures with net losses of 1⅜@1⅝c. March closed at 65c; May, 67⅝@67½c to 67⅝c; July, 68½@68⅝c, and September, 68⅝@68¾c.

A liberal reduction in the visible supply of oats is generally anticipated by the trade to be shown in Monday's statement. Stocks at Minneapolis have been reduced 400,000 bu so far this week, and 540,000 bu which have been afloat at Toledo are to be unloaded. Futures weakened on scattered selling induced by the decline in other grains and closed ⅛@⅝c lower with March finishing at 32¾c; May, 34@34¼, and July, 32⅝c.

Scattered liquidation developed in rye early in sympathy with wheat. The close was 1@1¼c lower with March, 39½c; May, 41¼c, and July, 42c.

CLOSING RALLY IN COTTON

Cotton prices started higher yesterday on strength in Liverpool cables, which closed up 10@11 points, with spot sales of 8,000 bales. American markets advanced early but reacted sharply for a time only to work irregularly higher and finish at a few points under the best prices of the day. There were net gains on futures in Chicago of 7@11 points, with other markets up 7@13 points, New York being the strongest. Spots in New York advanced 10 points to 11c, with New Orleans up 5 points to 10.85c, or the same as Houston, and Galveston was up 10.70c.

New Orleans will be closed today and also on Mardi Gras day, Feb. 17. Consumption of cotton in January as estimated by the New York Cotton exchange was 456,000 bales, against the census report in December of 408,000 bales and official returns in January, 1930, aggregating 576,000 bales.

Farm work is said to have made good progress during the last week and ideas as to the planting suggest a reduction of around 15 per cent in acreage in Texas and Oklahoma and from 5 to 10 per cent in Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A downward reaction in wheat prices was in line with the ideas of most traders, who expected a selling movement and an evening up for the holiday. Traders said, however, that the markets showed considerable resistance to selling pressure, with the offerings well absorbed on breaks. Wheat prices have moved up about 10@11c from the seasons low and increased offerings are to be expected on all sharp upturns.

Corn traders are more divided in their opinions. Increased offerings by the country, as a result of the recent bulge, has made those inclined to be bearish more positive of their positions. They also make the point that corn held at interior points is being offered more freely, holders desiring to liquidate their winter shelled grain as fast as possible, which is expected to increase the movement from interior to terminal markets. There are many bulls, however, who are backing their faith by buying futures on every weak spot.

LARD PRICES OFF SHARPLY

A fair run of buying made a firmer market for lard early yesterday, investment buying and also featuring the trading. Values were stronger for a time, only to meet increased offerings toward the last by packers hedging and the prices declined to the lowest level of late and closed at the bottom with net losses of 27½ to 30 cents on futures. Bellies, however, were firmer and 5 to 10c higher. Liverpool lard was 9d to 1s higher. Export clearances of lard were 1,007,000 lbs and of bacon 66,500 lbs. Cash trade was fair. Prices follow:

Personal, Property, and Salary.

HOUSEHOLD LOANS
$50 TO $300
ON PLEASANT TERMS

The Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate almost one-third lower than the lawful maximum.

Strictly confidential—no inquiries of friends, relatives, or tradespeople.

The only signatures required are those of husband and wife. No endorsers.

Interest is paid by the month and charge is made only for the actual number of days the money is in use. There are no fees or fines.

ROME, Feb. 12.—In the la at Cicero and the imperial Pius XI., Roman pontiff, in his voice today, by radio bro wished the whole world the pe
Jesus Christ and gave it the ap benediction "pro urbis et orbi

His address, in Latin, lasted utes, and with its deliverance augurated the new Vatican station which was built by Guglielmo Marconi on top of hill, once an Etruscan fortres

The pontiff's words were ad to "all creation, to God, to th iastical hierarchy of religious to missionaries, to the faithful fidels and dissidents, to gover to the rich and poor, to worke employers, and to the sick flicted."

Quotes Words of Scriptur

With the world of the faithfu
ing in, the pontiff in his mess minded them that he is "succe the prince of apostles by de God" and rejoiced that Sig. M instrument had enabled him t words of scripture saying:

"'Hear, O heavens, that shall say, and listen, O earth, words of my mouth.

"'Listen, all people, lend m ear, all you who inhabit the united towards the same end the rich and the poor. Hear, O and listen, O distant peoples.'

Praises Radio Invention

Pope Pius thanked God for in our day the power to make heard to the ends of the ear addressed first all Catholics church hierarchy, whom he to greater solicitude in the their flocks. Words of encour were then directed to the missi whom the pontiff apostrophi
"strong soldiers of Christ."

To the faithful the pope heart went out to them as to infidels and dissidents, to w said he prayed that light may so they might return to the tr

listeners through the sonor intricate Latin sentences.

the pontiff, seated before th
phone for the first time in pilfying room of his new wir tion, spoke with great emotio said he considered the occas realization of his dream of th sality of his church and his cise of sovereignty in his of St. Peter.

It was for this reason that
